The Soul of Wit.
Twelve to Six.
These Twins Not Siamese.
Our Trouble Is Sin.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ALICE Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, will make one campaign speech, in Indianapolis, October 17, advocating the election of President Hoover, of course. She is a "good Republican."

She will hardly make a shorter speech than one made by the daughter of former Gov. Smith, when he ran in 1928. Miss Smith said: "I hope you will all vote for father," and said no more.

Mrs. Longworth might say:

"My father would vote for President Hoover."

That would be ONE word shorter than Miss Smith's speech

THE GREAT event of 1932, in the estimation of millions of Americans, started yesterday, when the Yankees of New York beat the Cubs of Chicago by 12 to 6 on a muddy field.

Baseball is definite, if you understand it. It has its heroes, their names known to millions. Politics is vague, with candidates instead of heroes. Forty thousand paid to watch Babe Ruth and the others yesterday. How many would pay to hear any or all of the candidates?

DAISY AND Violet Hilton apply for naturalization papers in Chicago. You are surprised to learn that, born in England, they are the ladies known to the world as "the Siamese Twins."

Some circus man had a good idea, "Siamese" added a great deal to those twins. They would be entitled presumably to two votes.

ACCORDING TO the Rev. Dr. Henry P. Van Dusen, dean of New York's Union Theological Seminary, our depression came, not because we are paying for the big war, not because of overproduction, the wickedness of public utilities, or the unloading of tens of tens of millions of shares of stock representing nothing in particular.

The whole trouble is SIN.

"Wholesale, unabashed, ruthless sin" is what ails us, according to Dr. Van Dusen. We have offended God by not believing in Him.

What a reverend doctor says must be true, but you wonder whether all the millions idle, all the children suffering, have sinned sufficiently to deserve what is happening to them.

A CABLE dispatch from Paris to Cyrus H. K. Curtis announces that "plans for a new study of the war debt" arouse enthusiasm in French financial and other circles. The French are delighted to learn that many members of the "war debt com-

YANKEES DEFEAT CUBS IN SECOND BATTLE OF WORLD SERIES

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—The New York Yankees, champions of the American League, made it two straight when they defeated the Chicago Cubs, champions of the National League, in the second battle of the 1932 world series here this afternoon.

The series will be resumed in Chicago Saturday.

Manager Grimm made two changes in the Cubs' starting lineup. Jurges went to shortstop and Demaree played centerfield.

As was announced yesterday, Lonnie Warneke started on the mound for the Cubs, and Vernon Gomez for the Yankees.

The Cubs got away to a one-run lead in the first inning. Herman led off with a double, went to third as Crosetti threw high to first on Cuyler's bounder, and scored on Stephenson's fly to Combs.

The Yankees, however, forged to the front in their half. Combs and Sewell each drew a walk. Warneke fanned Ruth in the clinch, but Gehrig singled to right, scoring Combs and sending Sewell to second. After Lazzeri had fouled out to Hartnett, Dickey came through with a single off Grimm's glove, scoring Sewell.

The Cubs tied the score in the third inning. With two out, Stephenson doubled past Ruth and scored on Demaree's single to left.

The Yankees broke the dealock in the third. Ruth started the two-run rally by drawing a walk and advanced to second on Gehrig's single past Herman. Lazzeri was thrown out by Jurges, the runners moving up. Dickey was purposely passed to fill the bases and Chapman followed with a single to score Babe and Lou.

The Yankees increased their lead in the fifth when Gehrig got his third straight hit, a single past Herman, went to second on an infield out and scored on Dickey's single to right.

The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

CUBS—Herman up. Strike one, swinging at a curve. Herman drove a double down the third-base line.

English up. Ball one, low. Ball two, inside. Strike one, called. Foul, strike two, into the screen. English hoisted to Combs.

Cuyler up. Ball one, inside. Cuyler bounced to Crosetti and was safe on the young shortstop's fumble, Herman stopping at third.

Stephenson up. Ball one, inside. Foul, strike one, into the dirt. Strike two, called. Gomez threw to first. Stephenson popped to Combs, and Herman raced home after the catch. Cuyler remained at first.

Demaree up. Ball one, inside. Strike one, called. Foul, strike two, into the upper deck. Ball two, wide. Demaree flied out to Ruth. One run. One hit. One error. One left.

YANKEES—Combs up—Strike one, called. Ball one, low. Strike two, swinging. Foul into the screen. Ball two, inside. Foul into the upper deck. Foul into the screen. Ball three, outside. Combs walked on a fourth wide pitch.

Sewell up—Ball one, outside.

PINCHOT SLICES COUNTY LOAN

Allegheny County today was the loser as Gov. Gifford Pinchot defied the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and allocated its loan, ear-marked for Allegheny and two other counties, to nine Pennsylvania counties. Allegheny gets $300,000—$90,000 less than requested—for food orders only during the month of October.

Other Western Pennsylvania counties to receive R. F. C. money include Washington, $10,000; Westmoreland, $25,000; Fayette, $35,000; Erie, $20,000. Another $100,000 goes for establishment of further milk stations throughout the state.

Pinchot pointed out that, in receipting for the money, he did not agree to use it only in Allegheny, Philadelphia and Northampton counties as the federal government specified.

Ted Shawn Battles Manager in Court

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Ted Shawn, who, with his wife and dancing partner, Ruth St. Denis, established the Denishawn School of Dancing, has asked an injunction restraining Jacques J. Vincent from interfering in his engagements.

Vincent claims he entered into an agreement last April by which he became Shawn's manager for three years. Shawn says the agreement terminated in May.

'Roosevelt as Strong As I Am,' Says Tunney

PARIS, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, addressing the American Club at a luncheon today deplored what he called a "whispering campaign" against Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee in the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt's strength in the torso, arms and shoulders, he said, "is every bit commensurate with my own."

He described Mr. Roosevelt as "a man with a soul, which is America's present need."

BANDITS SHOOT WAY FROM TRAP

ALLEGAN, Mich., Sept. 29.—(INS.)—Six bandits who held up the First State Bank of Holland, and shot the Holland police chief and a pedestrian, escaped from a swamp near here today, shooting their way through a cordon of state police.

In the general melee the thugs stole a second car and fled east. One of the bandits was believed to have been wounded. He was seen to slump to the floor of the car as pursuing state police cruisers swept it with rifles.

An airplane from Holland was following the course of the robbers' flight.

The thugs forced 16 officials and customers of the bank to lie on the floor while they scooped up $12,000.

As they fled, a gun battle ensued in which Chief Peter A. Lievense, 50, and Peter de Jongh, 64, were shot down.

Frost Here Tonight, Brotzman Predicts

Exposed places in Allegheny County's countryside will be covered with a light frost tonight, Weatherman W. S. Brotzman said today. Except to some of the more delicate flowers, the frost will not be harmful, he declared.

In the city the lowest temperature will be about 44, Brotzman said, while in unprotected places it may drop to about 35 or 36 degrees. The weather will remain fair and continued cool today with a rising temperature tomorrow.

Wharfmaster M'Bride Ends Life With Pistol

Veteran Employe of City Found Dead By Watchman

In a shack on the Monongahela wharf which served as his office, Edwin McBride, 50, city wharfmaster, early today fired a fatal bullet through his right ear, the Coroner's office reported.

He was seated in a chair, his feet on a bench, an open newspaper at hand, when he was found by a city watchman, Louis Direnzo.

For 38 years McBride had worked for the city in various jobs. He lived, with his wife and two children, in Excelsior street. At his home today it was said his health had been poor for seven years.

GUN MISSING

Homicide detectives first reported McBride's death as probably due to a hemorrhage. This was because they failed to find the revolver and because a thin trickle of blood had issued from the ear.

But the detectives and the Coroner's office announced later that Direnzo had admitted finding the revolver near the body and placing it in a cupboard. Direnzo was in no way implicated with the firing of the pistol.

IN WHARF DISPUTE

There was one indication, if slight, that McBride had contemplated the act. Two weeks ago

Parole Saves Paul Walsh From Jail

Paul Walsh, the police superintendent's son, who was sentenced a year for election law violations, was paroled today by Judge Davis W. Henderson, of Fayette County.

Walsh was pictured by his attorney as a married man who from now on will seek a lievlihood outside of political realms.

Refusing to hear a roomful of character witnesses, Judge Henderson, after he had announced his decision, said he was swayed more by the jury's leniency recommendation than anything else.

Sol Klein, former fireman, convicted with Walsh, received a suspended sentence.

The parole was opposed by Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk. On the bench with Judge Henderson were Judges Thomas M. Marshall and J. Frank Graff.

Following Walsh's election as First Ward constable, he was found guilty of forging registrations. He married shortly after appealing the case.

Later, he resigned as constable, paid a $300 fine and filed a petition for a parole.

Four others, besides Walsh and Klein, were found guilty in the same case.

Jean Harlow Asks Bern Estate Letters

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—A petition for letters of administration of the will of the late Paul Bern, self-slain motion picture executive, was filed yesterday by his widow, Jean Harlow, film actress. Bern bequeathed his entire estate to the actress and named her sole executrix and administratrix to act without bond.

DAVIS WITNESS TELLS OF CHECK

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—A district organizer of the Loyal Order of Moose testified today that "everybody knew" the source of a $150,000 check handed to Senator James J. Davis after a prize drawing at Mooseheart, Ill., in January, 1931.

Senator Davis is on trial for violation of the federal lottery laws, the government contending that as director-general of the Moose he must have known that lotteries were conducted in connection with the Moose charity balls of 1930 and 1931.

Previous witnesses have told of a prize drawing in connection with one of the balls on January 3, 1931. They said Davis was not present at the drawing, but was at a luncheon held afterward, at which a check for $150,000 was

Kaye Don's Bride Sails to Husband

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Mrs. Kaye Don, modish, brunette bride of the British speed demon, sailed on the Berengaria last night to join her husband and embark on a honeymoon.

The bride, formerly Miss Eileen Martin, 21-year-old society girl, of Greenwich, Conn., will be met by Don at Cherbourg and they will take a wedding trip to Paris and Lake Como, after which they will be at home in London.

OTHERS FACE OUSTER IN SHAKEUP

A. M. Marion, Former Coal Dealer, Gets Appointment

Paul B. Riis, director of county parks, has been dismissed as the first move in a reported shakeup said to involve several highly paid jobs and a number of smaller places on the county payroll.

Following an all-day conference of the County Commissioners yesterday, it became known today that Riis, under fire in the investigation of the former county regime, would be relieved of his $8,000 job October 1. In his place, Alexander M. Marion, former coal dealer, 400 Richland lane, has been named.

LORENZO MAY GO

Joseph Lorenzo, former head of the landscape department under Riis, also named in the county probe as maintaining on his premises a greenhouse in which county labor and materials had been used, is slated to go, according to reliable reports.

Charles Mazon, chief clerk in the old highways department, also is listed for dismissal. It is said, his job to be eliminated and the duties to be taken over by Nicholas Stabile, chief accountant in the old department of public works.

Other minor jobs are to be wiped out or the holders replaced, bearing out the prediction of Chairman C. C. McGovern, of the Board of County Commissioners, that "the old public works department will be out of existence by the time snow flies."

The changes are expected to be effective October 1.

MARION RUNS FARM

Riis' successor, Marion, a native Pittsburgher, has operated a farm in Western Pennsylvania for the past 20 years.

Riis made named Director of Parks December 19, 1927. He came to Pittsburgh from Rockford, Ill., where he was superintendent of parks.

The new Director of Parks began his business career as a clerk in the Pennsylvania Railroad. He advanced to the position of assistant general superintendent of freight transportation. He resigned in 1915 and organized the Chartiers Creek Coal Company, and later the Chartiers Supply Company. He served as president of both companies until 1928.

Pitt's Song of Protest Ridicules Pledge

The handful of "conscientious objectors" to the University of Pittsburgh's law-loyalty pledge today had a song of protest. They gathered in Alumni Hall yesterday and crooned it aloud.

The pledge, signed by all except one of the Pitt students, was part of this year's registration procedure.

The "army," totaling four, would never "go over" on the radio, listening students agreed. A "ringer"—Injun Faleder, a Tech student, sang basso.

Local pride in the university prompted one comment that a fourth Pitt student could have been made available, even if he were a freshmen forced to perform the rite.

The words, set to the tune of "You're in the Army Now," are:

You're in the Cathedral now,
You have to sign a vow,
You'll raise a stink if you have to think,
You're in the Cathedral now.

You're in the Cathedral now,
You have to sign a vow;
You'll go out on your head if we think you're Red;
You're in the Cathedral now.

You're in the Cathedral now,
You have to sign a vow;
What do you think? What, think?
You're in the Cathedral now."

ROOSEVELT, NORRIS SCORE 'SELFISH' G. O. P. LEADERS

GOVERNOR ASKS VOTERS BOLT 'PROFITEERS'

New Yorker Continues Appeal for Party Independence

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 29.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt came today into the heart of the country where agrarian discontent and political unrest have reached their most acute stage.

He came with the political blessing and sponsorship of Senator George R. Norris, the veteran Nebraska insurgent, who this year, as four years ago, has bolted President Hoover and is carrying the Democratic banner.

Tonight will find the Democratic nominee in Sioux City, Ia., center of the famous "farm strike." In Sioux City, Gov. Roosevelt plans to deliver the last of his major speeches on this 9,000-mile swing about the circle. It will be devoted principally to tariff, and the manner in which the Smoot-Hawley act has operated to the disadvantage of the primary producer.

OMAHA PAPADE

Gov. Roosevelt's program was so arranged as to give him most of the day in Omaha and its environs. It included a parade of the city; a visit to a typical Nebraska farm and informal speeches.

In a picturesque setting last night at McCook, the home town of Senator Norris, he praised the insurgent leader as a man who had "put country over party," and in return was praised by Norris as a Roosevelt fit to wear the mantle of "T. R." Norris said:

"What this country needs is another Roosevelt, and here he is."

Some 20,000 farmers and residents of McCook jammed into the enclosure of a county race track, roared a greeting to the Democratic nominee.

Political independence, he told them, is a commendable attribute this year.

SCORES SELFISH RULE

Senator Norris, he declared, "is a better Republican than Herbert Hoover." He said:

"My quarrel is not with the millions of splendid men and women who have in the past called themselves Republican. My battle is against certain forces now in control of the leadership of the Republican party, who have forgotten the principle upon which that party was founded and have become representative of the selfish few who put personal interests above national good.

"Selfish business which seeks, through tariff, a monopoly on a given product in order to obtain vast profit at the expense of the people.

"Those bankers and brokers who, in order to obtain a commission, will willingly deceive an investing public into buying worthless domestic and foreign bonds.

"A conscienceless power trust seeking to charge the home owner, the small manufacturer, the little businessman, all the traffic will bear."

In his own speech, which preceded that of Gov. Roosevelt Senator Norris explained and defended his insurgency against the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

Norris said he was for Gov Roosevelt "because I put my country above my party." He concluded:

"That is why I appeal to Republicans to come to the relief of their country by electing Gov. Roosevelt."

After his visits in Omaha today and his speech in Sioux City tonight Gov. Roosevelt will continue his journey eastward with Milwaukee next on the schedule.

PINCHOT FAKIR, RIAL SAYS

Pennsylvania's governor, Gifford Pinchot, politically is a fakir, Senator W. S. Rial, of Greensburg, said today as he appeared here to represent his home county in a hearing before the Public Service Commission. Rial is chairman of the Senate committee named to investigate the Public Service Commission.

Concerning the Governor, he said:

"Gov. Pinchot is a very affable gentleman, but politically he is a fakir."

Senator Rial said the Governor is inconsistent in his attitude on the Public Service Commission and the appointment of commissioners.

After saying he hoped Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, of Pittsburgh, would accept the appointment as counsel for the committee, he said:

"We are going to investigate everything there might be crookedness in, but we are not going at it in the spirit of trying to crucify anyone."

He expected the committee to get down to work next week.

Auto Test Deadline Friday Midnight

The state compulsory inspection for automobiles and trucks will end at midnight tomorrow. It will be followed by an enforcement period of three months, it was announced by Capt. D. E. POLL REVEALS HOOVER GAIN

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Further effect of the Republican drive to hold the East for President Hoover was revealed today as new returns from the Atlantic seaboard were tabulated in the nation-wide postcard presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

Hoover scored substantial gains in six New England states, New York and New Jersey. Of 11,060 new ballots from the eight states, the Republican candidate received a majority of 1,562. Added to previous returns from this eastern area, from which 70,993 ballots now have been tabulated, Hoover shows a majority of 9,021, with 40,007 votes to his credit.

The lead Hoover is showing in Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont places those states at this time safely to his credit. His gains in Rhode Island, New York and New Jersey have not as yet been sufficient to class them as safe. The fact that he continues to show increasing strength week after week in this area, however, makes the prospect of Gov. Roosevelt winning any electoral votes east and north of Pennsylvania increasingly difficult.

3 Ban'; Robbers Shot From 'mb'sh

MEDINA, Tenn., Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Officers hidden near the offices of the Medina Banking Company wounded three men as they tried to open the vault early today.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Unnerved because he dreamed his wife dead, Herman H. Duing, 77, swallowed poison in an industrial plant while a score of fellow workers were busy nearby. He died in a hospital. Workers told police that Duing said he wanted to die before his wife.

BLAST KILLS 2 PLOT SUSPECTS

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 29.—(INS.)—Two men, believed en route on a death mission, were blown to bits today and four other persons were injured when a terrific explosion ripped through the men's automobile, reducing it to a mass of twisted metal and splintered wood.

The men who died were identified tentatively as Alfred Satiri, 30, and Rinaldo Augustinelli, 30, both of Jessup, near here. They were seated in the automobile in West Scranton when the charge let go. Nearby homes were rocked and windows shattered.

The four injured persons were residents of the immediate vicinity. All suffered from cuts about the face, head and hands by flying glass splinters. The injured were Mrs. Helen Salaski, 60; Joseph Jarvis, 24; Mrs. Evelyn Crew, 38, and Edwin Goodfield, 16.

LINK U. S. GANGS IN 5 CUBAN MURDERS

Havana Police Hunting Political Assassins; Sift Bomb Plot

HAVANA, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—The possibility that American gang gunmen may have invaded Cuba with ultra-modern methods of slaughter was being investigated by police today in their effort to clear up the slaying of five political leaders here Tuesday.

They based their theory on the fact that Dr. Clemente Vazquez Bello, president of the Cuban Senate, friend of President Machado and prospective presidential candidate for next year, was slain in the American gang manner.

He was cut down by a rain of bullets from an automobile which roared up beside the car in which he was riding.

The marks of modernistic crime were not so clear in the slaying of the other four opposition leaders, however. Three brothers, Gonzalo, Leopoldo, and Guillermo Freyre De Andrade were slain within their residence by a gang which rushed into the house, shot them down, and rushed out again. Miguel Angel Aguiar, the fourth oppositionist slain, was shot down when he went to the door of his home to meet the killers.

A second plot, which police said might have resulted in wholesale deaths of the family and friends of Dr. Vazquez Bello, as well as high government officials, was uncovered by police yesterday in the discovery of a huge dynamite bomb planted in Colon Cemetery near the spot where it was originally reported Dr. Vazquez Bello would be buried.

There was enough explosive to have blown the whole funeral cortege to death, the experts said.

It was pointed out that the most prominent figures in Cuban political life, and many government leaders would have been gathered around the spot at the funeral. There also was evidence the mines had been laid for some time, and this gave rise to a theory that the killing of Dr. Vasquez Bellow was part of a plot to wipe out most of the government leaders with one blow.

COOLIDGE NOTE BACKS HOOVER

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—(INS.)—A letter from Former President Calvin Coolidge urging the re-election of President Hoover was in the hands of Republican party leaders today. It will be read tonight at a dinner given to nominees on the Republican state ticket.

The letter was sent to Maj. Judson Hannigan by Former President Coolidge from his home at Plymouth, Vt. The dinner marks the official opening of the statewide campaign and the state convention opens tomorrow.

Presidential Trend by States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded For President Hoover and Gov Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

MISS DOROTHY WISENER . . . . . READING HER MAIL

Dorothy Wisener Will Select Job From 70 Offers

Dorothy Brown, the girl who came to Pittsburgh Saturday to find herself a home, a husband or a job, is so happy over the offers she has received that she wants it known that her real name is Dorothy Wisener and that she is going to take a job.

More than 70 letters and telephone calls were received by this brown-eyed girl who decided Saturday there must be a home or a job for her in Pittsburgh.

Many of them were offers of marriage, and one farmer even told her:

"I am looking for a wife who wants a home, and I have 600 pounds of pork for winter time."

Dorothy laughed at this, but was moved by the offers of several middle-aged couples to adopt her as their daughter.

N. J. TO QUIZ LINDY SUSPECT

HARRISBURG, Ill., Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Sergt. E. J. Gibbons, of the Illinois Highway Police, said today he received word from Springfield, Ill., that an investigator was being sent from New Jersey to question Dennis Lawrence, a photographer, held here as a suspect in the Lindbergh kidnaping.

Gibbons said Chief Walter Moody, of the State Police, telephoned him, instructing him to hold Lawrence until an investigator arrives from New Jersey. Gibbons said he did not know where Moody received his information.

Yesterday Col. Norman Schwartzkopf, of the New Jersey State Police, said he was not interested in Lawrence and would not send a man to question him.

Bank President Gets 4 Years for Theft

AUBURN, N. Y., Sept. 29.—(INS.)—Frank E. Storms, 58, Hornell bank president, was sentenced to four years in the federal penitentiary yesterday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling bank funds.

The indictment against Storms charged misappropriation of funds of the Citizens National Bank, amounting to more than $100,000, which forced the bank to close.

Pennsy Fireman Dies As Train Speeds East

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 29.—Fireman C. R. Pee, 49, who became unconscious as the Mercantile Express of the Pennsylvania Railroad was speeding east from here this morning, died before assistance could reach him. Engineer J. N. Smith found him unconscious as the train passed Vineyard.

DAVIS WITNESS SAYS ALL KNEW CASH SOURCE

ORGANIZER DRILLED

The government holds that Davis must have known that the check represented part of the proceeds of one of the alleged lotteries and the prosecution cross-examined William J. Bennett, a district organizer in New Jersey, along this line today.

Bennett testified he was told that Davis' contract as head of the organization department had been taken over by two other men prior to the alleged lotteries and detailed his conversation with one of those men. He was asked:

"Was nothing said about where the $150,000 check came from?"

Bennett replied:

"Everybody knew where it came from."

The defense is trying to prove that Davis had to all intents withdrawn from active participation in Moose affairs prior to the period covered in the indictments, that he did not know of any lotteries having been conducted by the Moose, and that if he had known about it would have disapproved.

WILL ENTER THIRD WEEK

The time will go into a third week starting next Monday, it was assured today when Davis' attorneys announced they would need the rest of the week for introduction of evidence intended to refute the government's charges.

Since several jurors are Jews it was held certain that no court would be held on Saturday. Thus far the defense has refused to say whether or not Senator Davis will take the stand on his own behalf.

William Smith, a member of the Moose Supreme Council, of Rochester, N. Y., resumed the stand today for re-direct examination by Charles Tuttle, of defense counsel. Smith yesterday repudiated several statements he was alleged to have made to Assistant United States Attorney William B. Herlands before the trial.

Smith said he had heard of the organization contract by which Davis was to receive the initiation fees of the Moose. He denied telling Herlands that he had never heard of the contract.

CLAIMS CONTRACT SOLD

The importance of the contract to the issues in the trial lies in the government's contention that if Davis owned the Moose organization department he must have known of the alleged lotteries, because money from them was paid over to that department by the Moose propagation department, promotion unit for the charity balls.

The defense claims that Davis assigned the contract to Fred W. Jones and Joseph A. Jenkins for a promised consideration of $600,000 before the alleged lotteries were held. The transaction, it was testified, was oral.

Smith testified on further cross-examination by Prosecutor Louis Mead Treadwell today that he was under the impression that Herlands was merely asking if he knew the terms of the contract. He said:

"The fact that I attended the Supreme Council meeting at Sharon Pa., and the convention at Cleveland where a contract was discussed proves that I knew about it."

He was excused from the stand and Treadwell then read to the jury the transcript of the questioning before Herlands.

ANSWERS CONFLICT

His answers were directly contrary to his testimony in court insofar as his knowledge of the organization contract and its alleged assignment to Jones and Jenkins were concerned. He was alleged to have said that he had heard that Jones was secretary and treasurer of the organization department.

WHARFMASTER ENDS LIFE

he asked William McCready, city ballistic expert, to fix a gun for him, McCready said.

Three weeks ago McBride was one of three city employes charged with conspiracy to cheat and defraud by John Douglas, Jr.—this in connection with Douglas' attempts to occupy a city wharf which had been leased to George Vang.

In the last three years McBride has promoted the "depression" market for farmers on the wharf to several times its normal size.

Deputy Controller John Schilpp, Jr., said an audit of McBride's accounts completed August 15 showed his books to be in good shape. Total receipts from wharf rental fees up to September 27 were $13,770. Schilpp said the audit will be brought up to date at once.

Robert McBride, a son of the wharfmaster, employed in the Controller's office, told Schilpp for the last few nights his father had been complaining about his health.

Frank (Deacon) Jones, 63, Negro, a pensioner who formerly worked in McBride's department, upon learning of McBride's death, in his excitement, ran in front of a street car in Water street near the Smithfield Street Bridge. He was taken to Mercy Hospital, where he was treated for slight injuries. He refused to stay at the hospital, insisting that he had to go to McBride.

Man Taken for Ride In Brother's Auto

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—(INS.)—Iron Barger, 37, was taken for a gangland "ride" today in an automobile evidently belonging to Richard Barger, supposedly a brother. Iron Barger's bullet-ridden body was found in the rear of a car bearing license plates issued to Richard Barger.

The murdered man had been convicted frequently of automobile stealing, but police said his death probably was the result of a new outbreak in the South Side beer war.

Walker's Liner, Italy's Newest, Crippled

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 29.—(INS.)—Crippled by turbine trouble, the new Italian liner Rex, carrying former Mayor James J. Walker and a distinguished passenger list to New York on her maiden voyage, limped into Gibraltar this afternoon.

The captain reported that the liner had "developed defects in her machinery" when two hours off Gibraltar. There were reports the huge vessel, striving for a speed record over the southern route, might be held up two or three days.

The trouble recalled reports of a sabotage plot against the liner which prompted French police to take extraordinary measures when the vessel touched at Villefranche, on the Riviera, a few hours after her departure from Genoa Tuesday.

Stars of Bygone Days Aid 'Broke' Troupers

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Veterans of the stage and sawdust ring are romping in the glories of their yesterdays here for the benefit of old-time actors no longer able to earn their own living.

In an old-fashioned ballyhoo carnival continuing for four days, many of the headliners of the Gay Nineties are treading the boards once more.

Perhaps, unless you are middle-aged or past, the names do not mean much, but 30 or more years ago the veterans, members of Troupers, Inc., packed the theaters.

There is Louise De Friese, who as "Little Eva," made her ascent to heaven by means of a block and tackle. She was then a child of four years.

Blanche Rose of "East Lynne" fame does a bit, as does Mike Ready, one of Haverly's Minstrels of 40 years ago.

Circus fans of the nineties probably will recall the sensational tumbler, Lou Farrell. He's not quite so spry now, but he still manages to entertain the fans.

Others taking part include Pat Kelly, who danced in a Boston variety in 1872; Joe Mills of the old Tivoli company; Edward M. Kimball, father of Clara Kimball Young, and Camelita Meek of the old time team of Meek and Lord.

AGED MAN BEATEN IN HOLDUP AFTER IGNORING TIP

BRUSHTON PAIR SLUG PLANT WATCHMAN

Another Woman, 3 Men Seized in Roundup Of Gang Suspects

Tipped off by telephone that two men were planning to rob him, Daniel Guiney, 68-year-old watchman, thought it a joke until he was held up and beaten by two Negro thugs in Brushton early today.

Meanwhile police continued a roundup of suspects in an epidemic of robberies in the past few days, including the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company office holdup.

Waiting in ambush for Guiney, who lives at 1021 Beecher street, Wilkinsburg, the two Negros clubbed him as he made his rounds in the Consolidated Ice Company sub-station in Brushton avenue. He beat off his assailants with a night stick. Guiney's injuries were treated at Pittsburgh Hospital.

Police said the motive for the attack was robbery. Yesterday was pay-day at the plant and the thugs, police said, probably believed Guiney had a large sum of money on him.

ROUNDUP OF SUSPECTS

Continuing their investigation of the robberies of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company office, 214 Lexington avenue, and the Rice's Landing restaurant, 910 Fifth avenue, which netted the bandits $2,000, city detectives arrested another woman and a man on the North Side early today. They gave their names as Edna Friedel, 28, of 116 West Erie street, and Thomas Byrne, 26, of same address. A woman and five men were arrested yesterday following a raid in an apartment in North Lincoln avenue.

There are, according to detectives, John Maug, 30; his sister, Mrs. Eleanor Stemmler, 22; her husband, Alexander Stemmler, 32, all of 834 North Lincoln avenue; John Flaherty, 30, of 1434 Sandusky street, and Charles Raymond, 29, and Elmer Wyman, 29, of 803 Suismon street. All were held over in Central Police Court today.

Later two more suspects were arrested, Wallace Beggart, 26, of 1681 Perrysville avenue, and Orland Cook, 25, of 46 Melrose avenue.

While being questioned in North Side Police Station, Flaherty, police said, attacked City Detective Thomas Morgan. Morgan said Flaherty kicked him on the leg. Morgan was given first aid at Allegheny General Hospital and was to report to City Physician Daniel Sable today.

SEIZURES IN RAID

An electric drill, a torch, six revolvers, a quantity of nitroglycerin and burglar tools were reported seized in the North Lincoln avenue apartment, believed, police say, to have been headquarters of the suspected gang.

Maug, an alleged ex-convict, was arrested in the Downtown district. Following his arrest, detectives took the Stemmlers into custody. Flaherty was arrested in lower North Side, while Raymond and Wyman were arrested in West Park, detectives said. Maug, they said, was recently released from Western Penitentiary, where he had served a term for robbery. Stemmler said he was employed in the produce yards.

A robber obtained $4.90 from H. L. Kurtz, 22, of 107 Onyx avenue, Mt. Oliver, attendant at a Gulf Refining Company service station at 1900 Boulevard of the Allies, early today.

2 HOLD UP CAR, SLUG OPERATOR

Two armed men boarded a street car before dawn today at Dookers Hollow Bridge in North Braddock, beat and robbed the operator of $50, ignored the three passengers, and hurried away.

Frank Caputo, of the 1900 block, Fifth avenue, was slugged over the eye after he had stopped the car to allow the pseudo passengers to board. Besides taking $50, they stole his watch.

The passengers sat in their seats, helpless in the face of two revolvers. They were Michael Luckas, Rankin; J. D. Bricker, 1206 La Clair street, Swissvale, and Christy Wascho, 7307 Stanton avenue, Swissvale.

Police arrested one suspect, but Caputo, after being treated at Mercy Hospital, failed to identify the man. The suspect is still being held, pending possible identification by the passengers.

TROPIC STORM ON WANE

HAVANA, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—The tropical storm which badly damaged San Juan and other portions of Porto Rico Monday night was whirling on toward Jamaica today, but it had lost most of its intensity, the Cuban national observatory said in a storm bulletin issued late last night.

At 7 p. m. the storm's center was half way between the eastern extremity of Jamaica and the western end of Haiti, the bulletin said, and it was moving westward.

Other islands of the West Indies over which the storm passed felt its force only slightly. A high wind and heavy rain swept the Dominican Republic and there was a heavy damage to crops, but no lives were lost, as far as could be learned.

Haiti felt the force of the wind, but the storm spent its force in the high mountains around the city of Port au Prince. The Virgin Islands reported no heavy damage.

LOTUS CLUB UP FOR SALE BY U. S.

Elaborate furnishings of the Lotus Club, 2310 Sidney street, for years a favorite meeting place of politicians and businessmen of the South Side are to be sold at public auction, under an order signed by Judge Nelson McVicar in Federal Court today.

The club's equipment was seized by prohibition agents in a raid January 25, when a small quantity of liquor was confiscated.

Included in the furnishings listed for sale are 21 pictures, three bronze statues, a radio, 17 tables, sideboard, cash register, two clocks and a quantity of dishes. A 10-foot bar was ordered destroyed.

4 DIE AS FLYER, FREIGHT CRASH

WALD, Ala., Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Four trainmen were killed, three were injured seriously and several passengers were shaken and bruised here today when the Crescent Limited, bound from New Orleans to New York, collided head on with a freight train emerging from a siding, while traveling 50 miles an hour.

Bob Crawley, of Montgomery, engineer on the limited; the Negro fireman and two mail clerks were killed.

A marble he swallowed while playing Monday in front of his home, 4514 Lorigan street, Bloomfield, caused the death of Ralph Pillage, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pillage, his mother said yesterday. Ralph died in the West Penn Hospital where he was taken after he complained of pains to his mother.

Government Bans Gandhi Interviews

POONA, India, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—A government order forbidding all interviews with Mahatma Gandhi was issued today just as several Indian political leaders were preparing to confer with him.

The reason for the ban was not stated. It was said that Gandhi was progressing satisfactorily after his six-day hunger strike.

Prince Michael Thrilled By London Fireman

LONDON, Sept. 29.—(INS.)—The "fire laddies" gave young Prince Michael, of Rumania, the thrill of a lifetime today.

After he had spent several hours with his mother, Princess Helen, inspecting London's fire brigade headquarters, they took him for a 40-mile-per-hour ride through the streets of the city on one of their latest type fire engines.

The young prince, who was once a king, enjoyed the experience thoroughly. He sat on the front seat of the engine and shouted with glee as the huge machine thundered around corners at break-neck pace.

Freak Heart Balks Man Trying Suicide

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29.—(INS.)—A freak heart, of which he was unaware, today was credited with probably saving the life of Owen Callahan, 78.

Callahan shot himself, and was rushed to a hospital, where physicians found the heart was on the right side. The bullet had missed its mark by a wide margin, and it was believed he may recover.

CAPTIVES FACE U. S. CHARGE

Five Pittsburghers' held in the McKean County Jail on a charge of kidnaping, were charged yesterday, in a complaint filed before the United States commissioner here by a special agent of the United States Bureau of Investigation, with impersonating federal immigration inspectors.

The prisoners are Paul Babac, Dusen Versic, James Sweeten, Spiro Yovanoff and Orazio Antonelli. The victim of the alleged kidnaping was Todor Nedelcoff, 48, of Crosby, McKean County. He was said to have been taken from his home September 14 by men calling themselves federal immigration inspectors. George Pete, with whom Nedelcoff boarded, was suspicious and notified County Detective J. J. Allison.

Nedelcoff was rescued by Detective Allison when his captors stopped at a gasoline station en route to Pittsburgh.

Clean Shirt Brings Arrest for Theft

A clean shirt landed Harry C. Jones, a Cincinnati Negro, in jail today. After he is alleged to have stolen two suitcases of clothes from Thomas C. Tipper's home at 3648 Brighton road yesterday afternoon, he is said to have gone to the yard of Mrs. Jane Connor, nearby, and changed into one of Mr. Tipper's best.

Jones was found at a sandlot baseball game, conspicuous for his cleanliness. He was held for court.

Acadian Ruler Buried After 282 Years

ANNAPOLIS ROYAL, N. S., Sept. 29. — (AP.) — D'Aulnay Charnisay, who, tradition says, ruled Acadia "as if he were king" before he drowned, 282 years ago, was buried yesterday in accordance with his will, dated February 20, 1649.

In the will he requested that his body be interred without any pomp under the steps of the Port Royal Church.

D'Aulnay was drowned three years after he took Fort La Tour and drove Charles De La Tour from the country. In 1690 the Church of St. John the Baptist was burned by pirates. The passing centuries covered the ruins of the church until September 19, when excavators located D'Aulnay's bones.

SMITHS TRYING TO HEAL RIFT

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The marital difficulties of the Alfred E. Smith, Jrs., may be ironed out after all.

The eldest son of former Gov. Smith and his wife, who was Miss Bertha Gott, of Syracuse, instead of seeking a legal separation, as has been reported, is attempting a reconciliation, it appeared today.

Mrs. Smith, before departing for an unnamed destination, where it is believed a meeting with her husband had been arranged, denied she and young Smith had separated. Rumors of the rift became known when Smith, Jr., wrote several department stores here that he would not be responsible for his wife's debts.

The young Mrs. Smith said she and her parents-in-law are on the friendliest terms.

SERUM THEFT PERILS ILL MAN

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 29. — (AP.) — Theft of a serum brought here from Rochester, Minn., today endangered the life of Richard B. Spahr, 25-year-old victim of an intestinal ailment.

It was stolen from a motor car Wednesday night with the instrument case of Dr. Charles W. Mayo, of Rochester, after Spahr, son of a railroad clerk, received one treatment.

Relying upon a fresh supply of serum being rushed here by airplane to save Spahr, physicians said they believed a narcotic addict took the instrument case.

Hospital attendants said Spahr's condition was critical. He showed slight signs of improvement after the one treatment, but physicians said the dose was insufficient to do permanent good. The new supply was to reach here today.

Dr. Mayo and Dr. J. A. Bargen, also of Rochester, were called into consultation on the case Sunday by Dr. W. R. Lovelace, of this city.

Haller Sales Group Guests at Banquet

More than 400 members of the Haller Baking Company's sales organization were guests last night of Fred C. Haller, president, at a banquet in the dining room of the McCann store in East Liberty. The Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian Church, was the principal speaker.

Fourth Submarine Blast Victim Dies

CHERBOURG, France, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Another member of the crew of the French submarine Persee died in a hospital today of burns suffered last Monday when there was an explosion in the engine compartment of the vessel. His death brought the total of fatalities to four.

Auto 'Mania' Story Wins Wife Divorce

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 29.—(INS.)—Because her husband had a mania for buying automobiles and at one time owned 11 or 12 of them (she couldn't remember which) Delva Wright Schmeider today had been granted a divorce from her husband, Joseph.

STOKOWSKI SET TO BATTLE FOR NEW MUSIC

Will Repeat Novelties, Conductor Says in Defying Directors

By E. L. RAWLEY
International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29. — Whether music lovers take it or leave it, like it or detest it, the famous Philadelphia Orchestra will play modernist music — in double measure — this season.

This retort courteous was the answer today of Leopold Stokowski, talented leader of the orchestra, to the polite ukase phrased by directors of the orchestra association, that this season's programs will be devoted almost entirely to "acknowledged masterpieces of orchestra music." The directors recently said:

"Debatable music should be postponed until a more suitable time."

DEFIES DIRECTORS

The edict, however, was issued in the absence of Stokowski, who has just returned from a trip abroad. When the temperamental leader learned of the directors' action, he issued his own statement without consulting the directors. Briefly, it is:

1.—He will continue to play modernist music.

2.—Each novelty will be played and then—each novelty will be repeated, at the same concert.

Stokowski had a succinct explanation for the "doubling" of the modernist numbers. Such repetition, he said, will make "for better understanding" of the newer music by concert patrons.

WANTS NEW AND OLD

Conceding that the orchestra should play the great music of the past, Stokowski contended:

"Modern music also should be played even if it is experimental and difficult for any at present to weigh its value finally."

He added:

"The music of Bach, Beethoven and Wagner and other masters also was experimental in their day.

"If the classicists will remember that new genius will surely arise in the future just as it did in the past, and if the modernists will remember that Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Brahms and Wagner were modernists in their days, we can all combine in a spirit of tolerance and open-mindedness."

KEEP HOOVER, MILLS URGES

DETROIT, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, told Michigan Republicans in their state convention today, that President Hoover "has mastered the forces of destruction, has laid the foundation for recovery, and has earned the right to complete the task of reconstruction."

Mr. Mills outlined the program presented to Congress by President Hoover to meet the emergency and another which he termed the "strictly Democratic program."

Had the Democratic program become law, the treasury head said, the result would have been "disaster, final and irretrievable."

Tennis Star Starts Second Lone Voyage

MARSEILLES, France, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Alain Gerbault, former French tennis star, who returned from a trip around the world alone in a sailboat two years ago, started yesterday on another lone sailboat voyage in a westwardly direction.

It was understood among friends that his goal would be the Polynesian Islands of the mid-Pacific. He left in a nine-ton boat named Alain Gerbault, carrying supplies for several months.

Man Admits Slaying, Claims Self Defense

SOMERSET, Pa., Sept. 29.—Harvey Keim, 55, farmer, of Jerome, was shot fatally early today in the home of John Sweynsky, 49, who is held on a charge of murder. Sweynsky said he fired a shotgun in self-defense. Police quoted Sweynsky as saying Keim, intoxicated, had entered his home and struck him.

Injured Girl Acrobat Here Jokes of Hurts

In a specially arranged baggage car, Roxie La Rosa, 27-year-old acrobat, injured in a fall at Atlantic City August 27 in which her troupe partner, Irene Berger, 21, of Minneapolis, was killed, passed through Pittsburgh early today en route to her home in Des Moines, Ia.

The courageous trapeze performer, who will no longer entertain the public from dizzy heights, smiled as she commented:

"It's not everyone who can ride like this."

She lay on a makeshift cot, her legs encased in plaster casts, which she described as her "new boots."

YANKEES WIN IN SECOND BATTLE

Hartnett went out to confer with Warneke. Ball two, outside. Ball three. It was another wide pitch. Strike one, called. Sewell walked when another pitch failed to break toward the plate. The Cubs went over to buck up their young pitcher.

Ruth up—Strike one, called. Strike two, called, over the outside corner. Ball one, outside. Ruth fanned, swinging at a slow curve.

Gehrig up—Strike one, called. Ball one, outside. Ball two. Hartnett threw to second, but Combs slid back safely. Ball three, high and outside. Strike two, swinging. It was a beautiful low curve. Combs scored and Sewell went to second on Gehrig's line single to right. Grimm missed a dive for the ball.

Lazzeri up—Strike one, called. Lazzeri fouled to Hartnett, who made the catch near the third base coaching box.

Dickey up—Ball one, high. Strike one, called. Strike two, swinging. Warneke was getting a great break on his curves. Ball two, inside. Dickey singled off Grimm's glove and Sewell scored, Gehrig reaching third, beating the relay from Hartnett.

Chapman up—Ball one, high. Strike one, swinging. Ball two, inside. Strike two, called. Chapman fanned on a third called strike. Two runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

SECOND INNING

CUBS—Grimm up. Ball one. It was a sweeping curve. Grimm smashed a single to center.

Hartnett up. Ball one, low. Strike one, called. Ball two, outside. Ball three, outside. Hartnett walked, the fourth ball being outside.

Jurges up. Jurges bunted to Gomez and was thrown out at first as both runners advanced on the sacrifice.

Warneke up. Strike one, called. Ball one, low. Ball two, outside. Strike two, swinging. Foul into the dirt. Foul into the dirt again. Warneke fanned, swinging at a fast ball.

Herman up. Ball one, low. Strike one, swinging. Foul, strike two, behind the plate. Herman fanned, taking a third called strike, and Gomez was out of a bad hole. No runs. One hit. No errors. Two left.

YANKEES—Crosetti up—Strike one, swinging. Crosetti popped to Jurges.

Gomez up—Strike one, swinging. Strike two, swinging lustily at a fast ball. Gomez struck out on a called third strike.

Combs up—Foul, strike one, into the screen. Ball one, inside. Strike two, swinging at a fast breaking curve. Combs flied out to Cuyler. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING

CUBS—English up—Ball one, inside. Ball two, low. Strike one, called. Ball three, outside. Strike two, called. English flied to Ruth, who made the catch without moving a step.

Cuyler up—Ball one, high. Strike one, swinging. Ball two, outside. Cuyler grounded out, Lazzeri to Gehrig.

Stephenson up—Ball one. It was a floater wide of the plate. Ball two, fast and high. Stephenson punched a hit to right and made two bases when the ball bounded past Ruth. It was scored as a double.

Demaree up—Ball one, inside. Ball two, outside. Ball three, low. Strike one, called. Demaree fouled into the screen, the ball just being out of Dickey's reach. Demaree singled to right and Stephenson scored standing up when Ruth juggled the ball before making a poor throw to the plate.

Grimm up—Strike one, called. Strike two, swinging. Foul into the stands off third base. Ball one, inside. Ball two, inside. Demaree was trapped off first base and put out, Gomez to Gehrig. One run. Two hits. No errors. None left.

YANKEES—Sewell up—Strike one, called. Sewell bounced out, Herman to Grimm.

Ruth up—Ball one, outside. Ball two, a slow one inside. Strike one, called. Foul, strike two, into the screen. Ball three, outside. Foul behind the plate. Foul into the stands off the third base line. Ruth walked, the fourth ball breaking inside.

Gehrig up—Ball one, high. Ball two, outside. Strike one, called. Gehrig singled on a sharp hit that Herman barely was able to stop. Ruth held second.

Lazzeri up—Ball one, inside. Foul, strike one, into the screen. Ball two, low. Lazzeri rolled to Jurges and was called out on a close play at first. Ruth advanced to third and Gehrig to second.

Dickey up—Dickey was purposely walked on four wide pitches, filling the bases.

Chapman up—Chapman singled to right, scoring Ruth and Gehrig. Dickey stopped at second.

Crosetti up—Foul, strike one, into the screen. Strike two, swinging. Ball one, low. Crosetti fanned on a third called strike. Two runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

FOURTH INNING

CUBS—Grimm up—Ball one, high. Grimm slashed a single off Sewell's glove.

Hartnett up—Strike one, called. Strike two, called. Hartnett struck out with his bat still on his shoulder.

Jurges up—Jurges forced Grimm, Crosetti to Lazzeri.

Warneke up—Strike one, swinging. Strike two, swinging. Warneke whiffed on a change of pace. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

YANKEES—Gomez up—Gomez was thrown out, Warneke to Grimm.

Combs up—Strike one, called. Ball one, inside. Balal two, low. Foul, strike two, into the upper deck. Ball three, low and inside. Combs singled through short.

Sewell up—Oon the hit and run play, Sewell singled to left and Combs reached third.

Ruth up—Ruth bounded to Warneke and Combs was trapped between third and home. He was tagged out and then an unusual double play was completed when Hartnett and Jurges trapped Sewell. Jurges made the final putout. Hartnett was credited with the putout of Combs. No runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

FIFTH INNING

CUBS—Herman up—Strike one, swinging. Strike two, called. Ball one, outside. Ball two, high. Herman fanned swinging at a fast ball.

English up—Strike one, swinging. Strike two, swinging. English was called out on strike.

Cuyler up—Ball one, high. Foul into the lower stands behind the Cubs' dugout. Cuyler drove a triple to deep right field. Ruth just failed to get under the ball as it dropped a foot outside the bleacher wall.

Stephenson up—Strike one, called. Ball one, inside. Ball two, high. Ball three, outside. Stephenson grounded out on a high bounder, Sewell to Gehrig. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Yankees—Gehrig up—Ball one, high. Ball two, low. Gehrig hit his third straight single past Herman.

Lazzeri up—Strike one, swinging. Lazzeri grounded to Herman, who fumbled but recovered in time to nip the batter at first. Gehrig reached second.

Dickey up—Strike one, called. Ball one, inside. Dickey lashed a single to right, scoring Gehrig.

Chapman up—Ball one, outside. Strike one, swinging. Ball two. Klem reversed his decision and made it strike two. Foul into the dirt behind the plate. Ball two, outside. Ball three, high. Chapman fanned and Dickey was thrown out trying to steal second, Hartnett to Herman. One run. Two hits. No errors. None left.

SIXTH INNING

Cubs—Demaree up. Demaree lifted a high fly to Chapman.

Grimm up, strike one, called. Grimm grounded to Gehrig unassisted.

Hartnett up. Strike one, swinging. Ball one, high. Strike two, called. Hartnett kicked. Hartnett grounded out, Crosetti to Gehrig. No runs, no hits, no errors. None left.

Yankees—Crosetti up. Crosetti flied to Demaree, who made a sensational running catch in left center near the running track.

Gomez up—Strike one, called. Strike two, swinging. Foul into the dirt. Gomez fanned swinging.

Combs up—Strike one, called. Combs grounded out, Herman to Grimm. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SEVENTH INNING

Cubs—Jurges up — Strike one, called. Jurges hoisted to Ruth.

Warneke up—Ball one, low. Foul, strike one into the upper deck. Strike two, called. Warneke fanned on a third called strike.

Herman up—Strike one, swinging. Strike two, swinging. Gomez was getting a nice hop on his fast one. Ball one, low. Herman lifted a short fly to Combs. No runs, no hits, no erors, none left.

YANKEES—Sewell up—Strike one, called. Foul, strike two, down the first base line. Ball one, outside. Foul into the right field boxes. Sewell grounded out, Herman to Grimm.

Ruth up—Ruth singled on a drive that bounced off the right field wall.

Gehrig up—Ball one, low. Ball two, it was in the dirt. Gehrig grounded to Herman and the Cubs completed a double play, Herman to Jurges to Grimm. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING

CUBS—English up—Ball one, outside. Ball two, outside. Strike one, called. English singled to right.

Cuyler up—Strike one, called. Cuyler flied to Combs in short center.

Stephenson up—Stephenson singled over Sewell's head, English stopping at second.

Demaree up—Strike one, called. Demaree forced Stephenson, Gomez to Crosetti, English taking third.

Grimm up—Ball one, low. Strike one called. Ball two, low. Grimm forced Demaree, Crosetti to Lazzeri. No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

YANKEES—Lazzeri up—Strike one called. Lazzerri singled over English's shoulder.

Dickey up—Ball one, high. Warneke threw to first base. Ball two, it was a pitch out. Dickey grounded to Herman, and the Cubs pulled off another double play, Herman to Jurges to Grimm.

Chapman up—Ball one, outside. Foul, strike one into the dirt. Strike two, swinging. Chapman fanned, swinging at a curve. No runs, one hit, none left.

RING GOES LITERARY ON SERIES

Judge Landis' Beret Sets New Style In Stadium

By RING LARDNER

(Copyright, 1932, by Ring Lardner.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The world series, the classic of ice hockey, began yesterday with the opposing clubs being New York in the American League and Chicago in the National.

Ring Lardner

No, maybe I am upset. It is the Philadelphia Tigers vs. the Toronto Rovers.

Judge Mt. Everest Landis appeared on the field attired in a beret. He sat in a field box with Corp. Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees. Judge Landis threw out the first ball and it was called a ball by Umpire Dineen. This gave the Cubs a big advantage, as it gave Herman two bases on balls and sent the Cubs into a two-run advantage.

Or wait a minute. Maybe I was wrong. No, it was the Cleveland club that got those two runs, and they were playing an exhibition game.

Weather conditions were perfect for the players, and, despite weather conditions, they were ideal for the umpires. The game in detail:

FIRST INNING (CUBS)

Both pitchers wormed up. They seemed to be in bad shape. No, I mean good shape. I said a while ago that Judge Landis threw out the first ball. I meant Mayor Roosevelt. It was a big surprise to see both pitchers worm up. Usually the home club is polite enough to allow the visiting club's pitcher to worm up while its own pitcher stays home and eats waffles.

The sun is out. The sun is in. The umpires are as follows: Hank O'Day, Herman either singled to center or didn't, making a man on first base. Woody English singled to left or right, and Combs, Ruth or Chapman kicked it around, allowing Herman (or was it Wrigley?) to score.

Kiko (pronounced Kiki) Cuyler struck out. Stephenson singled to right or left, scoring English, or perhaps he didn't. John Moore must have strucken. The Phillies looked pretty good. Mgr. Grimm struck out. No runs, no hits, two errors.

FIRST INNING (YANKEES)

Combs struck out twice, making two out. Sewell was out twice. Ruth was out three times unassisted. St. Louis seems to have them licked.

SECOND INNING (CUBS)

It began to rain at 1 o'clock. The game was postponed till tomorrow. Then it wasn't.

SECOND INNING (YANKEES)

Only Golly can make a tree.

THIRD INNING (CUBS)

Herman hit back to Gomez, or whoever is pitching. The next boy was postponed. The next hitter, whom the broadcasters call Kuku Cuyler, singled and stole second. Riggs Stephenson died and watch those Braves.

THIRD INNING (YANKEES)

Brooklyn has nearly tied Cleveland for third place.

FOURTH INNING (CUBS)

All is nothing. Seated one day at the organ, I was weary and ill at ease.

FOURTH INNING (YANKEES)

What clubs are playing? Do you remember when Jimmy Wilson had that passed ball last year? Hack Wilson reached out and hit a ball over mother's clothesline, making it better than even.

FIFTH INNING (CUBS)

The Reds are now hitting their stride.

FIFTH INNING (YANKEES)

Long lines of cliff, breaking, have left a chasm, and in the chasm are foam and yellow sands.

SIXTH INNING (CUBS)

Johnny Moore, Sweet Johnny Moore, we will never see Sweet Johnny, Johnny Moore. He went away one summer's day, and we'll never see Sweet Johnny, Johnny Moore.

SIXTH INNING (YANKEES)

Once upon a midnight dreary, while I pondered weak and weary, I remembered, I remembered the house where I was born. The little bit of a house in the gray west.

SEVENTH INNING (CUBS)

National Broadcasting Company. I suppose you have heard of Grime's cellar door?

SEVENTH INNING (YANKEES)

Columbia—Just to be fair. . . . "Believe me if all those endearing young charms."

EIGHTH INNING (CUBS)

Canova Canova sat with his watch in his hand, glancing up from time to time at Harworth, who was trying to concentrate on a newspaper.

EIGHTH INNING (YANKEES)

Pardon me, ladies. But you really shouldn't be here.

NINTH INNING (CUBS)

I'll make a pass for all of it.

NINTH INNING (YANKEES)

They sure don't last long here. "I'm a little tight, maybe that accounts for it."

Wilson's Passed Ball Last Year Hit Of Series

ATTACK DRIVER FREED IN DEATH

David Mayer, 946 Ridge avenue, North Side, exonerated by a Coroner's jury in connection with the death of Victor W. Stemmeich, 5, 3450 Fleetwood street, left the Coroner's court room today feeling the sting of a punch on the jaw.

Testimony was that the boy had run in front of the auto on Saturday, September 17, and that the driver could not avoid striking him.

After the verdict was rendered, members of the boy's family and friends surrounded Mayer. Somebody in the crowd punched Mayer. Then Deputy Coroner San Shenken dispersed the crowd and escorted Mayer from the building.

Bicentennial Fete At California, Pa.

CALIFORNIA, Pa., Sept. 29.—Several thousand people are expected to take part in a demonstration in connection with the Washington bicentennial here tomorrow and Saturday. A feature will be tree planting and a parade of students of the California State College and public schools, members of the American Legion, and the Fraternal Order of Eagles, under whose auspices the affair is being given.

The parade, with 26 drum and bugle corps, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

mittee" are also members of the French Legion of Honor.

One of them, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, is a grand officer; George W. Wickersham a commander in the order.

That is interesting. There ought also to be some members past masters or grand commanders in the great American order of taxpayers.

SCIENTISTS WERE all excited when a mammoth was found frozen in northern ice. The huge creature, of elephant type, with enormous tusks, hair and flesh, was perfect, except that wolves had eaten some of the flesh.

More interesting is the discovery by Danish scientists in Greenland of Vikings buried and perfectly preserved in the frozen ground of the island, fully dressed in tight breeches, double breasted coats of homespun cloth, no coffins.

Frozen bodies f northerners that went to Greenland six hundred years ago are even more interesting than the frozen mammoth.

ASSOCIATED PRESS reports that "John Ford Darling noted economist, important banker," fears that "economic attraction" will bring about "the absorption of Canada by the United States."

Geographical reasons would help the absorption, according to the learned banker, also the fact that "Canada has to pay the United States $150,000,000 a year interest."

Banker Darling evidently does not know the Canadians well. They don't intend to be absorbed by anybody and will continue to pay their debts for which they probably got full value.

Some day, far off, Canadians might enter into equal partnership with the Americans. In the meanwhile, it is useful to have so able a pacemaker and so good a friend on the north.

THE GOVERNMENT complains, with tears, that Russia, selling goods here, notably asbestos, uses "unfair practice." The Russians come here and sell asbestos for whatever they can get. The asbestos people say so.

This "richest, most powerful country in the world," refusing to recognize the Russian government and then crying about its trade methods, seems rather ridiculous, especially as we have been "dumping" our surplus of manufactured articles all over the world at prices much lower than our home prices.

Civil Service Chief Replies to Harrison

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission, issued a statement in reply to what it described as "charges by Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, that for political reasons President Hoover had extended civil service protection" to more than 500 government employes.

Referring to Commerce Department positions mentioned by Harrison, Campbell said the transfers "had to do with the classification of the individuals and certainly not with political matters."

Lutherans Arrange Evangelistic Drive

FARRELL, Pa., Sept. 29.—An evangelistic campaign to involve 220 Lutheran churches in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia is planned by the Pittsburgh Synod of the Lutheran Church.

Dr. Henry Bagger, president of the synod, announced plans for the services in an address at the Erie district annual convention here. The campaign starts this fall.

CELEBRATING 90 YEARS OF SERVICE TO AMERICA

McCanns 59th ANNIVERSARY MONTH

Two Complete Food Stores
Diamond at Ferry St. . . . Court 4400
Highland at Kirkwood . . . Hiland 8400

DO you remember last year's anniversary crowds? The green wave of McCann shopping bags and bundles on Diamond Street? The potato sale traffic jam? We predict larger crowds at McCanns this anniversary month. Prices are generally lower than last year's for one thing. Then, too, we've been planning and working on the various events for months. Our department managers have made some exceptional buys which we will pass on to McCann customers throughout October. Read McCanns anniversary news in the daily papers. You can't afford to miss a single event in this celebration of our 59th anniversary of continuous service and the second birthday of our two new stores.

This huge purchase a barometer of anniversary values

25,000 pounds Boneless Rolled Pork Roasts

Armour's "Star" Quality Pork — lb. 15c — Inspected by U. S. Government

Every time we've offered these boneless, rolled pork roasts it has been a problem to get enough of them. We hope the twenty-five thousand pounds Armour's has prepared for this anniversary feature will be enough. We do not like to disappoint McCann customers. If you haven't had one of these roasts before, you'll want to know just what they are. Fresh Hams (government inspected) are boned, then rolled and securely tied, making a pork roast that's as easy to serve as beefsteak and there's absolutely no waste. Season and roast just as you would a pork loin and serve with sweet potatoes and apple sauce. Simply delicious!

Only a McCann Anniversary Could Offer

Legs and Loins of Pink-boned Lamb

Government Inspected — at 19c a lb. — Young Lamb

There's lamb and lamb as everyone knows. One way to tell the real thing is at the joint . . . if it's pink in the middle, it's young . . . in other words, lamb. This anniversary feature represents some of the finest we've ever sold at the lowest price our records show.

Lamb Forequarters . . . . . lb. 10c

To serve with the pork or lamb

McCann Quality Fresh Peas

4 lbs. 39c

Full pods of sweet, tender peas, so crisp and fresh they open with a snap. Serve them with diced carrots and lots of McCanns butter. They'll taste great with the lamb or pork. Four pounds is the equivalent of a good half peck.

Fresh Carrots . . . . . 4 bunches 9c
Dice them into the peas . . . delicious and colorful.

Ohio Heart Celery . . . . . 2 bunches 19c
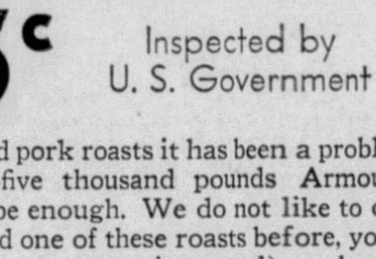
Trimmed, washed and chilled. No second grade celery at McCanns.



3 lbs. for $1 last year

McCanns Butter

an outstanding value at

3 lbs. 79c

A year ago McCanns Butter crowded our two stores at three pounds for a dollar. A big saving for you this year and, of course, the quality is the same.

Month-End Clearance

JOSEPH HORNE CO

Startling values are listed in tomorrow's Clearance. Note the Rug and Furniture offerings in particular, and scan the smaller listings which fill this page. And these are only a part of the story, for many of the best things are too limited in quantity to advertise. They will be clearly designated by Clearance signs throughout the store. No mail or telephone orders, and no credits or exchanges on Clearance merchandise.

84 Fashion-Thrift Fall Frocks

Broken lines of fall models, originally $8.95, made of fabrics which will be "good" throughout the entire season—rough silk crepes and sheer woolens. Tailored and semi-dressy frocks, some with jackets; in black, wine and brown . . . Women's and misses' regular sizes, and half sizes for short women.

. . . Horne's, Fashion-Thrift Section, Second Floor . . .

61 Women's and Misses' Sports Frocks

$7.95

Remaining numbers of very early fall lines, originally priced $10.75. One, two and three-piece styles, knitted or of sheer wool, with almost an entire season's wear ahead of them. In colorful greens, wine, brown and blue.

. . . Horne's, Sportswear Shop, Second Floor . . .

34 Women's $16.75 Swagger Outfits

$10.95

Broken lines of a type of costume which was a "best seller" at the very beginning of the fall season. Models of travel crepe, with dresses having long or short sleeves, and three-quarters swagger coats, some of them banded with fur. In mixed colorings, in which the predominating combinations are black-and-white, navy-and white, brown-and-white, wine-and-white . . . Regular and half sizes.

. . . Horne's, Women's Dress Section, Section Floor . . .

20 Fur Scarfs

$10

Originally $17.50 to $25 scarfs of Kolinsky, dark brown and sable shades, in three and four-skin arrangements. One of the effective things among "little" furs, to wear right now with sheer wool dresses and furless suits.

. . . Horne's, Fur Salon, Second Floor . . .

500 Felt Hats

For Women and Misses

$1.95

The remainder of early fall lines which were originally priced $3.75 to $5. The hats are chiefly of felt, together with a few fabric "softies," and include a wide variety of models and all wanted colors.

Parents Can't Shield Their Children From Life

Can mother save Betty from marrying the villain by nagging her and telling her what a heel he is?

So far, this technique hasn't worked. It has merely succeeded in making a bad hombre look like a noble martyr. And Mamma's scared, for Betty is threatening to duck out and marry her hero, regardless.

So then, what?

That's what Mamma would like to know, by return mail, if possible.

"My Dear Miss Martin:

"Will you please try to give me a hand? I am so worried that I am almost frantic, and I just don't know what to do.

"It is a love affair that is going on between my young daughter and a fellow who is just about utterly worthless, and I don't know how to stop it. I have tried everything I can think of, and nothing seems to have any effect on her infatuation for him.

"She is too young to really know what she is doing, and I am afraid that if something can't be done she will wreck her life. She is very idealistic, and is determined to stick to him in spite of the fact that he is lazy, wild, crooked and has a bad name among all the people who know him, and I can't seem to move her from that stand.

DEFENDS SWEETHEART

"Every time I try to tell her how worthless he is, and how terrible a mistake she will be making if she marries him, she just looks at me, her head goes up, and she says, 'Mamma, you're just like everyone else! You're just down on him! The whole world is against him. He has no one but me, and I'm going to stick.'

"Then I try to tell her he has never done anything but loaf around—never showed any ambition, or any desire to get ahead in the world, and her answer is—'Maybe not! But with me believing in him, he will!'

"And lately she has been saying that when she's of age—she'll be 18 in two months—she will go away and marry him, in spite of everything I can do. I am frightened. I know that if she does it she will soon be disillusioned, and there will be just another broken heart and divorce.

"What can I do? How can I stop her? How can I make her see what a terrible mistake she is making? "E. M."

CAN'T SHIELD HER

How can you stop her?

I don't know whether you can or not, my dear, but I do know this: You'll never stop her by scolding, or by belittling the man. By doing that, you'll just make her stick more tightly to him. By doing that, you're arousing two things—the strong desire of her young womanhood to go on her own and use her own judgment, and her mother instinct that wants to shield and stick by the under dog. And those things are powerful. They will beat you, if you keep up your present Frontal Attack.

What'll you do then?

Try going "round about." Stop telling her what a poor fish he is. Stop comparing him unfavorably with the other boys she knows, but frame things so she will make that comparison for herself.

Invite a jolly gang of young folks in for an evening of fun now and then, including him. Be friendly to him. Let him show himself up to her. If you'll do that the chances are that her "love" for him will die a natural death.

But if it doesn't? Well, then she'll have to kill her own snakes. For, much as you want to, you can't shield her from life. She'll have to learn her own way around. You can help heal the scars she may get, but you can't keep her from getting some.

Foolish to Waste Time Trying to Mete Out Revenge, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

It is very foolish to waste one's time and energy, to say nothing of one's peace of mind, rushing around trying to mete out revenge.

It is much wiser just to sit back serenely and let the law of recompense work in its own way.

We have seen it demand the same heartache and humiliation from the woman who once ruthlessly robbed another woman of her happiness.

We sometimes think that the law of recompense fails to work because it does not strike exactly as we would wish.

But it often strikes at some more vulnerable spot we know nothing of.

It sometimes raises the unworthy to great heights just so their unworthiness may be the more apparent.

But it never fails to work.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

An Important Visit

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I became engaged to a young man while his parents were traveling. They have returned and I wish to know if my parents should entertain them first, or vice versa.

2—Although I am not going to have an engagement ring, I would like to know if it is proper to send betrothal cards?

H. H.

1—According to the really correct social form, the parents of your fiance should, as soon as they are told of the engagement, come at once to call on you. This is that most important welcoming visit that is naturally made very soon after the news has been told the young man's parents . . . very soon, since this registers their enthusiasm about the news and about welcoming you into the family. When they come they will probably suggest that you dine with them soon. If they don't make this suggestion, you may, correctly, if you wish, plan with your mother to invite them to your home. The sequence of the invitations between the families is not so important, once that first visit is made.

2—Betrothal cards are not in good taste or in good form. They should not be sent.

When you wish to inform your friends of your engagement . . . and the fact that you are not to have an engagement ring does not make a bit of difference . . . tell those who live near enough to receive direct word, and write notes to those who live at a distance. Then, if you wish, your parents may also send a formal announcement of the engagement to the newspapers.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Hands that look old—and some hands do before their time—are benefited by oil rubs. Olive oil will serve. If it is warm it is productive of quick results. Massage into the skin for 10 minutes every night.

Honey-colored hair requires exquisite care, if the lovely shade is to be retained. When shampooing, begin with a rinsing with a bath spray. Use melted soap, frictioning it into a thick, rich suds. Rinse again. Apply four slightly beaten eggs, rinse thoroughly. Over the head pour a quart of tepid water to which the strained juice of two lemons has been added.

When applying a liquid rouge, moisten a bit of cotton in water and use it as a medium of application. Many of these stay-tight blushes can only be removed with soap and water. Nice for lips. They aren't lapped off in spots and splotches during the luncheon or dinner party. Swimming mermaids made them popular in the silly summer season.

Hints for the Household

Sour milk makes cakes, puddings, scones and omelettes very light.

Ugly burnt marks on dinner plates will yield to damp salt rubbed on with a cork.

When preparing oranges for fruit salad soak them in boiling water for five minutes and the pithy part will come away with the skin, leaving the fruit quite clean.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Moderation in All Things Best for Hardened Arteries

There is a chronic condition of the blood vessels which causes a good deal of trouble. Their walls become thicker than normal and consequently less elastic. Although most common in advanced life, especially after the 60th year, such changes are by no means unknown in those of middle age.

Dr. Copeland

The condition is referred to as "hardening of the arteries," but doctors, seeking big names for every thing, call it "arteriosclerosis." It is sometimes an inherited defect. It occurs, too, where great mental strain is undergone.

In advanced cases the affected vessels become hardened tubes, and as a result there is an interference with the free circulation of the blood.

The symptoms of arteriosclerosis all depend upon which particular blood vessels are involved.

Where the blood pressure is high, nervous symptoms are usual. There are dizziness, sleeplessness, mental irritability, mental depression or impairment of memory.

Advanced cases may be accompanied by disturbances of vision. Sometimes the vessels of the abdomen may be affected, causing severe pain not dependent upon the food taken.

These abdominal symptoms may be misleading and often are not recognized as due to the arterial condition. Usually they are regarded as indicating some form of indigestion, but the fact that treatment for indigestion is useless and that remedies to reduce high blood pressure are effective brings recognition of the real cause.

The outcome in any case is dependent upon the location of the blood vessels diseased and the willingness of the patient to follow the advice of his physician. Where the blood pressure is very high and the kidneys show signs of failure, the utmost care must be exercised.

The treatment must be suited to the general health, the habits and the financial circumstances of the patient. The most important thing is moderation in every particular. A life free from excitement and worry will do much toward ensuring a comfortable and useful existence.

There should be no overexertion, no alcoholic beverages and very little tobacco, if any. The diet should be unstimulating, largely vegetable and cereal. Tea and coffee in moderation are not prohibited.

Contract Bridge -:- -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Penalizing Opponents

It is a generally accepted principle of the play of a hand at Bridge to try as much as possible to penalize your opponents when the penalty you can collect is the same, or approximately the same, as you can make by playing at your own best bid. It is wise to double for penalties when the opponents are obviously overbidding and your contract is doubtful or will not net you the points equivalent to the penalty that can be collected, but it is far from wise to accept an insufficient penalty in preference to a certain game. Failure to correctly weigh the respective penalty to be secured against the available game is illustrated in the hand below:

	♠ AKQ6 ♡ 8 ◇ 10982 ♣ 9642
♠ 109543 2 ♡ 762 ◇ KQ4 ♣ 10	North West East South	♠ — ♡ QJ9543 ◇ 763 ♣ A753
	♠ J87 ♡ AK10 ◇ AJ5 ♣ KQJ8

South—Dealer.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

North and South vulnerable; part-score—60.

The eventual contract was four hearts by East, doubled by South. West's bid of three spades—a purely defensive bid—having previously been doubled by North.

South's Opening lead was the spade Knave, and East escaped with a penalty of 100 points. Of course, as Mr. R. Moore, of Ponemah, Manitoba, Canada, points out, East and West eventually won the rubber.

North and South could have made game in notrump — in fact, against any Opening by their opponents, losing at most one club and two diamonds. The fact that both East and West, lacking honor strength, were strong enough to bid both hearts and spades suggested strong distributional values, and no doubt the North and South partnership would have been better advised to have disregarded the adverse bidding and proceeded to bid and make their game, so long as it was within the limits of the trick-taking ability of their cards.

Today's Question.

Suppose I am the Second Hand; the opponent on my right (Dealer) makes a Forcing two-bid and I have 2½ honor-tricks plus a biddable suit. Should I bid it or should I pass, hoping to make more in penalties? I realize that the Dealer and I have at a minimum 7 honor-tricks and that my partner has not very much. What should I bid?

Answer: Pass—unless holding an extremely long and powerful suit—because the opponents might double and inflict a large penalty. Also, if the opponents do not double your bid, they will play the hand at a game contract, and your bid would serve to place all or most of the outstanding honor strength against them.

CITY DECIDES ON ONE-YEAR WASTE BID

The city's 1933 garbage and rubbish collection contract will be advertised for on a one-year basis, Council had decided today, with preparations scheduled early next year for a long-term contract, beginning in 1934, as an economy measure.

Both the Building Owners and Managers Association and the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board concurred with Council at a hearing late yesterday that so little time remained for prospective bidders to arrange for incineration plants if the long-term contract started in 1933. The stipulation was made, however, that a contract of from five to 10 years would be asked for about May 1, 1933 and to start in 1934.

URGES RUBBISH TAX

Representatives of the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Company and the Rush Engineering Company told Council's committee on health and sanitation they would be willing to bid on long-term contracts starting in 1934. It was pointed out that several months would be necessary for arrangements to be made for incineration plants and hearings on zone changes.

A suggestion by Councilman W. Y. English that the city assess a tax on householders for rubbish and garbage collection to help defray cost by the municipality, may be discussed when Council meets in budget session early in November.

Organizations present at the hearing told Council a long-term contract would make for a lowered cost per ton for collection.

COST GROWTH CITED

In presenting his analysis of the situation Roland Brady, secretary of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, showed that while the population of Pittsburgh had increased by 12 per cent since 1917, cost of rubbish and garbage collections had increased two and one-half times.

Both Brady and J. W. Bamford, of the Building Owners' and Managers' Association, stressed the necessity of the city keeping out of the collection and incineration business, asserting no municipal plant could be operated cheaper than a commercial concern. A survey of a number of cities comparable in size to Pittsburgh showed this, they said.

The Department of Health will begin preparations for advertising for next year's contract within the next 10 days.

The present contract is held by the American Reduction Company and the Allegheny Garbage Company.

Fish Will Ignore Bonus Army Rout

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(INS.)—Representative Fish, of New York, who will be the keynoter at the Republican New York state convention in Buffalo Monday, said today he will not discuss Communism or the army's routing from Washington of the bonus marchers. He will speak on economics and predicted his state will support President Hoover.

One Gas Stand For 70 Autos In State

There is one gasoline station for every 70 automobiles in Pennsylvania, but New York and Texas exceed this state in the number of high type paved roads built during the past year, it was revealed today by the Pittsburgh Motor Club, which has just completed an analysis of motor facts.

A comparison of new paved highways for 1931 shows, according to the analysis: Pennsylvania, 729 miles; Texas, 968, and New York, 1,146.

Martins Ferry Man Helps Excavators

MARTINS FERRY, O., Sept. 29.—Prof. George W. Brainerd, son of Mrs. Margaret S. Brainerd, assistant superintendent of Martins Ferry schools, is assisting a German expedition that is digging for prehistoric bones near Teheran, Persia, where he is a teacher in an American college. His training as a biologist has led him to be asked to measure bones unearthed by the Germans.

The Martins Ferry instructor recently visited the excavations being made near Persepolis by an American expedition. Ruins of the palace of King Darius, burned 300 B. C., have been unearthed. Brainerd says charred wood from the palace has been found.

DOUGLAS AGAIN ASKS DOCK SITE

John Douglas, Jr., refused a city wharf lease until he pays a claim of $13,250 back rental for space occupied several years ago in the Exposition Building, has made an application for wharf space in the name of the Allegheny River Sand Company and the Henry Hudson Sand and Gravel Company.

The latter companies operate in the Allegheny River near Kittanning, Pa., and Douglas is acting as their distributor in Pittsburgh. The request has been mailed to Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, who has refused to lease city wharf property to Douglas personally.

Douglas had previously brought conspiracy charges against Lang, George S. Vang, of the Iron City Sand Company; D. G. Armstrong, general contractor on the new posoffice, and two other city officials.

Pittsburgher Faces Trial in Auto Death

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 29.—(INS.)—The Blair grand jury returned a true bill against Howard J. Kosslow, of Pittsburgh, charged with involuntary manslaughter after his truck had fatally injured a pedestrian. His trial will be held next week.

"Let Spear Feather Your Nest"

U. S. ABANDONS JURY TRIAL OF 'DECAMERON'

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 29. (AP.) — The United States government, which first had contended otherwise, unbent far enough in its surveillance of national morals, to admit that Boccaccio's "Decameron," repository of Fourteenth Century Neopolitan philosophy, wit and gaiety, is not obscene and immoral.

The admission, made yesterday by Oswald A. Blanchard, assistant United States District Attorney for Minnesota, eliminated the necessity for a jury trial, as had first been planned, to determine the book's moral qualification.

MODERN BOOK APPROVED

Two sets of two volumes of the literary work, together with a more modern tome, "Married Love," by Marie Stopes, were included in a shipment seized by federal customs officials here last spring for violation of federal tariff regulation forbidding importation of "obscene matter."

Dr. Mabel Ulrich, Minneapolis bookstore proprietor, to whom the volumes were consigned, hired counsel to prevent destruction of the books as demanded by the government in a libel proceeding. Her attorneys found citations in New York and Pennsylvania Federal Court records holding that the book, "Married Love," is not immoral, and found further citations in support of their claim that "The Decameron" is a recognized literary classic and has been sold publicly in the United States for many years.

The government was convinced and made it official by its admissions in Federal Court here.

DAMAGE CASE POSTPONED

Hearings on damage claims over elimination of the Pennsylvania Railroad grade crossing in Crafton were postponed a month yesterday. Public Service Commissioner S. Ray Shelby was informed a compromise may be effected.

Attorney Harold M. Irons indicated Alfred C. Rhodes, who seeks $12,000, and Mary A. Lackey, $3,500, may withdraw their claims. Borough Solicitor Robert S. Chess told the Commissioner settlement of the claims would come before Council at its next meeting.

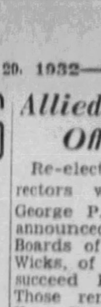
DOLLARS! DOLLARS! DOLLARS! FOR WRIGLEY USERS

Fresh, Crisp, New Bills Thrill Young and Old Pittsburghers.



By MISS MINT

Do you realize Mr. Spear and I have been here almost a month? Well, we have. It doesn't seem that long to us though—we have enjoyed it so much. But I'll bet it seems like a year to many Pittsburghers who have been waiting for us. We have really only started. We are going to "carry on" with these new dollar bills for Wrigley gum users as long as our supply holds out—and we still have a big load left. So keep on using Wrigley's and we'll get you yet.

CITY TREASURER GETS DOLLAR

R. W. THOMPSON, 6376 Meadow St., the City Treasurer, is a busy man, but not too busy to produce a package of Double Mint and receive a dollar. Mr. Thompson said, "I always keep Wrigley's in my drawer along with the cigars. If it isn't there, it is in my mouth." We're glad you like it.

MAURICE SCHWARTZ, 215 Court House, Chairman of the Mercantile Board, received a dollar when he showed Wrigley's and said, "I have used Wrigley's all my life—there isn't anything better." That's fine, Mr. Schwartz.

ANDREW J. HOLAN, 114 West Grant St., Duquesne, Teller in the Duquesne Trust Company, was hoping I would come in the bank, as he always uses Wrigley's. A crisp dollar bill was his when he showed me a package of Spearmint.

HARRY GAMBLE, 1232 Hillsdale Ave., a student at Carnegie Tech, remarked that, "Wrigley's is a very refreshing tidbit after eating." His package of P. K.'s earned him a new dollar bill.

MISS ANNA MOHAPP, 705 Lorenz Ave., Elliott, told me her sister had been stopped twice down town without Wrigley's. Believe me, Anna had hers—and will her sister be jealous when she sees Anna's dollar bill.

MRS ANNA HARNETT, 2 Woodville Ave., was sitting on her doorstep actually holding a package of Spearmint in her hand. I didn't have to ask here if she had Wrigley's—I could see it. When she told me she always chews Wrigley's after meals, because it keeps the mouth so fresh, she was rewarded with a dollar.

WANTED—A DENTIST

TONY SCHULLIN, 41½ Boundary St., was stopped by Mr. Spear two weeks ago. He has had Wrigley's ever since and now that a new dollar bill is his for carrying Juicy Fruit, he is going to get a sore tooth pulled. That's too bad, Tony. I mean the tooth.

Others who received dollar bills lately are:

MADELENE ROWLANDS, 315 Flack St.; CHARLES F. SHOEMAKER, 421 Serpentine Drive, Mt. Lebanon; E. B. BUSHMAN, 2720 Shady Ave.; CAROL C. COLE, 305 Swissvale Ave., Edgewood; OSCAR G. MEYER, 503 Peoples East End Building; C. E. PRESLICK, 428 South Negley; GLADYS PARKER, 231 South Second St., Duquesne; DR. C. R. CRAWFORD, 300 Stratford Ave.; ALICE CHANDLER, 3026 Stafford St.; HARRY R. LAHR, 1602 East St.

There are still a few people Mr. Spear and I and our assistants stop who either forget or are careless about having Wrigley's with them. You know the rules of the game are that you must have a package of any of the four Wrigley flavors with you when you are stopped, otherwise we cannot reward you with a crisp, crackly, new dollar bill. We're sorry—but "thems" the rules.

Listening In— Casual Kirbery Don Bestor Coming. And So Is Rudy

After listening to one of his broadcasts, you'd hardly believe it—but Ralph Kirbery, NBC's "Dream Singer," usually arranges his programs just a few minutes before going on the air. He scans his mail, selects a few request numbers and is ready for action . . . Lowell Patton is arranging for the publication of six of his compositions for quartet use . . . One of them is "Am I Worthy of the Master?" the words for which were written by the composer's mother, Mrs. Bella McIntosh Patton, of Portland, Ore.

Mr. Kirbery

Don Bestor and all the boys hop into an airplane bound for Pittsburgh to play at the interscholastic ball at the Grotto Temple tomorrow night . . . and the now happy Rudy Vallee is scheduled to personal appearance at Eddie Hartner's Summit Club tomorrow night, you know.

Three of NBC's page boys, Tony Cusumano, Frank Mullahey and Jack Treacy, claim a new record of some sort for touring. During their two weeks' vacation they traveled 3,500 miles in a 1922 model automobile—from New York to Daytona Beach, Fla., to Montreal to New York. They bought the car for $18—and when they got back to work, sold it to another page for $10.

Ralph Federer plans to play his own composition, "One Little Hour," during a special program made up entirely of the works of Pittsburgh composers on WCAE Monday night.

Both Hoover and Roosevelt Deliver Addresses Tonight Heard Over WCAE

An address by President Hoover, followed immediately over the same network by a speech by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is the unusual treat for WCAE listeners tonight.

President Hoover's message to the Second Women's Conference on Current Problems in New York begins at 8:30 p. m. The talk will deal with questions of the home and the protection of children. The broadcast is heard as a feature of Rudy Vallee's hour.

Gov. Roosevelt's address, scheduled at 9 o'clock, originates in Sioux City, Ia., on the Democratic presidential nominee's return swing of his nation-wide tour. Gov. Roosevelt speaks 45 minutes.

Tonight marks the resumption of two programs on KDKA and WWSW. E. Hall Downes, known as the "Ace of American Bridge Teachers," reinaugurates his series of talks on contract bridge on KDKA at 10:45 p. m. Mr. Downes is the originator of the queen, nine, deuce system of leads.

Mr. Downes

On WWSW at 7:45, the Carnegie "Puppet," humorous publication of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, presents the first of a series of programs, mirthful and musical, to continue throughout the school year.

Abe Lyman and his orchestra share the spotlight with Jack Pearl, alias the modern Baron Munchausen, during the dance hour with Walter O'Keefe on WCAE at 10 o'clock.

Program Pointers

Mickey Mouse in person stars on the "Hollywood on the Air" program at midnight . . . and not only Mickey, but Minnie, Pluto and Dippy Dog also come to the microphone during the broadcast. Other highlights of the midnight show are Mitzi Green singing "Sing You Sinners," and Fifi Dorsay's interpretation of "Maybe Perhaps," the new song from "The Girl From Calgary" . . . On WJAS at 9:45 tonight, Jacques Fray and Mario Braggiotti, youthful French-Italian piano team, noted for unusual arrangements, play Liszts "Liebestraum," Ravel's "Bolero" and "The Man I Love," by Gershwin.

Miss Dorsay

Ward Wilson impersonates Al Smith on KDKA at 7:15.

Walter B. Jackson, baritone, heard on WWSW tonight at 8, is the man who heroically saved the lives of 20 persons in the Cleveland Clinic disaster. Tonight he presents a diversified program of classical and semi-classical songs.

Georgie Price gives his impression of Raymond Hitchcock singing "Funny What a Difference a Few Hours Make" as a WJAS high spot at 7:45.

Howard Barlow, leading the Columbia Symphony Orchestra, offers the final movement of Beethoven's Fourth Symphony on WJAS at 11.

Marjorie Stewart and a group of players from the Microphone Playhouse present another episode in the dramatization, "Do Men Prefer Their Wives?" on WWSW at 9:30.

P. A. Boyd, KDKA'S press representative, has recovered from a limp sustained while indulging strenuously in a game of baseball and has returned Fred Rogers' cane to its place in a collection of 18.

Ray Griffin—we just talked to him—is back in town all pepped up about becoming the Men About Town's basso.

A new series of Monday afternoon international broadcasts via CBS and WJAS will begin October 10. The programs, presented under the title, "To an Unnamed Listener," will be sent over from London and will feature a long list of celebrities, including George Bernard Shaw and Max Beerbohm. Another group of broadcasts originating in London and on the Continent, to be heard over the same facilities, begins Sunday at 12:30. Lord Gainford, of Headlam, is the first speaker.

Freeman Gosden (Amos) loves to tune in on a particularly hot piano number and execute soft shoe taps with tricky breaks to the rhythm.

Uncle Bob, Betty Read Comics

A delightful trip with Uncle Bob and Betty through the mythical land of Sun-Telegraph comic page characters is in store for WCAE dialers at 6 tonight.

The usual 12:15 news broadcast by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, is scheduled at 12:30—15 minutes later—today only to accomodate a net program on which Secretary Ogden L. Mills speaks from 11:45 a. to 12:30 p. m. The Globe-Trotter goes on the air at 9:05 a. m., 12:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m., his 2:30 talk being canceled because of the world series broadcast on WCAE from 1:15 to 4.

3 HELD AFTER DANCE BATTLE

Three men arrested after a free-for-all fight last night in the Palisades dance hall, 108 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, were to be arraigned in police court today on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. They gave their names as Leonard Myers, "city;" Burk Palowitz, 21, and his brother, Nick, 23, of 600 Jerome street.

Police summoned to the hall by James McGirr, manager, found more than a dozen men battling in the street, including two special police employed in the dance hall, they said.

Myers and the Palowitz brothers were treated at McKeesport Hospital.

HERRIOT BACKS HOOVER ARMS CUT PLAN

By ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT
International News Service.

GENEVA, Sept. 29.—President Hoover's plan for a one-third reduction of land and sea armaments "has become essential to all disarmament discussion."

Premier Herriot, of France, made this statement in his address before the League of Nations Assembly today, bearing out International News Service predictions he was ready to espouse the Hoover program in the cause of world disarmament.

Speaking in an emotional voice, Herriot declared:

"The great American republic is working hard to strengthen the Briand-Kellogg peace pact. The best American minds are actively considering the impossibility of remaining neutral in the face of the horrible crime of war."

One illusion in his speech greatly impressed those who were aware of the hopes and plans in Premier Herriot's mind. This was his declaration that the League of Nations must accomplish two "essential" things—replace Europe's "balance of power" by universal co-operation.

His listeners were also impressed by the manner in which he avoided direct reference to the German armament demands, barely touching on this matter by the phrase "existant difficulties."

Mills Waives Debt Payment by Germany

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Signing of a waiver by Secretary of the Treasury Mills permitting Germany to postpone debt payments due Friday, today was taken as indicative of the administration's attitude to the war debt payments of $269,000,000 due December 15 from other European powers.

By signing waivers of the required 90-day notice of postponement, permissable under a "joker" in the debt agreements, Mills can postpone the next installments on the $11,000,000,000 war debts owing to American taxpayers.

In line with the administration's policy of attemptingt to forestall the debt issue during the campaign, it was indicated that no decision on the former Allied debts would be announced before the November elections.

Edge Home to Report Treaty Negotiations

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(INS.)—Walter E. Edge, American Ambassador to France, was among passengers arriving from Europe today.

Ambassador Edge will proceed to Washington to discuss phases of his negotiations for a Franco-American commercial treaty with President Hoover and other administration officials and also report on the disarmament conversations he and Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, had with the French Premier.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengué (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengué by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic baumes, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

Trolley 'Offside,' Court Metes Out $75 'Penalty'

ST. PAUL, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Judge J. L. Rounds, of Conciliation Court, was thinking about football.

Alfred S. Buser, former University of Wisconsin player, now a high school teacher here, was given a $75 verdict against the local traction company. He claimed a street car damaged his automobile.

Said the Judge's written decision:

"The street car goes through Al Buser's automobile for a touchdown, but the former all-Western tackle collects $75 penalty when the play is called back for off side."

CURLEY TALKS TO BONUS VETS

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Twenty members of the "bonus army," ousted from Washington, were guests last night at a Democratic dinner before which Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, was the principal speaker.

Mayor Curley predicted a "landslide" victory for Gov. Roosevelt in the presidential election, and blamed the depression on the Republican administration.

The bonus army members were introduced by Congressman Martin L. Sweeney as "victims of the massacre of July 28." He said "the treatment they received will make Herbert Hoover go down in history as the unknown President."

The Boston Mayor ridiculed Republican promises of 1928 that a Republican victory would mean "two cars in every garage and a chicken in every pot." He said:

"We are not informed that it was the purpose of President Hoover and those associated with him to exploit America for the benefit of the banking fraternity."

Sharpsburg Seeks To Purchase Power

Sharpsburg not being able to produce sufficient electricity to supply its consumers, the Public Service Commission has been asked to ratify a contract between the borough and the Duquesne Light Company for emergency current. It is to run five years from June 6. Council Secretary John J. Hohman, Jr., testified before Commissioner S. Ray Shelby that on account of the current required by the Roessing Manufacturing Company at times the service supplied other consumers is impaired.

SURPLUS FRUIT GIVEN NEEDY

Ten trucks have been placed in service in the Hazelwood district to collect surplus fruit from farms in co-operation with the Save the Surplus Committee, it was announced today.

Thirty-five bushels of apples were picked in a single day this week by unemployed of the district, according to J. A. Collins, relief chairman.

WOMEN FLOCK TO ANTI-DRYS, LEADER SAYS

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—An enrollment of 1,152,000 members in the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform was claimed today by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, of New York, to the executive committee of the group which was formed by 17 women in 1929.

She told the committee a majority of the members have been added in the last year and said:

"This clearly indicates the direction from which opposition to the Eighteenth Amendment is coming in increasing force—from women who have lost their respect for it and want it repealed."

She said the group now has a larger membership in many states than the Women's Christian Temperance Union and declared:

"The reason is easy to understand. We are now the party of temperance, the W. C. T. U. has become the party of intolerance. Temperance is and always will be the women's cause. But temperance cannot be insured, as these good ladies seem to think, merely by preempting a claim upon the word."

A committee met to discuss plans for giving active support to candidates for Congress who favor repeal of the amendment.

Thirty-eight states have legislation providing for liquor control which would become effective in event of repeal, Jouett Shouse, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, said last night in addressing a mass-meeting in St. Paul. He said only 10 states would have to enact laws for liquor control.

Hospital Attendant Held in Death Case

Edward Hennigan, 42, St. Francis Hospital attendant, was being held for the grand jury today on a murder charge following a coroner's inquest into the death of David M. Linton, 53, of the South Hills, a patient.

Linton died September 7. He had suffered a fracture of the breast bone, said to be the result of being beaten by Hennigan September 4. Hennigan testified he found Linton walking in a hall in the hospital and placed leather anklets on him. He denied using violence.

Free Service Total Of Hospital High

M. H. Eichenlaub, of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania, said today that free hospital care in the state last year cost more than $11,600,000. Of this amount, $3,600,000 was furnished by state aid and the remainder by the hospitals. Pittsburgh's 31 hospitals assumed responsibility for $1,263,000 above the state appropriations.

COYNE INQUIRY TURNS TOWARD TAX AND WILLS OFFICES

Riis' Successor

ALEXANDER M. MARION

Mr. Marion, former coal dealer, one-time railroad clerk, pictured in his garden today at his home, 400 Richland lane, East End, after his appointment as county director of parks to succeed "fired" Paul B. Riis. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Politicians Here Show Skill in Keeping Their Relatives on Payroll

Nepotism—the art of getting relatives jobs on the public payrolls—is a favorite year-around practice with political leaders in Western Pennsylvania.

State, county and city payrolls are loaded with relatives of prominent political leaders. Their brothers and their sisters, their uncles and aunts and nephews—and their wives' relations have crept or leaped into public service.

Many holding jobs by blood-ties are capable; undoubtedly, many are not. Many have worked diligently for their party, faction, or leader; many have not. Many are needy, many are not.

JOBS FOR KLINE KIN

Hardly a political leader or man holding public office of importance in Allegheny County and Pittsburgh escapes the art of nepotism.

Many are known, but due to the variety of names, efforts to trace all for complete listings are futile.

Mayor Charles H. Kline has a few, his brother-in-law, Dr. Samuel H. Johnson, being a $3,600-a-year member of the Civil Service Commission, and a nephew, S. H. Johnson, Jr., a temporary clerk at $125 a month in the County Treasurer's office.

The County Commissioners, Charles C. McGovern, William D. Mansfield and C. M. Barr have theirs; McGovern, six; Mansfield, three, and Barr, two.

McGovern has many relatives to choose from; the others few.

BROTHERS IN SERVICE

Senator James J. Coyne's four brothers are in the public service, and Michael Muldowney, councilman, has three.

Capt. Robert S. Cain, County Treasurer, has four, only one a blood relative, the others related by marriage.

Joseph N. Mackrell, Register of Wills, his father and a brother have lucrative jobs.

Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh has at least half a dozen; Samuel J. Topley, Clerk of Quarter Sessions Court, has three sons employed in the county, while Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar has three relatives, a brother, a step-son and a sister-in-law scattered in city, county and state.

Judges, in state and county courts, for the most part, have at least one relative on the payrolls; many city Councilmen have one; some more. They are diverted through the maizes of public lists so complicated that veteran clerks are unfamiliar with jobs and salaries, not to say relationships.

DAVIS KIN CARED FOR

Jury Commissioner Thomas Daugherty, former County Commissioner Stephen O'Toole, U. S. Senator James J. Davis, Justice of the Supreme Court James B. Drew, Miss Rose Donahey, secretary to Commissioner McGovern, all have relatives on the job.

It is to the credit of many, such as the County Commissioners, Mackrell, Coyne, Cain, Walsh and Gollmar, that they make no effort to hide and are willing to justify the holdings of jobs by men and women of their clans.

Not all others, but some, have attempted to make secret their practice of the old but still favored custom of "taking care of the folks."

In a series of articles to follow, the chief families involved and justifications will be printed in the Sun-Telegraph.

BATTLE LOOMS OVER RAILING 'MONOPOLY'

Low Bidder Threatens Suit, 4 Other Firms Join in Protest

Equity proceedings to enjoin the city from continuing the Hunter Steel Company's exclusive contracts on "safety railing," was threatened today by the Pressed Steel Car Company in a communication to Mayor Charles H. Kline, Council President John S. Herron and Public Works Director Edward G. Lang.

Four other Pittsburgh steel and ornamental iron companies today added their protest against awarding of the $34,000 contract under the specifications as advertised. They are the Sommerville Company, Taylor & Dean, Builders Steel Works and the Reiling Manufacturing Company.

LOW BIDDERS IGNORED

The Pressed Steel Car Company's bid of $9.55 per lineal foot for fence railing on the West Carson street improvement project, was low. Lang was to award the contract today.

The Hunter Steel Company's bid was $11.10 per lineal foot and that of the Fort Pitt Malleable Iron Company $10.95 per foot.

"Hunter safety railing" was specified in the ordinance sent Council by the Public Works Department on the assertion that it was more durable and that use of any other would engage the city in patent infringement suits. The Hunter product is patented. Bidders assert the "Hunter safety railing" clause stifles competition and creates a monopoly.

'EXORBITANT PRICE'

In its communication, the Pressed Steel Car Company said:

"Bids submitted by the Pressed Steel Car Company for this work is lowest of all bids submitted by $1.40 per foot. In limiting bids to the 'Hunter safety railing,' which is patented, the city of Pittsburgh has been stifling competition and is requiring the people to pay an exorbitant price for an article no more artistic, efficient or durable than fence manufactured by other companies.

"We are advised that the city, under the guise of a patent, cannot legally limit the purchase of such a standardized article as fence railing to the kind made only by one company.

"We now notify you that if the contract for this job is let the Hunter concern to the exclusion of our low bid, we will file a bill in equity to enjoin the city from continuing this monopoly."

EINSTEIN URGES COLLECTOR GET SALARY, BONUS

Probe Held Up Two Weeks For Reports Of Sub-Committees

Senator James J. Coyne's legislative committee seeking methods of reducing costs of municipal government in Allegheny County has taken a two weeks' adjournment so sub-committees appointed to probe, among other things, the delinquent tax and the Register of Wills offices, might have time to make initial reports.

Following a session yesterday, Senator Coyne announced the next meeting would be Wednesday afternoon, October 12. He announced two committees, one to investigate the registration commission and the other to investigate costs of operating the delinquent tax and register of wills offices.

EINSTEIN NAMED

Senator Morris Einstein, of the Coyne committee, was selected to work with John Morrow and Mrs. Sarah Braun, of the Registration Commission, and J. Scott Morgan and James P. Kirk, former members, in reporting on expenditures of that office. Senator Coyne has announced he is in favor of permanent registration, which would eliminate yearly registration days and effect economy.

In appointing this committee, Coyne said:

"Mr. Kirk's a Democrat, so that gives them a chance to say something, too."

The committee to investigate the delinquent tax office and the office of Joseph N. Mackrell, register of wills, is composed of W. D. Rush and James McGonigle, public accountants, and Representatives Thomas Neely, James Wettach and George Soffel, members of Coyne's legislative committee.

OFFICE REAPS HARVEST

Senator Einstein said:

"I have made a personal investigation of the delinquent tax office and I find this office has gotten more money than any other in the county or state.

"I am against doing away with a delinquent tax collector. In Pittsburgh in 1913 there were nearly one and a half millions outstanding in delinquent taxes. A short time later the city delinquent tax collector's office was abolished. Today we have outstanding in the city $14,250,000 in delinquent taxes.

"I believe in giving a man a reason for working. I am opposed to a big commission. I know the county delinquent tax collector gets too much. I am for a salary and bonus. If he was paid a set salary he would sit down and not bother about collecting taxes. Salary and bonus on a much smaller commission would be a good thing for this office. Give him some incentive. At present his com-

LOAN BANK SEEN AS B.-L. AID

Building and Loan Association men from all parts of the Pittsburgh district last night crowded the Chamber of Commerce auditorium to hear details of the new Federal Home Loan Bank.

Attorney Forrest G. Moorehead, of Beaver County, described the new institution as offering additional opportunities to the building and loan associations to serve the community. Such associations as merely want to close up their accounts will not borrow from the new bank, and will be practically out of business, Moorehead declared.

Leading building and loan men have been striving to get the Home Loan Bank for 13 years, Moorehead declared. One of the chief benefits, he said, will be the distribution of cash to subscribers who are now in many cases badly in need of it.

Other speakers were Philip Martsolf, of New Brighton, Pa.; Joseph H. Reass, of Wheeling, W. Va., and Hubbs Weimer. C. P. Rhen presided.

Big Town Dull; Barn Fire Would Be Exciting

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

It has been a dull week in New York. On Monday we saw Schmeling and Walker hamburger each other. On Tuesday the Mayor knocked one hundred million off the budget and yesterday the Cubs tangled with the Yanks.

There were a few gang fights and a couple of thousand raids on speakeasies. But that ain't news. Life in the old burg is getting monotonous.

We long to be back in the sticks where things were doing and somebody burned a barn once in a while.

We only have two hundred thousand strangers in Manhatten today. Somebody must have put in a rap against the town.

COX FLIES WEST TO JOIN PARTY

Father James R. Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Church, was westward bound by airplane today to join a group of his followers awaiting him in San Francisco. He hoped to be there at noon tomorrow. Over the week-end and next week, Father Cox expects to speak in several coast cities before starting the return trek through Arizona, Texas and Louisiana.

Father Cox flew from the municipal airport late yesterday after several hours' delay due to bad weather.

Crash Delays Cars On Frankstown Ave.

Outbound Frankstown avenue trolley traffic was tied up for 10 minutes this morning when a street car, leaving the Homewood car barns, struck a coal truck driven by Leonard J. Youngo in Frankstown avenue, strewing the street with coal. Youngo suffered cuts.

Attorney's Illness Delays Water Case

Public Service Commissioner Samuel Walker has postponed for two weeks hearings on the complaint against the South Pittsburgh Water Company for its alleged failure to extend water service to Library.

Attorney E. A. Kiezler, of Homestead, who represents the complainants is ill.

STAGE TEACHER HELD OVER

Mrs. Elma Lightner, 46, of Newport, Ark., who advertised to teach budding theatrical directors the essentials of "minstrels, make-up and psychology," was arraigned in Central Police Court, charged with violating a city ordinance.

She had neglected to take out a city license to conduct such a business, police testified.

Mrs. Lightner said she did not know of such a requirement. She testified she represented the Star Production Company, of Urbana, O.

Ruth Youngst, 24, of Duquesne, testified she had paid $10 to Mrs. Lightner in the William Penn Hotel as the initial charge on a $25 course in theatrical direction.

Floyd Boling, East Liberty, testified he had taken a similar course from another representative of the same company, but had received no money for conducting amateur theatricals.

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg held the case over.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 29.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

It was good today to hear our old friend, De Wolf Hopper, recite his epic, "Casey at the Bat." It was good to hear Graham McNamee, who has remained preeminent as an announcer during all these years. Ted Husing was good, as usual. The old radio pays for itself every fall during the world series.

Will Rogers

We listen to ads, crooners and politicians all year just to hear "the count is three and two on Babe Ruth and the pitcher is winding up." That's America's greatest suspense. Babe is the only man in the world that was never "tuned out on" when he stepped up to that old home plate microphone. Yours, WILL.

P. S.—Gandhi is eating again. Democrats still fasting.

Pittsburgher Given Artillery Promotion

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Edward M. Spellman, 5753 Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh, has been promoted to first lieutenant in the coast artillery reserve.

MOVES TO OUST P. O. BUILDER

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Sept. 29.—The Treasury Department today is considering the petition of Congressman Adam M. Wyant that the Nicholas Company, of Philadelphia, contractors for the Postoffice Building here, be dismissed and the contract terminated. Wyant also has recommended that a local contracting firm or individual be placed in charge for the remainder of the work.

Wyant's recommendations have centralized dissatisfaction by local people, which has been brewing for weeks. At the cornerstone laying, last Saturday, both Congressman Wyant and Burgess Daniel Burns criticized the manner in which the building is being constructed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Acting Supervising Architect Wetmore, of the Treasury Department, said:

"I have already been informed that the services of the contractor are entirely unsatisfactory and if an investigation by this office proves this to be a fact, appropriate action will be taken."

CAGNEY SALARY ROW SETTLED

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—A "friendly settlement" of the salary dispute between James Cagney, red-headed screen player, and Warner Brothers-First National Studios, has been announced.

It was reported that Cagney, who was being paid $1,400 a week when he walked out last spring with the announcement he would become a physician, will go back to work under the terms of his old contract, but at a new figure. He will start work under a new option of a year's duration at $1,750 a week.

The dispute was settled at a long conference in the offices of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Afterward, the studio said it was "happy" to have the actor back, that "complete satisfaction" reigned.

Nothing was said about reports that Mary Pickford wanted the star to appear opposite her in one of her productions.

HOUSE ROBBED, SUSPECT HELD

Harry C. Jones, 29, a Negro, of 1120 Wylie avenue, was being held by North Side police today, accused of ransacking the home of Mrs. T. C. Tipper, 2648 Brighton road, yesterday.

Jones was arrested in Riverview Park shortly after Mrs. Tipper told police two suitcases and two boxes of candy had been stolen by the thief. Lieut. John Joyce took up the trail, found the suitcases not far from the Tipper home and came upon Jones, who was eating the candy, he said. Jones was charged with being a suspicious person.

Fireworks Barrage Puts Birds to Rout

Here's a new one from New Kensington.

Hoping to chase hundreds of sparrows that have been making their home in the vince-covered walls of a business building at Eleventh street, New Kensington, a broadside of Roman candles was fired against the outside walls.

The choking smoke chased the birds away—at least temporarily.

CITES FELLOWSHIP NEED IN DULL TIMES

CLINTON P. ANDERSON . . . . . ROTARY INTERNATIONAL'S PRESIDENT IN PITTSBURGH

Rotary Chief Urges Better Feeling In Business

Fellowship generated around the luncheon table strengthens the spirit of men, according to the message delivered last night to Rotary Club members of the thirty-third district by International President Clinton P. Anderson, Albuquerque, N. Y.

Anderson was guest of honor at a dinner in the Fort Pitt Hotel. He is making a tour of Rotary districts. Speaking on the need of sacrifice, loyalty and vision, Anderson stated:

"Men today need fellowship. In the man who sits next to you at a Rotary luncheon may be a heart that is heavy. Through no fault of his, he may have lost the savings of a lifetime; may have seen an economic situation threaten his business. Last year was a year of suicides. This must be a year of salvation. Rotary, through the fellowship at luncheon tables, can help to put happiness and strength into the live of men."

Citing the 3,500 Rotary clubs throughout the world, he said:

"We should help to promote the cause of better understanding between business men around the world."

Report Liquor Found In Amber Street Raid

Five quarts of whisky, 20 pints of gin, 70 bottles of beer, two bottles of apricot brandy, 11 bottles of cognac and a bottle of rum were reported confiscated by constables and prohibition agents last night in a raid on a house in Amber street. A. C. Bettelone was arrested.

Auto Strikes, Injures New Kensington Boy

Daniel Rowe, 11, of 1261 Victoria street, New Kensington, is in the Citizens' General Hospital suffering from a fracture of the left leg, received last night when he was struck by an automobile said to have been driven by Miss Ruth Cummley, of Capalta street, New Kensington. At the hospital the boy's condition was said to be good.

Operatorless Exchange In 11-Foot Building

There's a garage-like structure in Ingomar whose inside dimensions are 11x17 feet. It houses the Ingomar telephone exchange, one of the strangest in the country, in that it hasn't any operators.

For Ingomar's operators are mechanical, proved to be above any of the human failings, except susceptibility to cold. They are known as line finding units and are part of an apparatus known as step-by-step equipment.

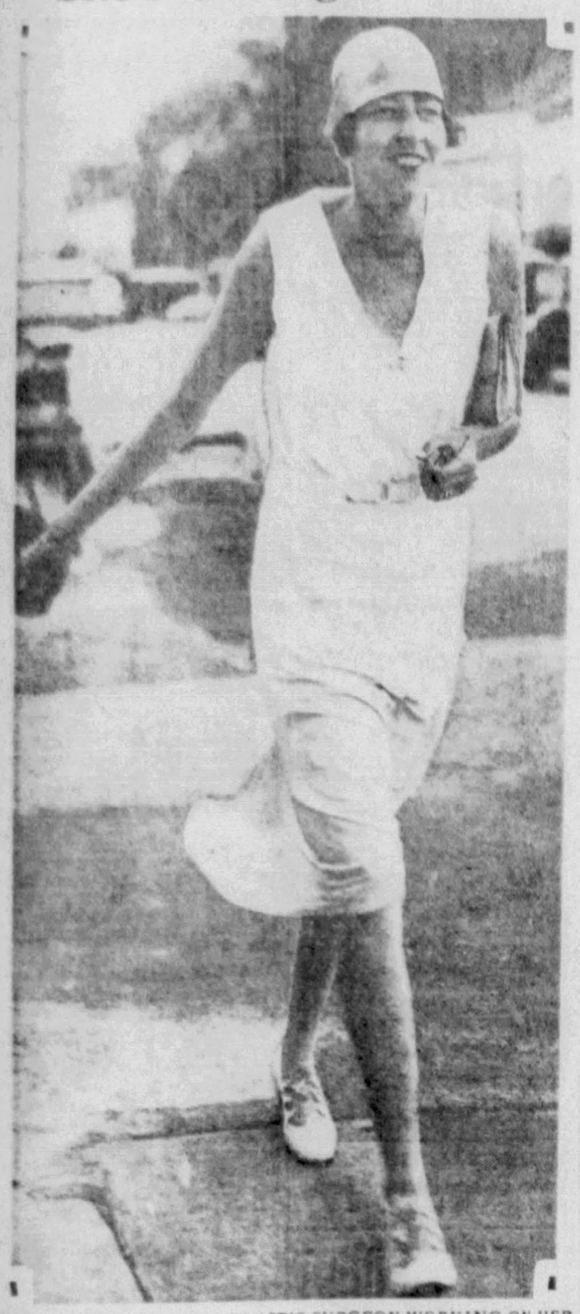
In Ingomar when a subscriber lifts his receiver, the unit finds a trunk line to the Perrysville office that is not busy and in less time than it takes to find the space bar of a typewriter, the Perrysville operator is inquiring: "Number, please."

A small gas stove with a thermostat which keeps the temperature in the wooden building at 55 degrees so the "operators" won't "suffer" from the cold is the only visual indication that the unit is not entirely devoid of human requirements.

The unit at Ingomar was the first installed in the Bell system and was adopted because of the manner in which the district has been populated. When no longer needed, it can be loaded on a truck and carted off.

POLICE PENSION CUT ILLEGAL, VIEW OF JUDGE GRAY

She's Getting a Nose



FIFI WIDENER HOLDEN . . PLASTIC SURGEON WORKING ON HER

The divorced Mrs. Holden, the former Josephine Widener, daughter of the wealthy Pennsylvania sportsman, today preparing to appear in New York society with a new nose, the work of a plastic surgeon. There's no hint yet as to her choice of shape, size.

SURGEON GIVING FIFI NEW NOSE

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(Universal.)—Fifi Widener Holden is having a little plastic surgery done. The socially prominent daughter of "Joe" Widener will have a brand new nose. It has not been revealed what type of nose Fifi selected.

As for Fifi's romance with Askel De Wichfeld, there is nothing new to report, it was said today.

In Paris, Mme. De Wichfeld declines to think seriously of a divorce.

FAY GOES EAST TO JOIN RUDY

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29.—(Universal.)—All smiles and apparently excited by the thought of seeing her crooner-husband for the first time since their marital ship neared divorce shoals, Fay Webb Vallee last night boarded a train bound eastward, declaring:

"I'm going to meet Rudy in Cleveland. I'm so happy."

The chic Santa Monica girl has been visiting her parents, chief of police and Mrs. Clarence Webb, since she came here from Reno aftr abandoning plans for a divorce.

During her stay here, Mrs. Vallee and her husband have telephoned each other daily, she said.

Forced to Shoot Self, Girl Tells Police

WINDSOR, Ontario, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Provincial police today were investigating the story of Vinca Vincent, 15, that a man she did not know forced her, at the point of a pistol, to shoot herself with a gun belonging to her father.

As the man fled from the house, she said, she fired at him. She is in a hospital here, said by physicians to have an even chance to recover from a wound in her side.

Duck Hunting Good On Nebraska Road

CHAMBERS, Neb., Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Duck hunting may be better this fall on highway No. 13 than on the South Fork River.

An optical illusion caused the oiled sand highway to resemble water. Sportsmen report that ducks have been hovering over it occasionally, offering easy targets and no wading to get dead birds.

Mrs. Borah Passes Parrot Fever Crisis

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—The improvement in the condition of Mrs. William E. Borah, ill with parrot fever, continues and the latest bulletins from her physicians indicate the wife of the United States Senator has passed the critical stage.

CRAIGHEAD ENDS LONG CAREER

Postal Inspector George V. Craighead will retire tomorrow after 40 years in the postal service, 33 years as an inspector and seven years with the railway mail.

Craighead, who resides at 729 Hill avenue, Wilkinsburg, has been probably the best known government investigator in the Pittsburgh district. He has the reputation of being one of the most efficient members of the inspection branch of the Postoffice Department and on numerous occasions he has been assigned to special investigations in other parts of the country. He is second in length of service in postal inspection work.

He specialized in cases where the mail was used in schemes to defraud and his investigations resulted in convictions of hundreds of fake promoters and others in fraudulent operations. Because of his wish to remain in this district, he declined promotions which would have taken him to Philadelphia or other cities.

He tendered his resignation a month ago and announced that he has no other plans, after retirement, other than take a much needed rest.

DELAYS RULING UNTIL BOARD MAKES MOVE

A proposed move to reduce police pensions from $86 to $50 a month by a vote of the pension fund directors, is illegal, Judge James H. Gray indicated in an opinion handed down today.

At the same time the court dissolved a preliminary injunction obtained by 16 pensioners against the pension fund association on the ground that no adequate basis for an injunction existed inasmuch as the pension cut was only a proposal and had not been authorized.

The court retained the bill of complaint subject to further action in event the proposed amendment to the by-laws goes through. Judges Thomas M. Marshall, Elder W. Marshall and James R. Macfarlane concurred in the opinion.

AUDITOR ADMITS LODGE THEFT

The auditor general of the Verhovay Aid Society, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, today pleaded guilty to 25 indictments charging embezzlement, forgery and false pretense, involving approximately $25,000 of the society's funds.

Joseph M. Bartha, 60, of 764 Frayne street, Hazelwood, who entered his plea today before Visiting Judge Norman T. Boose, of Somerset County, juggled the funds during the past two and a half years in an effort to balance the accounts of delinquent branches of the society, according to his attorney, George Varady. He averred his client had profited only to the extent of between $2,000 and $3,000.

Judge Boose postponed sentence to the week of October 10.

TRAIL 2 AUTOS IN BOMB PROBE

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Police throughout the country today were on the watch for two New York automobiles, the occupants of which Worcester police believed might help in the investigation of the bombing Tuesday of the home of Judge Webster Thayer.

The cars were registered to Northport and Glendale, N. Y., men, and the police said they wanted to question the occupants as they had received reports that they had acted suspiciously near the Thayer home Monday night or early Tuesday morning.

The Worcester police continued their general investigation of the bombing while the state police gave their efforts to a checkup on the thefts of dynamite in recent months. Experts have definitely determined that the bomb which partially wrecked the judge's home was made up of dynamite and was set off by a black powder fuse.

Judge Thayer spent the night at the home of a neighbor, where he has been a guest since the explosion, while his wife remained a patient at Memorial Hospital. She is recovering from cuts and bruises received in the blast.

Man Who Helped To Found Gary Dies

GARY, Ind., Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Arthur P. Melton, 57, one of three men sent to Gary in 1906 by the United States Steel Corporation to lay out the town site, died following a heart attack suffered at a Democratic political meeting. He was a member of the State Highway Commission.

Coyne Probe Reaches Wills, Tax Offices

mission is too much and it should be cut."

COYNE BACKS OFFICE

In appointing the committee Senator Coyne asked that it make recommendations. He said:

"We want to be sure our remedy is better than the disease. If the people of Allegheny County want to eliminate the delinquent tax office they will have to convince me it is for the best. I am still convinced the commission office is better than a salary office. If this committee wants to abolish that office, I am not going to stand in their way.

"I want to say this about the Register of Wills. I don't believe this man makes half the money they say he does. He is supposed to make $50,000 a year. I find that he has made $30,000 a year, only once since he has been in the job."

SHERIFF INQUIRY

The office of the sheriff came in for an investigation when Attorney Daniel Anderson appeared. He said he, with Attorneys A. C. Hirsh and Maurice Chaitken, form a committee appointed by the Allegheny County Bar Association, probing the cost of legal advertising as it concerns the sheriff's office. He said he found much of the procedure for legal advertising was set by acts of Legislature which should be changed.

Senator Coyne asked if this bar association committee would work with two persons to be named by him to investigate this expense, and Attorney Anderson agreed to help. Representative Neely and L. T. Stevenson, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and a Pittsburgh realty dealer, were named to work with the three attorneys.

PLAN NIGHT SESSIONS

Senator Coyne also appointed Representatives Neely and Soffel to work with a committee named last week to investigate the school board, the city and county boards of viewers and assessors and the jury commissioners.

Already at work on this committee are C. C. McKallip and J. R. Brady of the Real Estate Board; Edgar J. Kaufmann, R. K. MacConnell and Maj. Phillip Mathews. It is understood the several sub-committees will work at night in the new County Building, preparing reports for the probing body.

Stevenson appeared before the committee yesterday, complimented the members on their work and declared that unless relief from high taxes is afforded, virtually all real estate would be taken by the county for non-payment. He said high taxes played an important part in forcing industries out of the city.

GUMBERT SCHOOL

The County Controller's office presented figures to the committee yesterday showing that up until August of this year the Gumbert Industrial Home for Girls has spent $51,000. There are 57 inmates in the home. These figures were to be substituted for others given the committee earlier.

C. C. Hamilton, real estate dealer, presented a letter to the committee, advocating a greater Pittsburgh which would eliminate many duplicate offices in the cities, boroughs and townships. To this suggestion, Senator Coyne said:

"I don't think we will go into the problem of a greater Pittsburgh. This committee wants to agree upon things which will bring relief to the people of Pittsburgh within six months after the first of the year."

One More Chance To Register for Election

Residents of cities in Allegheny County who have been assessed, still have one chance to qualify in order to vote at the November election.

October 8 will be the third and last registration day in the cities. This is also the last day to pay poll taxes. Only those regularly assessed can pay taxes.

September 7 was the last day to be assessed.

TWO HERE ASK P. S. C. PERMITS

Two requests affecting Pittsburgh are before the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg, according to an Associated Press dispatch. The Murdoch Storage and Transfer Company, of Pittsburgh, yesterday asked approval of its incorporation and a permit to operate a motor freight service in Allegheny County.

Incorporators are Eugene R. Speer, Samuel P. Steffler and C. Robert Powell, Pittsburgh.

Permission to operate a motor freight service between Atlasburg and Pittsburgh has been asked by William W. Lyon, Burgettstown.

CITY HANDLING OF GARBAGE ADVOCATED

Collection of garbage by the city rather than private interests, was stressed at the opening session today of the International Association of Public Works Officials in convention for three days at the William Penn Hotel.

Problems of economic operation of public works departments through decreased city incomes was the keynote. The disposal recommendation was made in a paper submitted by C. K. Allen, Baltimore. He said:

"Some years ago, Baltimore's collections were made by private collectors. We did not deem it a sanitary method of handling, because of irregularity of collections and character of equipment. Baltimore now handles its own disposal."

Appeal to equipment manufacturers to provide purchase plans whereby departments operating on curtailed appropriations can buy equipment on a monthly basis was urged by Capt. Harrington Place, of Detroit. He stressed need of officials to co-operate with the public. Citing the cry against further taxation, he said "our public is vastly more interested in the several forms of government than ever at any time."

The manufacturers' division, of which Charles T. Hvass, New York, is president, will entertain the delegates tomorrow night. Election of officers is to close the convention Saturday morning. H. D. Bradley, of Toronto, is president, and A. M. Anderson, of Chicago, secretary.

ARRANGING FOR THREE CONVENTIONS

C. T. HVASS F. L. DUGGAN L. C. SMITH L. B. ERMELING J. C. WIEGMANN

Mr. Hvass, manufacturers' division president of the International Association of Public Works Officials, opening its convention in Pittsburgh today, discussing conventions in general with Mr. Duggan, Pittsburgh, and Mr. Smith, executive secretary, arranging the November convention of the $1,152,000,000 ice industry's National Association of Ice Industries, and with Mr. Ermeling, executive secretary, arranging the June convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, representing investments of $7,000,000,000. They are three of many conventions to be held in Pittsburgh this year. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

OLD SPAN CAUSE OF P. S. C. FIGHT

A rickety old bridge, torn down a year ago as a safety measure, today was the cause of a hearing before the Public Service Commission, attended by an extensive array of legal talent. The hearing was held on complaint of Thomas R. Battle against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Boroughs of Penn and Jeannette, Penn Township and Westmoreland County. Battle asked for the reconstruction of the bridge at or near its former site.

The case was dismissed with permission to file a new complaint involving the abolition of a grade crossing in Penn Borough and the substitution of an underpass, for both the grade crossing and the bridge.

Eleven years ago the railroad company spent $10,000 for repairs to the bridge, with Penn Township to maintain it for 10 years. When the agreement expired the bridge was torn down by the railroad company, it being said the company feared the bridge would fall on a train.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies· ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

In Mayfair
—With—

Pittsburgh children are going to be lucky this winter, for in addition to the series of plays to be sponsored by the Women's Overseas League for Peace, Jean Gros will bring the Hestwood marionettes to town. And the marionettes probably will become a permanent thing.

A representative group of people will give its patronage to the first appearance on October 8.

On that day Mickey Mouse in person and Minnie Mouse, too, will appear in "Mickey Mouse the Champion."

There'll be two performances, as I've mentioned before—one at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, and one at 2:30 o'clock, both in the Hotel Schenley ballroom. The hotel will serve a special Mickey Mouse luncheon for children and a Mickey Mouse tea.

Mrs. Samuel Hamilton, Mrs. George K. Stevenson, Mrs. William Schmertz and Mrs. William Gibson are patronesses, and so are Mrs. Davis Burroughs, Mrs. John Berdan, Mrs. William H. Duff II, Mrs. Clifford Heinz and Mrs. William E. Evans.

Sponsor Affair

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Boyd Edwards are giving their patronage, and so are Mrs. Charles Dougal, Mrs. William S. McKinney, Mrs. A. J. Sunstein, Mrs. A. Leo Weil, Mrs. W. T. McCullough.

The Harry D. Strattons, of Indian Neck, Conn., formerly of Pittsburgh, have made known the marriage yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Branford, Conn., in Trinity Episcopal Church, of their daughter, Virginia Louise, to John Andrew Muir, of Hartford, Conn., son of the John H. Muirs, of London, England. The bride and her family are well known to old Pittsburgh families.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore ivory satin with a tulle veil finished with a cap of old rose point, caught with orange blossoms, and she carried fragrant gardenias and lilies of the valley.

The reception was held in the Stratton home after the ceremony and later the young Muirs left on their honeymoon. After October 15 they will be at home in Hartford. Mrs. Muir is a graduate of St. Margaret's and the bridegroom is a University of New Brunswick, Canada, man.

The bride's uncle, John Pittock, by the way, was the founder of the old Pittsburgh Leader.

Margaret Morrison Alumnae Dance to Be Held Tomorrow

When the welcome dance is crossed off Margaret Morrison Alumnae Association's calendar tomorrow night the event of the immediate future will be a business meeting and tea at the College Club on November 5. After that is slated the alumni homecoming, November 18 and 19, with class parties and reunions featuring it.

January 14 is the date set for the New Year's tea in Recreation Hall, an event for which Mrs. W. H. Harrold, alumnae president, will serve as chairman with the assistance of the executive board. The Hotel Schenley has been chosen as the place for the annual benefit bridge party, and February 11 is its date.

An extra scholarship drive was found necessary last year, but this year the members hope to make their entire fund at this one big benefit.

During March a play will be presented by the drama department of Carnegie Institute of Technology and, for the last event on the year's calendar, Dr. Thomas Stockham Baker, president, will review "The Last Ten Years at Carnegie."

As You Know—

collars and sleeves are the main points of departure in the 1932-1933 fur coat silhouette. The new collars, large and small, and the fuller sleeves, with their deeper armholes, are definitely different. Alterations at these points, strategically executed by expert fur workers at Grabowsky's, will transform your fur garment into the latest mode.

A Few Suggestions for Re-Styling:

COLLARS	SLEEVES
(a) Bolster collar	(a) Leg o'mutton
(b) Tie-on collar	(b) Puffed
(c) Small upstanding collar with flare.	(c) Cape, either single or double
(d) Scarf collar	(d) Raglan
(e) Capes of an infinite variety	(e) Epaulets

As to length, a slight adjustment downward may be desirable. Or, coats may be shortened to swagger length.

Your problem, however, will be an individual one. That is the way we regard all alterations brought to us. Come in and talk it over. We will gladly furnish an estimate that is strictly in accordance with readjusted 1932 price trends.

Selma L. Pettey Marries In Trinity Cathedral

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Pettey, of Perrysville avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Selma Louise Pettey, to Arthur William Grabe, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Grabe, Sr., of Dormont, which was solemnized at 7:30 o'clock last evening in Trinity Cathedral. Canon Edward M. Wilson officiated, before the altar which was beautifully decorated with fall flowers and ferns and lighted by tall tapers placed in candelabra on either side of the altar.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an Empire gown of bridal velvet, made with a heart-shaped neckline and shirred dolman sleeves. The bodice was close fitting, and the sweeping skirt ended in a triple-scalloped court train. Her veil of silk chantilly lace cascaded from a cap of the same lace, caught with orange blossoms, and her bouquet was of calla lilies.

The attendants all wore princess gowns in pastel transparent velvet with round necklines, puffed sleeves and velvet turbans, long white kid gloves, and carried tiny chiffon muffs covered with sprays of gardenias. Miss Lillian Grabe, sister of the bridegroom, was in pink with a blue hat and slippers; Miss Nelda Jackson, was in green with peach accessories; Miss Isabelle Baker, in peach with green accessories, and Mrs. William K. Miller, in blue with pink accessories. Little Eleanor Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wilson, of Ben Avon, was flower girl, wearing a frock of orchid crepe with a matching bonnet, and carrying a basket of rose petals and fall flowers.

Louis Grabe was his brother's best man and ushers included two other brothers, Earl and George Grabe, Jr., Frank Lewis, Harry Peterson and Herbert Laughner. An organ recital was given before the ceremony by Alfred Hamer.

The reception for 95 guests was held in the Pettey home. Receiving with the bridal party were the bride's mother, in white suede lace banded with Kolinsky, with a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley. The bridegroom's mother chose brown panne velvet with a corsage of orchids.

The bride's table, lighted by tall tapers, was centered with pink and white flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Grabe left for a honeymoon in Havana, Cuba, and a tour of the South, after which they will be at home in Dormont, about November 1.

More than Ever they Say

"KAUFMANN'S for Everything Under the Sun"

—" and a happy home too"

"I wanted a clear skin—

I got it . . . and a happy home, too"

If you long for a better skin . . . or strength to overcome that so-called tired-feeling, why not pause a moment and reason in a common-sense way what may be the cause of your trouble and its relation to the blood

THERE is no secret as to how to have a clear skin—in most cases it comes from within. That is just why you may need S.S.S.

This time-tested tonic has brought happiness and joy to thousands. To some it has meant freedom from pimples and boils . . . to others it has meant a restored appetite and improved digestion—to all it has meant greater vitality.

The reason for this is that S.S.S., in addition to being a valuable general tonic, has the special property of increasing the red-cells and restoring the hemoglobin content of the blood, when deficient.

Hemoglobin, in the red-cells of the blood, plays an important role in body vitality and in combating skin troubles—it acts as a carrying agent to take oxygen from the lungs to all parts of the body—even to the skin—and carries off the waste product.

Overwork, worry, colds, sickness and diet neglect frequently reduce the red-cells and the hemoglobin content of the blood—and when these are reduced the body and mind are not normal.

this means much to you

The right amount of hemoglobin in the blood makes a vast difference in the way you feel and look. It means sufficient oxygen . . . better assimilation of food . . . more energy . . . and more resistance.

pimples . . . boils

tend to thrive when the system is in a run-down condition due to a deficiency of this vital hemoglobin, causing a lack of oxygen and an excess of poisonous carbon dioxide gas.

even the appetite

lags when there is not enough hemoglobin in the blood stream to give the system the oxygen it needs and to free it of poison.

and digestion

can function properly only when there is sufficient oxygen in the blood to "burn" the food consumed. A lack of oxygen may result in impaired nutrition . . . gas . . . abdominal discomfort . . . nausea . . . constipation . . . diarrhea . . . headache . . . underweight, etc.

so that tired feeling

—as it is commonly called—is related to the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin, for the reason that oxygen in the blood gives greater vitality to the system and to the devouring and attacking cells . . . which resist disease.

one feels happier

when the red-blood-cells and their hemoglobin content are up to their full quota. A deficiency in the oxygen-carrying hemoglobin may result in paleness, poor complexion, poor circulation, numbness, pricking sensations, restlessness, nervousness, irritability or sleeplessness.

then why not try S.S.S.

—the proven tonic for increasing the red-cells and hemoglobin—proved effective by scientific research and millions of happy users. It may be the very means of restoring your skin beauty and bringing better health and more happiness to you.

Start taking a course of S.S.S. today. It is sold by all drug stores in two convenient sizes—the larger size is more economical and is sufficient for a two week's treatment. Don't permit anyone to "sidetrack" you in your determination to restore your red-blood-cells and hemoglobin back to normal. © S.S.S. Co.

PRACTICAL AND WEARABLE ARE MILADY'S CHIC 1933 CLOTHES

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 29. — The clothes that Paris is making for 1933 are distinctly unlike any ever done before. Designers have discarded, for the most part, any "period" ideas in the planning of these new costumes, and are going in for materials and lines which serve two purposes—the one a practical one, the other an effort to achieve the ultimate of beauty.

THE PRACTICAL angle is especially important in the new clothes. Not only the element of keeping in step with the times, and the making of clothes which demand the minimum of cost, but there is great importance attached to the ease of wearability. Dressmakers have learned that it is sometimes better to have no collar at all than to have two; that although buttons and buttonholes have been used for decades, it is sometimes more practical to pin a jacket together than to button it; that materials that were formerly reserved for hunting clothes and golf suits turn out to be most satisfactory for town wear.

ALL OF THESE discoveries—and others—were made by the designer Vera Borea, who is the Countess Rigoli in private life, when she planned this new winter suit. With one eye on the old-fashioned Norfolk suit with its simple lines and roomy proportions, and the other on the modern woman and her exaggerated slender figure, Madame Borea planned a town-and-country suit of brown wool, with a Norfolk plait at the back of its slender jacket, and with a blouse of plaid wool like the ones worn with hunting suits. She finishes it off with two big flat metal pins, so that the jacket may be fastened as tight around the figure or as loose as you like.

New Battle Creek Reducing Treatment
Eat Big Meals . . . Fat Goes Quick
Results—or Pay Nothing

"I was so afraid of disappointment that I kept my bottle of BonKora 3 days before I started to take it. Then when the first bottle had been used I weighed myself. I had lost 23 lbs.—from 185 to 162 in 10 days. I had lost 4 inches in bust too; 3½ inches in hips. I wear dresses 4 sizes smaller. My constipation and indigestion have gone, and my skin, which was yellow, has cleared. I feel fine."—Dorothy Hess, 760 E. Baker St., Flint, Mich.

No excuse for being fat. People write that they tried other methods without losing a pound. Then BonKora, the new Battle Creek Reducing Treatment, took off weight quick. One woman lost 41 lbs. in 5 weeks.

It reduces the new "3-stage" way. Triple action; triple speed. Just take a little BonKora daily to remove heavy wastes and moisture from fatty tissues. EAT BIG MEALS of tasty food combinations shown in BonKora package. When you reach normal, healthy weight, stop reducing and hold your new slender figure.

No dangerous drugs in BonKora. In fact, the BonKora Treatment builds health while reducing fat the quickest way.

"THE WOMAN who loses youthful charm is in danger of losing happiness!" Ethel Clayton declares. "But fortunately nowadays any woman who really wants to can keep youth's radiant loveliness right through the years.

"I'm 38. And I'm not a bit afraid of the birthdays ahead. A fresh, clear complexion always spells youth, and I've found the way to keep my skin always at its best. I use Lux Toilet Soap regularly, and I believe my complexion is even younger looking now than it was years ago."

Hollywood's favorite beauty care

No woman should run the risk of losing youthful charm. It is so simple, as lovely Ethel Clayton points out, to guard complexion beauty wisely — regularly — and keep the freshness that is always so alluring.

Of the 694 important Hollywood actresses, including all stars, 686 use Lux Toilet Soap regularly. So enthusiastic are they that all the big film studios have designated this fragrant white soap as their official soap. It is such a favorite on Broadway, too, that it is found in the dressing rooms of legitimate theatres all over the country.

Surely you will want to try this safe, gentle care that guards the world's loveliest complexions!

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Reaching for the Stars

Dear Santa Claus: It is a little soon
To write you on this subject, but I find—
Since I've the time, it may be opportune
To tell you what I have upon my mind.

I haven't an extensive list this year,
Because I realize the times are not Conducive to excessive Christmas cheer;
I'll try to be contented with my lot.

I am of the opinion that a man's
Entitled, at this season, to the best;
So if it is consistent with your plans—
I have one very delicate request.

But if my wife sees this—it's all in fun,
If not—please, Santa, bring me Irene Dunne.
—Van H. Eshelman.

Knockout Drop

It happened recently in the Ambassador Hotel foyer, Los Angeles. Abe Lyman introduced Groucho Marx to Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Brown.

"My, my!" my-my'd Mrs. Brown, "you're a much better looking man off the screen than you are on!"

And Mr. Brown, for want of something to say, added:

"You ought to see ME off the screen, Mr. Marx!"

"I'd love to," gagged Groucho.

Oop!

A Broadway booking agent, the guest of a dramatic critic at a new show, was boosting one of his hams in the cast.

"Whew!" said the critic's guest, "that guy's so fast a bullet can't hit him!"

"What a pity!" was the stifler.

Depression Item

A heckler sitting in a box at one of the shows the other night won a bout with a comedian.

"Say!" yelled the annoyer, "what are you, anyway?"

"I'm a great magician, you dope!" said the comic sarcastically.

"Yeah?" was the topper, "then how come you can't fill those seats in the balcony?"

Bronx Cheer

Bob Hope, one of the better bets in "Ballyhoo" at the Forty-fourth Street Theater, was asked what he thought of a certain singer.

"He sings so loud at the Palace this week," Hope replied, "that he stops the show at the Fordham!"

Form of Criticism

And Al Boasberg tells of a rotten play he saw the other night, where somebody threw a stench bomb, "but the audience didn't know it until the show was over!"

Biff, Bang, Sock!

The alleged show named "Triplets" at the Masque was deservedly poked, prodded and punished by the critics. The Times said that it established a new low. The Morning Telegraph concurred with the Mirror—that it was rubbish. The American said it was the worst show in a decade. And the others agreed. One could hear the cast console themselves with:

'Oh, well. Every knock is a boost."

But what we started out to jot down was that only Percy Hammond, of the Herald-Tribune, kept his head. Mr. Hammond, who usually loses his temper with poor plays, was every inch the gentleman with "Triplets," and turned in the most intelligent, yet most devastating of the verdicts.

His review on that show probably will, and should be, used hereafter as a textbook on dramatic criticism.

Merciless Truth

One of the Broadway song publishers is best known for his sugary breaks. Everything with which he has been associated has turned to gold for him. He is the envy of Tin-Pan Alley.

Edgar Leslie, whose luck hasn't been so hot, saw him pass last night.

"Hmm," he hmm'd, "that guy's so lucky—all Broadway would give anything to find out one word of his prayer!"

Izzy Elinsonisms

"Dear Walter: The five-day week may be a swell plan, but it means the Sunday driver will be around on Saturday, too . . . The papers report that Mayor McKee rides in the subway. Yeh, but I'll bet his train has a low number . . . The real reason the Metropolitan curtailed its opera season is to spare a lot of women the embarrassment of having to wear the same gown twice. Izzy."

"P. S. How come you haven't called them platinumskulls?"

And the Fight Was On!

During the boom days in Florida the "Many Mizners" had a factory in which they manufactured the carved wood, wrought iron, tile, etc., for Boca Raton and the various palatial mansions built by the illustrious Addison Mizner.

One Sabbath day brother Wilson drove out to the factory to see that a carload of special clay had been unloaded as per his arrangement with the railroad company. He called to a man who was near the car.

"Hey, you" yelled Wilson, "why hasn't this car been unloaded?"

"See here!" flamed the irate Dixie native, "you're talkin' to a Florida cracker, mister! No Yankee can come down heah and talk that-a-away to a Florida cracker!"

"Listen!" growled Mizner, "if you're going to make courage a question of geography, I'm from California—and here I come!"

Add Mizner Gags

Then there's this Mizner yarn as offered by Monte Brice. Shortly after Mizner's boom faw down in Florida, costing many an investor plenty, he went to Holly, where he was taken seriously ill. His doctors told him he had but three months to live.

To which the late Grant Clarke, his severest pal and best critic, niftied:

"If that's the case, Wilson, you'd better hurry back to Boca Raton—where you can be sure of getting six pall-bearers who won't laugh."

Sidelights on Players

Kate Smith, radio star, who has just been placed under contract by Paramount as the result of her work in "The Big Broadcast," is 23 years old and weighs 214 pounds, and is proud of the fact.

Thomas Meighan, now in "Madison Square Garden," is rated one of the wealthiest actors in the world.

Gary Cooper's favorite food is cheese. He's having a grand time in "A Farewell to Arms," where they are shooting scenes of him eating the delicacy.

Several feminine spectators summoned the courage to whisper in Frances Dee's ear during the filming of location scenes for Paramount's "The Night of June 13," at Ontario, Cal. They noticed a long run in Miss Dee's stocking. In order to put a stop to the whispering, Director Stephen Roberts had to explain to the crowd through a microphone, that the run was called for in the script.

First Play in Pittsburgh Was in Old Theater On Third Avenue

By GEORGE SEIBEL

The real dramatic season in Pittsburgh opens next Monday, with "The Good Earth," a Chinese play from the novel of Pearl S. Buck, produced at the Nixon by the Theater Guild, and "The Bride the Sun Shines On," given by the Edwin Vail Players at the Pitt.

While waiting for the curtain to rise, it will be pleasant to take a look back at the first theatrical season and the first playhouse in Pittsburgh. Few people know where that first theater was located. But everybody knows where the Dollar Savings Bank is. Our first theater was on that lot of ground — but its front was on Third Avenue, where you now look through iron gratings at the rear window of the bank.

Mr. Seibel

That old theater was built between the years 1817 and 1820 by Charles Weidner, an architect and builder. One historian of the drama says it was built by Luke Usher, an early actor, and describes it as "only a poor frame affair." The first brick theater was not opened until September 2, 1832, when Francis Courtney Wemyss, an English actor, became its manager and opened with a play called "The Busybody." But theatrical life in Pittsburgh had begun much earlier, when that first temple of Thespis was erected.

LATIN MOTTO, OF COURSE!

It was a substantial frame structure, 60 feet front and two stories high, with proscenium boxes "for special patrons of the drama." Its great glory was the curtain, or it may have been the painting of the proscenium arch, representing various phasos of drama—Tragedy, Comedy, Pantomime, etc. Of course there was a Latin motto—"Veluti in speculum," which may be translated "As in a mirror."

A theater is nothing without actors. Samuel Drake and Noah Miller Ludlow were the adventurous players who piloted the first company into our town. Ludlow, who wrote a book later on "Dramatic Life As I Found It," inspected the theater and says the decorations were of the plainest kind, "and every portion bore the Pittsburgh stamp upon it—coal smut."

FIRST PLAY HERE

The first play given in Pittsburgh by professional players was Tobin's popular comedy, "The Honeymoon." That was in the middle of August, 1815. Besides Ludlow and Drake, the company had about 10 other players, including Miss Julia Drake. Miss Julia is important in American theatrical history because she became the mother of Julia Dean, one of the most famous of early American actresses.

The third night of their engagement here the company put on "Pizarro," a romantic play by Richard Brinsley Sheridan. "Rolla's Address to the Peruvians," from this drama, was for many years the favorite infliction of amateur elocutionists.

"Pizarro" was produced on a Saturday night—it was the great drawing card, but it presented enormous difficulties. One of the scenes was laid in the Temple of the Sun, and there is a grand procession of the Virgins of the Sun to worship the Solar Divinity.

The greatest difficulty of all, says Ludlow, was a lack of Virgins. There were only a few women in the company—and in those days to be a super in a show would have been a disgrace for any of the native women. But the stage manager thought he had solved the difficulty, and the grand spectacular drama went on.

When the Temple of the Sun was revealed to the dazzled eyes of the fashionable audience, there was thunderous applause. Then to solemn strains of music the Virgins of the Sun came upon the stage in silent reverence to begin their worship.

THEN TROUBLE AROSE

Ludlow tells how they marched on slowly and solemnly, bowed a reverent salutation to the god of day, and then took their stations on the right and left of the stage, where they began the beautiful chant, "O Power Supreme."

The first pair of Virgins were the actresses who played Elvira and Cora, with long veils to disguise them, so no one would suspect they were doubling. Then came Julia Drake, about 14 years old at the time, and her sister Martha, about 30. The third pair of Virgins were an old Irishwoman, who cleaned the dressing rooms, and a Pennsylvania Dutchman, who was the property man.

This third pair of Virgins made the trouble.

The Virgins wore long white cotton gowns reaching to the ankles and closed in front. Red sashes encircled their virginal waists, and a large golden sun was suspended from their swanlike necks. The property man was short and stout, with a pug nose and a fat equator. The purifying angel of the dressing rooms also was short and fat and just as conspicuous as her companion in piety.

While the ceremony was proceeding there was reverent silence in the house. But when the third pair of Virgins came on, a loud and pious groan was heard throughout the audience. Then somebody called out: "Oh, such Virgins!"

The house roared with laughter and even the sun-worshipers on the stage could not help joining in.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

The Simple Souls

LIFE WAS a very pleasant proposition for Bill and Harry. Their manner of living was the sort to strike envy in almost any bosom. They spent a large portion of their time traveling. They stopped at the finest and most expensive hotels. They made plenty of money without involving very much brain work or effort.

Their method was a simple one. Every now and then they inveigled one or two unsuspecting souls in what they declared was a friendly little card game. No doubt it will be no surprise to you to learn that Bill and Harry were invariably the winners by a large margin when the last pot was raked in.

You might expect that our two friends would be grateful to the unfortunate gentlemen who, by their utter simplicity, made life such a luxurious affair for them. But they were anything but grateful. Both had a hearty contempt for their victims.

"Can you imagine," Bill would gurgle, "anyone being dumb enough to get into a game with a couple of strangers? You'd think they'd have more sense! Oh, well, anyone as stupid as that deserves to be clipped—the saps!"

A few days in one town was usually sufficient to accomplish their purpose. By jumping from one spot to another they managed to keep out of trouble. On these short trips the pickings always proved very fruitful.

Riding in the smoker one day not so long ago, Bill nudged his friend.

"Hey, lookit over there!" he whispered.

Harry looked. And nodded. And smiled with satisfaction. A pair of fresh-faced young men were occupying the seat exactly opposite. Bill and Harry sighed happily. Here, they felt, were a pair of victims made to order for a couple of card sharps.

Bill rose and stepped over to the two men. He smiled his widest and most engaging smile.

"Kind of a long trip," he volunteered. "It gets monotonous after a while doing nothing. My friend and I thought we'd like to start a little game of poker. Would you gentlemen like to join us?"

One of the men shook his head.

"I don't know enough about poker to play," he said. "In fact, I hardly ever play cards at all. But my friend, Arthur, here, maybe he'd like to play. Go on, Arthur, if you want to."

Arthur said affably, "Sure. I don't play very often, either. But I'd like to play with you."

Bill and Harry hid sly grins. They were telling themselves that the sap's money was already in their pockets.

The game began exactly as many others that Bill and Harry had taken part in in the past. They lost the first few pots. That, of course, was part of the system. Then they began to win steadily. And win. And win. And at the end of two hours, Arthur stood up, a dazed expression on his face.

"Gee," he said with concern. "I guess I'm about cleaned out. I never realized you could lose so much money at a game like this. I guess I shouldn't have played. Almost $800 I lost. That's a lot of dough. Oh, well, I suppose there's no use squawking."

Bill and Harry shook their heads sadly.

"I guess you just ain't much good at this game," said Harry. "Too bad there's no way of your winning it back. Your friend there—wouldn't he loan you some dough? Maybe we could play something else. Just to give you a show, you know, of getting some of your own money back."

Arthur was doubtful for a moment.

"What are we going to play?" he asked.

Harry pretended to think for a moment.

"Listen," he said. "We haven't got an awful lot of time now. We're getting off pretty soon. I'll tell you what we'll do. Are you sport enough to bet whatever money you get off your friend that I can't pick the ace of spades out of that deck? I've got your eight hundred and enough of my own dough to cover anything you can get that says I can do it."

Arthur's eyes widened.

"Do you mean to say that you'll bet all that money that you can pick out the ace of spades if I cut the deck?"

Harry nodded.

"Gee, sure I'll bet on that. I would like to win that money back. Wait'll I see if I can get a roll off my friend."

As he got up, Bill and Harry exchanged glances. Only they knew that Harry had an ace of spades concealed in his cuff and that one little motion of his arm would slip it gently into his hand.

Arthur was back a moment later with a large stock of bills. The eyes of the two gamblers glistened.

The other man counted out the bills and asked, "Can you cover it?"

"Just about," said Harry. "Well, let's go."

He shuffled the cards carefully and handed them to Arthur.

"Cut 'em!" he commanded.

When Arthur had cut the deck, Harry made a motion of drawing a card from the pack. He held up his hand and the ace of spades was lying in its palm. Arthur jumped to his feet. His face had suddenly become very unpleasant.

"No, you don't!" he snarled. "I kinda thought there was something phony about you guys. I thought you wouldn't be betting your whole roll on a trick, after you cleaned me, unless it was a sure thing. So, when I cut the cards, I slipped the ace out myself."

Both men glanced down at his hand. He was holding the ace of spades.

As he began to gather up the money, Bill and Harry began to sputter wildly.

"Better not start any trouble," Arthur warned. "I can have you birds tossed off the train for this. Yeh, and run in, too. I'm taking this dough, and you're gonna like it!"

They fell back into their seats with groans. And they were far from happy when they saw Arthur and his friend leave the train at the next station, taking with them every cent they had in the world.

"Gosh!" growled Bill in disgust. "How could we have been such saps? How could he have slipped that ace out of the pack without us seeing it? Now what are we going to do?"

Harry shrugged morosely. He gathered up the cards idly and began to shuffle them. A card fell to the floor, and he leaned down to pick it up. As he straightened up, Bill was startled by the strange expression on his friend's face. He looked down at the card. Then his face changed suddenly, too. The card that Harry held in his hand was the ace of spades.

Both realized what had happened. Arthur, too, had palmed an ace from another deck! . . .

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Stirring pictures of Gov. Roosevelt's campaign tour of the West come from Portland, Ore.; San Francisco and Los Angeles. In the latter city, he was greeted by more than 20,000 persons in the Hollywood Bowl. In Portland, the Governor's speech brings tremendous applause, especially when referring to his fight to keep electrical water power out of the hands of unscrupulous utility leaders.

The current Hearst Metrotone News is being shown in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters.

High lights of opening games of the football season include pictures of the champion Southern California Trojans swamping Utah 35 to 0; the Chicago Maroons defeating Monmouth College, 41 to 0, and the Columbia Lions, in New York, defeating Middlebury by a score of 51 to 0.

Gossip About Plays and Players—By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

There necessarily has to be a large cast to put on such a play as "The Good Earth," Theater Guild production for which seats now are on sale in the box office of the Nixon, where the Owen and Donald Davis dramatization of the Pearl S. Buck novel will begin an engagement next Monday night as the first attraction under the auspices of the American Theater Society. So the company, headed by Naximova and Earle Larrimore, takes on the proportions of a musical comedy presentation, numbering about 50 persons.

"The Bride the Sun Shines On," comedy that will be the initial offering of the Edwin Vail Players in the Pitt, Monday, will be greeted by many former regular patrons of that theater, who have been keeping the office telephone busy with requests that their old reservations again be allotted to them. Practically the entire company will be introduced in this play, in which the leads will be portrayed by Shirley Booth and Alden Chase, the former in the role originated by Dorothy Gish in the New York production.

Jean Gros, Pittsburgh's own puppeteer, is going to have HIS try at establishing a children's theater in our town. For the present it will be the ballroom of the Hotel Schenley, and his first attraction will be the Hestwood Marionettes from Hollywood, the original and authorized puppet presentation of the happy character of the Sun-Telegraph comic pages, Mickey Mouse. By special arrangement with their creator, Walt Disney, Mickey and Minnie Mouse, and all of their pals, will be seen in their own three-dimension figures in a complete play, "Mickey Mouse, the Champion." Al Carthe, Anne Stone and Harold and Robert Hestwood will give it the essential vocal elements. Later Mr. Gros plans to present other productions for youngsters. Mickey comes morning and afternoon October 8.

The Dracomtra Players of Mt. Lebanon, one of the more prominent groups comprising the Little Theater of Pittsburgh, will hold tryouts at 3 o'clock Sunday for those interested in parts for their first play of the season. Tests will be held in the theater of the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, Alabama avenue. The play, to be presented October 27 and 28, will be "Journey's End."

Cast of 'Cavalcade' Assembling

Fox Film is assembling the cast for Noel Coward's international drama, "Cavalcade." Una O'Connor and Merle Tottenham, who will play the same roles in the film which they created in the original stage production at the Drury Lane Theater in London, are now on their way to Hollywood.

Sally Eilers to Star In New Film

Sally Eilers' next starring role is to be in the new Fox picture, "Second-Hand Wife," which Hamilton MacFadden will direct from the screen adaptation of Kathleen Norris' novel. Miss Eilers' leading man in this production is to be Ralph Bellamy, who played opposite her in "Disorderly Conduct," and who has just completed a prominent part in "Wild Girl" with Charles Farrell.

Grahame Star Gridder.

GEHRIG'S HIT MAY WIN, LIKE CLARK'S

SIX TIMES IN the last 11 years, and nine times in the history of the modern classic, the team beaten in the opener came back to win the world series. But the chance that the Cubs may accomplish it is remote. The dope was all against them in advance, and the loss of the jump made their chances slimmer than ever. Lou Gehrig's home-run wallop yesterday may have a far-reaching effect in deciding the series. It shook the confidence of the Bruins and caused them to crumble at the time and it may hurt all through the fight.

Lou Gehrig

The blow recalls the homer that Fred Clarke socked against George Mullin, into the rightfield seats at Forbes Field with two out, in the fourth inning of the first game in the 1909 series. It overcame Detroit's one-run lead and upset the Tigers to an extent that enabled the Bucs to sew up the game in the next two innings. In a way, that homer in the important first game really won the series for the Pirates, and Gehrig's clout may have a similar bearing on the outcome of the present derby. Discouraging punches like that often mean a whole lot more than the runs they bring in at the time.

Incidentally, that opening victory added another chapter to a Yankee record that is unparalleled in world series history. Not only was it their ninth straight win in title competition, but in each of the last eight of those games they used only one pitcher.

IN ADDITION TO indicating that Connie Mack is following his old policy of breaking up a former championship club when it starts to skid, as he did after 1914, the big sale of Al Simmons, George Haas and Jimmy DyKes to the White Sox probably was a move for the good of the whole American League, to keep the Cubs from cornering all the baseball interest and patronage in Chicago in the approaching World Fair year.

That would have been the case with the White Sox too weak to get far away from the cellar. Dykes is 36 years old and nearly done. Haas can be replaced by the A's. But Simmons is one of the greatest ball players in the country and alone will mean a tremendous increase in strength for the Pale Hose.

PITTSBURGH HOCKEY FANS will withhold their cheers in connection with the now assured return of the big-time game to this city until they learn what caliber of National League team will be put on Pirate skates.

It will be no easy matter for the promoters, in the short time that remains, to round up a club capable of holding its own with the league's strong outfits. And the home patrons have already shown that they will not go for a tail-ender.

PARTS OF SIX world series have been played in Pittsburgh or old Allegheny. Sections of two post-season title shows were staged here before the Pirates appeared in their four classics, in which they met the Red Sox in 1903, the Tigers in 1909, the Senators in 1925 and the Yankees in 1927. The Chicago and St. Louis clubs, pennant winners in the National League and American Association, respectively, played one of their world series games on what is now the North Side on October 22, 1885, Chicago winning a seven-inning tilt, 9 to 2, with John Clarkson pitching against Dave Foutz. The teams played one game in Chicago, three in St Louis, one here and two in Cincinnati. The series ended without a decision, each club winning three games while one contest wound up in a tie.

Charles Comiskey

THAT WAS THE year in which the late Charles Comiskey won the first of his four straight pennants with the original St. Louis Browns. Besides Comiskey, the lineups in the local game included such famous players as Anson, Kelly, Dalrymple, Gore, Pfeffer, Williamson, Burns, Flint, Latham, O'Neil, Caruthers, Bushong, Barclay, Welch and Robinson. Billy Sunday was with Chicago at the time, but did not play in the game here.

In 1887 the Browns and the Detroit Nationals played a world series of 15 games scattered over 10 different cities. The fourth game of the set was played here on October 13. Lady Baldwin opposed Silver King in the box and shut out the Browns, 8 to 0. The Browns had the same players as in 1885, and Detroit presented such luminaries of that era as Thompson, White, Richardson, Rowe, Bennett, Ganzel, Dunlap and Hanlon.

IF ANY HEAVYWEIGHT in the younger crop is to keep Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling from having the championship picture all to themselves, Max Baer appears to be the man. There is no mistaking the fact that the young Californian is a vastly improved fighter. Within a short time he has won a decision over King Levinsky, actually knocked out Ernie Schaaf though awarded only a point victory, and stopped Tuffy Griffiths. Such performances are not to be laughed off.

IN MANY WAYS, Jack Sharkey is a strange character. But if you know the fistic clan you'll grant that his most unique trait is that he won't accept a free ticket to a fight. Bill Corum was an eye-witness when Sharkey called at Madison Square Garden to pick up 16 Schmeling-Walker tickets reserved for his pilot and himself.

Manager Carey declined payment and told Sharkey that as champion he was entitled to complimentaries. "I may be entitled to 'em," Jack said, "but I don't want 'em that way." And though he finally accepted six free tickets for Manager Buckley, Sharkey laid approximately $100 on the line for his own 10.

THE TREMENDOUS DIFFERENCE that just one exceptional player can make in a college football team was never demonstrated more strikingly than in the respectful consideration Carnegie Tech coaches are giving to Art Grahame, Geneva College's great southpaw quarterback, in preparing for Saturday's Tartan opener at the Stadium.

Art Grahame

With plenty of young, strong and ambitious material, Carnegie should be a decided favorite over the Beaver Falls boys, and undoubtedly does have an edge in the pre-game dope. But the Plaid has no one who can approach Grahame in forward passing skill, no quarterback who has proved he can run a team with the aplomb and precision of the Akron youth, while the best Skibo punter, though perhaps able to hold him even, will not outkick him.

CARNEGIE SCOUTS WHO watched Geneva mowing down Davis and Elkins, under the impetus of Grahame's cool brain, unerring arm and uncanny toe, declare that Art is an all-America quarterback possibility, if ever there was one. They call him a second edition of Howard Harpster, his coach, in every particular. And because of Grahame, Saturday's game is regarded as much more than just an opening number for the Tartans. Carnegie will present practically a new combination, one with considerable potential power, but lacking the experience that comes only with trials under fire. Judge Steffen and Bob Waddell are afraid that Mr. Grahame will proceed to find the flaws in their new club with the neatness and dispatch of a probing surgeon. And for that reason they probably will be pleased if Saturday afternoon ends with any kind of decision for them.

DUKES TO FACE GROVE CITY TOMORROW

By JESS CARVER

They are having tackle and halfback trouble out at Tech; end and guard trouble at Pitt and little trouble at all, thank you, at Duquesne as our three varsity football elevens prepare for their tussles listed for Friday and Saturday.

Friday night, the Dukes enter their third contest of the season, facing a formidable eleven from Grove City. On Saturday, Carnegie pries open its campaign by engaging an equally formidable Geneva College team in the Pitt Stadium, while the Panthers invade Morgantown, where they'll put on their annual meeting with West Virginia.

LINEUP UNCERTAIN

Carnegie Tech's coaches, Bob Waddell and Wally Steffen are not fully decided on the starting setup they'll toss against Geneva. The two injured regulars, Tackle Forsman and Halfback Sayles, were able to go in yesterday's signal drill, and if it is at all possible, this pair will start Sat'day. If not, then Wilbur Plumper and Billy Spisak are to start, the former at tackle and the latter at halfback.

The remainder of the lineup is all set, with Burzio and Co-Capt. Hooks Sample at the guards, Croft at the other tackle, Stewart and Tesser at the ends and Bevevino, Co-Capt. Kavel and Joe Mihm filling out the backfield.

Over at Pitt, Coach Jock Sutherland remains undecided as to which of his young hopefuls he'll use at left end and left guard. The battle for the wing job lies between Ted Dailey and Lou Wojcihovski and for the guard position, between Ken Ormiston and Doc Hartwig. The fact that Hartwig and Wojcihovski are native West Virginians may influence the good Doctor in their favor. You should see a native Mountaineer in action against a team from his own state! They go, and how.

STAY IN UNIONTOWN

Pitt's squad will leave tomorrow afternoon, following a light workout in the Stadium, for Uniontown, where it will spend the night and will move into Morgantown Saturday morning. Quarters there will be established at the Morgantown Country Club.

The Dukes will drill this evening under the lights at Forbes Field. Coach Layden has labored mightily this week to knock the sprouts of over-confidence from the make-up of his squad. The same lineup that faced West Virginia will be started against Grove City.

The starting time for tomorrow night's game, by the way, has been moved forward one-half an hour, the kicking being scheduled for 8:15, instead of 8:45 o'clock.

The big news of the day comes up out of West Virginia, where, according to reports, the Mountaineers have suffered a severe blow in the loss of Wilbur Sortet, stellar and veteran end, the man who captained the Mountaineers against the Dukes. Sortet is supposed to have injured his right leg yesterday and will be lost to the squad for several weeks.

If such is the case, the Mountaineer cause hardly has been improved. But then, maybe it's another of those "Boo" stories, and if it is, the Mountaineers must be credited with having come up with the first one of the year.

The Tipoff

Westminster's Titan varsity, 24 strong, is en route today to Frederick, Md., where it will rest tonight in preparation for the game tomorrow night in Washington, D. C., against George Washington. The United Presbyterians left New Wilmington early this morning.

Hank Day is going to use three sophomores in his lineup against West Virginia Wesleyan Saturday. Rittersbach and Ericus, ends, and Bubenheim, a guard, all putting in their first year on the varsity, are expected to start. The Bobcats will present an experienced lineup, having lost only Cliff Battles and Red Crites from last year's team. But losing Crites and Battles, specially the latter, is like Ruth losing his bat.

If Wilbur Sortet, West Virginia's end star, really is on the fritz and out of reckoning for action against Pitt Saturday, the Mountaineers may find themselves in a very bad way. Goodwin, the other West Virginia terminal, suffered a leg injury against Duquesne and will not be at his best for the Pitt game. Good ends are almost an absolute necessity against Pitt.

HURLS NO-HIT GAME

BUTLER, Pa., Sept. 29.—Jack Ripper turned back the Mars team, Southern County League champions, without a hit or a run here last evening to give Petersville a 5-to-0 win and the mythical Butler County baseball championship. Petersville won the Butler County League title.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: A SACRED COMB—This curious relic, which I saw in the treasure room of the Church of St. Ulrich in Augusburg, Germany, is the most famous of the consecration combs. In the ordination of the ancient bishops the consecration comb played a prominent part for many centuries. This particular relic served as coronation comb for a long succession of bishops in Augsburg, beginning with St. Ulrich and ending with Bishop Henry IV, covering a period of more than 500 years.

TOMORROW: LIFE WITHOUT A HEART.

Cubs' Air-Tight Pitching Goes Flat—Altrock

By NICK ALTROCK

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Well, folks, at 1:30 p. m. yesterday the standing in the world series was:

Yankees ..... .000
Cubs ..... .000

At 4:20 p. m. the standing was:

Yankees 1.000
Cubs ..... .000

This is an increase of 1.000 per cent inside of a couple of hours and indicates prosperity is right around the corner.

Nick Altrock

When the Yanks got through with them, the Cubs looked like Mr. Insull's Mid-West utilities shares. I don't know what became of the air-tight pitching the Chicago club was supposed to have, but last night Charley Grimm was looking around for a pump to inflate his hurling staff for today's journey over the bumps.

BUSH PROMOTER

The last inning Guy Bush was on the mound and started walking the Yankees, I thought he was promoting a six-day pedestrian race.

I wouldn't call the fielding of either team gilt-edged, either. The way even Babe Ruth let a single go through him, you would have thought the Babe had been suffering from pernicious gout instead of appendicitis. Both sets of infielders handled the ball like they were going into vaudeville as a juggling act when the series ends.

Maybe it was the size of the crowd that made the players wobbly. There were only about 30,999 present. That just shows how things go to pieces when Jimmy Walker is out of town.

When you look around and see 40,000 empty seats it's bad news because an empty seat acts on a world series player like an auctioneer's flag on a bull—at least for the first four games.

CHECKED ON MAYOR

Before Mayor McKee threw out the first ball he was surrounded by a big mob. On account of him running an economy administration they thought he might try to palm the horsehide and toss out a ping-pong ball instead.

But from then on, as the Yankees pounded them, only Mickey Walker would appreciate how the Cubs felt. However, today is another day, unless someone has been tinkering with my calendar, and Charley Grimm hopes from now on each of his boys understands how the well-dressed ball player should behave.

For a spell I thought this guy Jupiter Pluvius was going to call off the ball game and I shuddered when I remembered back to the 1911 series of the Giants and the A's. After they'd played a couple of games it rained for one week. And when you're stuck in Philadelphia a week's rain seems like a 40-day flood. But finally Judge Landis shook his cane at the clouds and he not only chased them away, but he produced a rainbow with his magic wand.

Regardless of the score, it certainly was a fierce contest. Both teams fought such a tooth-and-nail game they'll have to go to the dentist's and manicure to get fixed up for contest No. 2.

The way the clubs were so bitter at each other made me laugh because Tuesday night I heard Charley Grimm and Joe McCarthy on the radio and they were both like Damon and a Knight of Pythias exchanging compliments and talking like Rotarians and saying they didn't know which side would cop, but may the best team win, etc. That Alphonse and Gaston stuff is the bunk and I think Joe and Charley were full of the hops they were advertising on the radio.

Well anyway, the best team won today and if Grimm doesn't slip a little adrenalin into his boys he will only have to buy them one-way tickets to Chicago for the end of the series.

Suspension Lifted On Kid Chocolate

DETROIT, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—James M. (Bingo) Brown, head of the Michigan Boxing Commission and of the National Boxing Association, has announced the lifting of the suspension imposed on Kid Chocolate, of Cuba, for the latter's failure to come here for a bout last night with Johnny Farr, of Cleveland.

The action was taken after Promoter Scotty Monteith asked approval of a new contract matching the fighters for Tuesday night, October 4. Difficulties between Chocolate and his then manager, Louis Guttierez, led to his failure to report here this week.

Knockouts Mark Oakland Bouts

Two knockouts marked the amateur boxing show staged at Sullivan Field, Oakland, last night, the proceeds of which went to the St. Vincent De Paul relief fund.

Eddie McNamara, of the Twenty-seventh Ward Club, knocked out Joe Hamill, of the Braddock Library, in the second round, and John Thomas, also of the Twenty-seventh Ward Club, stopped Kid Eddie Branch in the third round. The summary:

126-pound class — R. Hatton, J. L. Thomas Club, defeated Al Martzo, Bloomfield A. C., 3 rounds; Billie Marsh, Twenty-seventh Ward Club, defeated Hy Zelky, Braddock Library A. C., 3 rounds, decision; Paul McDermott, Twenty-seventh Ward Club, defeated Regis Sullivan, Braddock Library A. C., 3 rounds, decision; Johnny Thomas, Twenty-seventh Ward Club, knocked out Kid Branch, Braddock Library A. C., 3 rounds.

Heavyweight class—Sparky Ewalt, Pastorious A. C., defeated Dutch Weir, Duquesne, 3 rounds.

RAY COLLINS LOSES

PORTSMOUTH, Va., Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Tommy Basharo, Norfolk lightweight, won a judge's decision over Ray Collins, of Erie, Pa., in the eight-round feature event of the Oasis Club show here last night. Maxie Strub, of Erie, also a lightweight won the decision over Bobby Burns, of Baltimore, and Eddie Burk, of Jacksonville, Fla., won by a technical knockout over Charley Sharp, of Newport News.

TICKET RULE, CUB LINEUP CHANGED

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service.

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—On a note of sparkle and gaiety quite at variance with yesterday's dolorous occasion, the victorious New York Yankees and the defeated but still determined Chicago Cubs went into the second game of the world series this afternoon, the former confident of increasing its one-game lead, the latter grimly committed to squaring the account.

If the Cubs do, the teams will head for Chicago tonight on even terms. If the Cubs don't, they might as well stay on here and play an exhibition doubleheader with the Paterson Silk Sox.

LANDIS CHANGES RULE

Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis today permitted the sale of tickets to one game, a change in the ticket sale regulations which the Yankees asked and which he refused on Tuesday. Heretofore fans have had to purchase reserved seat tickets in three-game strips.

This change, probably prompted by the slim crowd which turned out for the opener yesterday, appeared to bear fruit, for the bleachers were filled at an early hour, and indications were that the crowd today would number approximately 60,000. The unreserved $3.30 parking places seemed to have no great appeal and this was the reason why 85,000 folks were not visible to the naked eye.

Manager Grimm decided on two changes in the Cubs' lineup. Mark Koenig, whose left wrist was injured yesterday sliding into third base, was replaced by Bill Jurges at shortstop. Frank Demaree, young outfielder, was selected to replace Johnny Moore in center for the sole purpose of getting a right-hand hitter in there in place of Moore, who swings from the left side of the plate.

There was some question of Bill Dickey's ability to catch for the Yanks. He hurt his knee slightly yesterday, and it was still painful today. He told Manager McCarthy that he wanted to play, and was permitted to do so.

The Cubs sent young Lonnie Warneke, right-handed pitching star, out after a victory to deadlock the series. Southpaw Lefty Gomez carried the mound burden for the Yankees.

BETTING ODDS MOUNT

As a result of the Cubs' poo. exhibition yesterday, when they lost by 12-6, the betting odds favoring the Yankees to win the series had mounted to 3-1.

Not until the Cubs appeared to warm up did Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth take their war clubs to the plate.

Just as the Cubs marched in, the Babe took a deep breath, a tremendous swing, and wafted one of Hoag's pitches deep into the right field seats. The Cub marchers stopped dead in their tracks. Babe smacked another into the bleachers. Gehrig belted three in there.

The Cubs shook themselves and movd on to their dugout.

DEVENS PROVES TOUGH

Charley Devens, large collegian from Harvard, relieved Hoag and acted as though he were in the box opposing his own club. He had Ruth biting at curves and slapping infield grounders, while Gehrig missed two curves.

The Cubs made ready for the appearance of Gomez, the sensational young southpaw who won close to 25 games this season, by clouting the offerings of Carroll Yerkes, a southpaw from Albany in the International League, a bit of bricabrac so new that he is not eligible for world series play.

RUFFING, GEHRIG HEROES OF FIRST SERIES GAME—RUTH

HOMER PAVES WAY FOR YANK TRIUMPH

By BABE RUTH
Baseball's Highest Salaried Star

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—World series ball games, like everything else, can be very bad and I feel that the less said about the first one the better. It was gratifying, of course, since somebody has to win the bad games, that we were able to open the series by winning the first one. But I feel it was without any question one of the worst world series games I ever saw and I have looked at plenty of them as a player or spectator.

Babe Ruth

I am speaking of the game as a whole. There were bright spots in it, to be sure. Particularly Charley Ruffing's strikeout pitching and Lou Gehrig's timely home run. Misplays made it a little tougher for Charley, but the way he bore down and registered those 10 strikeouts was the greatest individual factor in curbing the Cubs. Nine of the 10 went down swinging and that was a tipoff of the stuff which Ruffing had.

YANK HITTING OFF

We didn't hit up to our normal standard, yet scoring was easy. Every hit we made was worth something in a scoring way, and the poor pitching of the Cubs put us in position to make a few timely hits worth a flock of runs.

I think the Cubs are a much better ball team than they looked to be yesterday. And I know the Yankees are better than they looked. The early strain drove Bush out before the game was over, and it was telling on Ruffing near the finish. He wasn't pitching the kind of ball of which he is usually capable. You know, in our league, he specialized in holding opposing teams down to a few runs. And we usually were not able to do much scoring for him. In the opener we did a lot of scoring and Charley was scored on six times. But half of these runs were the result of errors.

The home run by Gehrig was a sad blow for the Cubs. I wouldn't say it took the heart out of them because Charley Grimm has a club which does not quit, but it surely took a lot of life out of them. Here was Bush, their star boxman, pitching his heart out to preserve that early two-run lead and suddenly, in the space of a minute it is gone and the other fellows are in front. I know how such a thing affects a ball club in a hard game.

After that, the game just got away from the Cubs. Yes, sir, that home run by Lou was the crusher which beat the Cubs and made the affair easier for us.

Combs and Dickey also did some timely hitting which kept our lead out of danger zone. And there was a snappy play by Gehrig and Ruffing at first base in the eighth inning which robbed Herman of a hit.

LOOKS FOR IMPROVEMENT

I look for a better game today. I feel safe in saying that because the first one fell so far short of the normal world series standard. Lefty Gomez will pitch for us., and Lon Warneke is the one we expect to meet. Here are two young pitchers who have plenty of stuff, the two who led their respective pitching staffs during the season just closed.

It is aways great to win the first game of the series, but we are not taking it for granted that this insures final victory. Too many teams have been tripped up after getting away to a start of this kind.

RUTH AND GEHRIG SCORE ON LATTER'S HOME RUN IN THE FIRST GAME

SOAKED BLEACHER CROWD . . . . RAIN THREATENED POSTPONEMENT OF PLAY

High spots caught by International News Photo Service cameras at opening game of the world series at the Yankee Stadium yesterday. The Yankees won, 12-6, after the Cubs had obtained a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Gehrig's home run put the New York team out in front.

BABE RUTH AND FAMILY . . . . HIS TENTH WORLD SERIES

Yankees Caught Cubs On First Hill—Bugs

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The boys opened the world series with goulash. The Yanks picked out all the big lumps and left the skimmings for the Cubs.

After seeing that Schmeling-Walker fight on Monday we decided that bullfighting was only Mickey and Max on horseback.

But after spotting the opener of the world series we are convinced that it should only be played by Mongolian bandits. The boys did everything but kidnap each other. They staged more rallies than a hooked tarpon. Umpires fainted on the base lines and strong men turned pale.

Chicago started off in real public enemy fashion, but the Yanks caught 'em on the first hill. From then on they grabbed three and five runs at a clip and threw the little ones back into the pond.

Eighteen runs in one game ain't big league baseball, but it indicates brute strength will conquer science if your feet hold out. The Yanks scored 12 runs on eight safe smacks, which usurious rate of interest would have made Russell Sage flip over neatly in his mausoleum and toast himself on the other side.

It wasn't baseball but it was sport. The game resembled a million monkeys fighting for the last cocoanut in Africa. They booted it, they kicked it and they threw it away. Sometimes, they held on to it, but that was only to show off in front of the neighbors.

Rain held the crowd down but it didn't dilute the game. It was the strongest contest we ever saw and if the players are getting paid for baseball we can tie up their money with an injunction slapped on the box office.

However, we happen to like our sport rough and manly. The only thing lacking to make the afternoon perfect was a police raid around the sixth inning.

A fellow from Kansas City sat outside the gate for the nine days waiting for this game to happen. He knew it was going to be a fierce accident when it got here.

He can go back to Kansas City and tell the folks that everything they say about mob fights in New York is true. He saw the best one in years.

WOMEN PLAY AT CAMBRIDGE

Star golfers of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania and members of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Association are clashing today in the first round of the annual two-day, 36-hole tournament at the Riverside Golf Club, Cambridge Springs.

Last year's tournament was won by Miss Gertrude Lucas, of Oil City, with Miss Mary Kuhn, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, the runner-up. A field of more than 100 players is competing.

James T. Lappan, of the Field Club, led the field in the semi-monthly P. S. G. A. tourney at Westmoreland yesterday, turning in a card of 38-39—77. J. R. Royston, of Highland, trailed Lappan with a score of 80.

John Graham won the South Hills Country Club championship yesterday for the tenth time in 11 years, defeating Dr. L. W. Pumphreys, 3 and 2 in the final round.

Dr. W. H. K. McDiarmid won the first prize in the annual tourney of the Odonpological Society of Western Pennsylvania at Edgewood, with a card of 39-39—78. Dr. George Gregg, of Oakmont, was second with an 80.

Warren Brown, of the Nickel Plate R. R., won the low gross honors in the annual Traffic Club tourney at Longue Vue. J. R. Pugh and M. C. Shiras tied for low honors with 71s.

Claude Newell led the field in the Observatory Post 81, American Legion, tournament at North Park with a score of 83.

Hanley Puts Ban On Married Back

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Kenneth Meenan, Northwestern University fullback, cannot play with the Wildcats this year unless Coach Dick Hanley relents.

Hanley barred Meenan from the squad yesterday despite his plea for reinstatement.

"A married man," said the coach, "cannot play football."

Meenan was married twice last year. First, he was married to Helen Major, 17. Their marriage was annulled. Then, in March, he married Jean Rogers, a sophomore. The second wedding resulted in his suspension.

City School Fives To Open January 6

The basketball season in the city senior and junior high schools will get under way on January 6. The city senior soccer season will open on October 6 and the juniors will open their season on September 29, according to the schedules arranged by C. Lawrence Walsh, supervisor of high school athletics.

Schmeling in Court; Saves Contempt Fine

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Max Schmeling purged himself of a contempt citation and a $250 fine yesterday by appearing for examination before trial in a $100,000 suit brought by Primo Carnera growing out of the German's alleged refusal to fight him in September, 1931. The examination was private.

Meanwhile Supreme Court Justice Edward J. McGoldrick reserved decision on Carnera's application to tie up $150,000 he claims Schmeling is to receive for his fight with Mickey Walker last Monday.

BUDGET PLAN for Buying New GOODYEAR TIRES

OUR BUDGET PLAN enables you to purchase new Goodyear tires now, for safe, comfortable fall and winter driving and pay for them as you ride on convenient weekly payments. It is a plan which appeals to all motorists as it provides for the gradual, systematic retirement of your obligation upon an easily met budget basis. Let us explain its convenience, advantages and extreme low cost on all sizes and types of Goodyear—the world's FIRST-choice tires and tubes.

Goodyear puts traction in the center of the tread—where it belongs.

A Typical Budget Plan Example

You select a set of four Goodyear Speedway Tires. Instead of our regular cash price, you can pay $4.37 when the Goodyears are mounted and remit on the basis of $1.09 a week for twelve weeks. Payments for tires at other prices in proportion; our Budget Plan fee is very small, the arrangement confidential. Your inquiry is invited.

Our Budget Plan applies also to new
Prest-O-Lite BATTERIES

FREE! Corrosion removed from terminals, battery washed and anti-corrosion-preventative applied. Battery bench-tested, and filled to proper level with pure distilled water. No Charge At All!

All Makes Recharged, Repaired, Serviced. Road Service.

Do You Know Why This is a Sensible Time to Put on New Goodyear Tires

You need the extra grip of unworn new Goodyear treads on the slippery roads of fall and winter. And mileage records show that rubber wears down about twice as slowly per mile on cool, wet roads. Thus new Goodyear Tires give you full protection when you need it most—when stops to change tires are most disagreeable—and because they wear slower you still have dependable service left in them for next spring and summer.

SIMMONS, HAAS, DYKES SOLD TO WHITE SOX BY A'S

$150,000 PAID FOR STARS, REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Connie Mack, venerable pilot of the Philadelphia Athletics, has started tearing apart the great baseball machine he drove to three American League flags in 1929, '30 and '31, and the Chicago White Sox, at the same time, have thrown their resources into the market for players of proved ability.

Al Simmons

In one of the most startling deals of recent baseball history, Manager Mack announced last night he had sold Outfielders Al Simmons and George (Mule) Haas and Infielder Jimmy Dykes to the White Sox for cash.

The price paid for the three stars was not announced, but Sox officials said it was the largest amount of cash they ever have handed out and probably the greatest sum which ever exchanged hands in the American League. It was estimated the Sox paid around $150,000.

Whether the sale presaged a general breaking up of the present Athletic team, Connie Mack would not say.

Just 17 years ago he wrecked a glamorous team because it had become satiated with victory. At that time he sent one of his greatest stars, Eddie Collins, to the White Sox and Collins became the cornerstone of a championship club at Chicago.

While Haas and Dykes are considered valuable players, Simmons is the big gun in the deal. Possessed of a nine-year major league batting average of nearly .360, he is recognized as one of the game's greatest stars.

Bush's Failure Shock Of Series Opener

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The first game of the current world series doubtless will go down in diamond history as one of the worst performances. With bases on balls and general loose play marking the contest, the slow-moving battle had little in common with the snappy games you expect to see and do see during the progress of the regular season.

It is striking to note that on the day before the fight, Guy Bush, the Chicago pitcher for the inaugural, declared he had never seen the Yankee Stadium. His actions in the sixth inning indicated he should have been introduced to the slab and home plate at the House that Ruth built.

WHY THE A. L. LAUGHS

Why is it that National League stars do such unheard of things when they get into interleague competition at the end of the season? Bush was a tough hombre as he carried the burden of the Cubs' flag hopes in the last month of the season. Who would expect Guy to walk three batters in succession in any game of National League significance? Yet he does this very thing in the most important series of all.

Only three years ago, Rogers Hornsby and Kiki Cuyler, two of the ranking players of the game, blew up at the plate in competition against the sidearm pitching which Mack's hurlers served in the titular games. Hornsby and Cuyler had just finished big seasons, but once the series got under way, the two, especially The Rajah, were made to appear two awful batters. They fanned so often their supporters collapsed.

THAT GEHRIG BOY AGAIN

Pages have been printed in the past two weeks extolling the merits of the Chicago pitching staff, but the series is hardly started before a guaranteed ace is made to appear like a bloomer. Much will be made of the fact that the Yankees made only eight hits in making their dozen runs, but you cannot alibi those timely blows they delivered.

Lou Gehrig, as was expected, came through like the night air mail. When the Yankees of 1927-28 were engaged in beating the Pirates and Cardinals eight times in a row, this home-run socker stole the show, when one considers all-around play and fighting spirit. He seems to be up to his tricks again.

Ruth Smashes Own Series Records

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Babe Ruth, competing in his tenth world series, broke five of his own records in the opening game yesterday. The records he smashed follow:

Most world series—10.
Most runs—34.
Most runs batted in—28.
Most total bases—86.
Most bases on balls—31.

The third meeting as professionals between Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, and Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, those two arch rivals, scheduled as the main event of a benefit show for the North Braddock Firemen, in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, last night, failed to materialize. Depression at the box office was the reason, although it was announced from the ring the show was being called off on account of unfavorable weather.

The slim crowd waited until 9 o'clock for festivities to begin and then was informed its money would be refunded at the box office. The fans lined up and cashed their tickets.

A plan was considered to stage the show in Motor Square Garden next Monday night, but this was dropped following a conference.

The Garden has no other show booked for next week and will not operate then.

Just a little more than $600 was attracted to the box office for last night's show, and, if it had been staged, the relief fund would have taken a bad financial licking. McTiernan was to receive a $400 guarantee and Belmont 25 per cent of the receipts, with the preliminaries and other expenses totaling several hundred dollars more.

Battling Gizzy and Joe Marcus are all set for their bout featuring the inaugural show of the new Kapphan Arena on the North Side tomorrow night. There is a lot of interest in this strictly local match and the prospects of the club getting off to a good start are fine.

OLYMPICS BOW TO BURNS

By TOM BIRKS

Stanley Berkman, former Thiel star, captain and quarterback of the Burns eleven in the Western Pennsylvania Independent Gridiron Conference, sent his team off in the 1932 title race by running 55 yards for a touchdown against the Baehr Olympics, of McKeesport, at New Kensington last night to give the Allegheny Valley club a 6-to-2 victory over its old rivals, rivals.

With Burns in possession of the ball on its own 20-yard line in the final quarter, a 15-yard penalty was inflicted for holding. Instead of trying to punt out from behind his goal line, Berkman purposely grounded the ball behind the goal line on the last down for an automatic safety.

A fair-sized crowd watched the bitterly fought game. Some of the McKeesport players became lost en route to the game, and Coach Bill Sullivan had to start some of the second-string men.

With the ball on the Burns' 45-yard line, a double pass sent Berkman off on his touchdown run.

The Olympics put on the pressure in the final quarter and, aided by two 15-yard penalties, nearly turned the tables.

In Tri-County Conference tilt, the Cup Jenkins eleven, of Homestead, defeated Oakmont, 7 to 6, at Homestead last night.

Manager Art Rooney, of the West Penn Conference champions, announced last night that the Portsmouth eleven, of the National Professional Football League, will meet the Rooneys at Greenlee Field in a night game October 12. The Burns-McKeesport game lineup:

KENNEDY VICTOR

STEVENS POINT, Wis., Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Irish Kennedy, of Iron Mountain, Mich., outpointed Ace of Spades, Minneapolis, in the 10-round main event of a fight card here last night. Kennedy weighed 150 and Ace of Spades 155.

WOMEN'S GOLF MEDALIST BEATEN

PEABODY, Mass., Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Ada Mackenzie, of Toronto, today gave the women's nation golf championship a major upset by defeating Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. J., 2 and 1, for a place in the semi-finals at the Salem Country Club.

Miss Orcutt won the qualifying medal and was one of the title favorites.

Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, pulled out a 3-2 victory over Rosalie Knapp, of Glen Head, N. Y., after outstroking her all the way.

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, a champion five times, put on a great closing surge to overtake Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, and then sweep into another 2-and-1 victory. Miss Wattles matched the par of 38 going out and was 3 up at the turn.

Enid Wilson, British golf champion for the past two years and one of the 1931 semi-finalists in the American play, was eliminated by Charlotte Glutting, New Jersey titlist, 1 up.

The brawny English girl, the most feared player in the title competition, bowed out by missing a seven-foot putt on the home green. Miss Wilson had a two-hole lead at the turn.

HOCKEY HERE ASSURED

By CARL W. SHATTO

The work of remodeling Duquesne Garden and lining up a strong team is receiving the attention of local National Hockey League leaders today, following an announcement by Attorney James F. Callahan, president of the Pittsburgh club, that a Duquesne Garden lease agreement at last had been reached with the Philadelphia Company, owner of the Craig street arena.

The signing of the lease today is to be only a formality.

Bill Dwyer, New York sportsman, is associated with Callahan in returning National League hockey to this city, after a lapse of two years. The Pittsburgh franchise was operated in Philadelphia during the 1930-31 season, and was idle last year.

Hib Milks, Jerry Lowrey and a few other members of the Pittsburgh team of three years ago will be used as a nucleus for the 1932-33 Pittsburgh team. A movement to obtain skaters from the Montreal Maroons has been launched.

George Funk, New York architect renowned for his work in designing big sports arenas, recently completed plans for extensive changes in the interior of the Garden. It is proposed to spend about $75,000 in increasing the seating capacity of the arena to approximately 7,000.

Callahan is to leave tonight to attend a National League meeting in Montreal. It is likely that he will sign a manager for the Pittsburgh team while in the Canadian city.

MILLERS WIN OVER BEARS

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 29.—(AP.)—The Minneapolis Millers pushed themselves back into the little world series picture last night by stopping Newark's Bears, 3 to 2, behind the five-hit pitching performance of Jess Petty, 41-year-old veteran.

Jess Petty

Petty did what our Miller pitchers were unable to do Tuesday in silencing the big war clubs of the International League champions in all except two innings. He fanned 11 batters and had such fine control that not a Bear drew a free pass to first.

It was the first game of a little world series ever staged under lights and the Millers' triumph enabled them to come up on even terms with a game each. About 16,000 turned out for the engagement. The score:

Perry and Satoh Victors on Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Led by Frederick Perry, of England, and Jiro Satoh, Japanese ace, favorites stroked through third-round matches yesterday in the men's singles division of the Pacific Coast tennis championships.

Perry entered the quarter-finals with a 6-1, 3-6, 6-4 win over Ed Levy, of San Francisco, while his leading rival, Satoh, conquered the former Spanish Davis Cup player, Manuel Alonzo, 6-1, 6-3.

Henry (Bunny) Austin, teammate of Perry, took an 8-6, 6-2 third-round match from John Murio, of San Francisco.

The Italian Davis Cup entry, Georgio De Stefani, captured a stirring three-set match from Henry Prussoff, of Seattle, state titleholder of Washington and Oregon, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

BOZO SUSPENDED

DETROIT, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Battling Bozo, the Birmingham, Ala., clown, was suspended indefinitely last night by James M. Brown, chairman of the State Boxing Commission, for accusing the referee of robbing him of a fight he had lost to Jack O'Dowd, Detroit, heavyweight.

SCOTT TO PLAY CRAFTON HIGH TOMORROW

By JULIUS LEVIN

The Scott High eleven, of North Braddock, although beaten by Charleroi, a member of the Double A Conference, still is very much in the running for the Class A championship of the W. P. I. A. L. The Reedmen resume their fight for the championship tomorrow night when they clash with Crafton at Scott High Field.

Having opened the season a week earlier than their rivals, the Scott gridders have a slight advantage under the point system on which the title will be awarded.

SCOTT GETS LEAD

Scott High inaugurated its campaign with a 27-6 victory over Uniontown, giving the North Braddock machine 100 points. Another 100 points were added to its credit with its 18-0 victory over Munhall. Both Uniontown and Munhall are members of the Class A group. Every game won by Uniontown and Munhall from a Class A opponent will add 10 points to Scott's total.

A victory over Crafton tomorrow night automatically will increase Scott's point total by 110 points, as Crafton already owns a 13-12 triumph over Coraopolis, a Class A school.

The North Braddock eleven is expected to defeat Crafton, which, after beating Coraopolis, dropped a 30-0 decision to Mt. Lebanon.

Two other important night games grace the scholastic football card. Tonight in the Reeves Stadium, at Beaver Falls, Monaca opens its season with Washington, a Double A contender, as its opponent. The game originally was scheduled for Washington Saturday, but was moved up two days to give Monaca an attractive opener.

Tomorrow night, at New Castle, the first Double A Conference game will be staged, when Charleroi and New Castle, both undefeated, clash under the floodlights at Taggart Field. The two teams are evenly matched, and fans are anticipating a close struggle.

NINE LOCAL TEAMS PLAY

Nine instead of eight City League teams will see action tomorrow as a result of Fifth Avenue moving up its game in Weirton, W. Va. The Red and White machine was slated to play the West Virginians on Saturday, but the game will be played tomorrow afternoon.

The City League card is featured by three league games and one intersectional fray. Allderdice plays at Schenley in Section I, while Section II contests find South Hills at Perry and Langley at Carrick. Allegheny plays at Westinghouse in an intersectional game having no bearing on the title race.

Bethany Reduces Grid Prices—To Nothing

BETHANY, W. Va., Sept. 29.—(INS.)—"College football players are not prize horses and certainly do not rate an admission price to see them perform."

With this pronouncement, President Goodnight, of Bethany College, today summoned a public meeting of students and faculty and declared that no admission would be charged during the football season this year. He said:

"We want our friends to see our team on the field because the team is made up of bona fide college students.

"We shall not continue to parade them like prize horses at a county fair."

How Yankees Won Series Opener, Play by Play

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—The play-by-play account of the first game of the Yankees-Cubs world series, at the Yankee Stadium here yesterday, follows:

FIRST INNING

CUBS—Herman singled over second base. English singled to right and Herman scored when the ball escaped Ruth and rolled to the fence. English reached third on the Babe's error. Cuyler fanned. English scored on Stephenson's single over second. Moore fanned. Grimm struck out. Two runs, three hits, one error.

YANKEES—Combs fanned. Sewell fouled out to Grimm. Ruth grounded out to Grimm.

SECOND INNING

CUBS—Hartnett fanned. Ruffing threw out Koenig. Bush grounded out to Ruffing.

YANKEES—Herman threw out Gehrig. Rush threw out Lazzeri. Dickey hoisted to Cuyler.

THIRD INNING

CUBS—Ruffing threw out Herman. Sewell threw out English. Cuyler singled over Crosetti's head. Stephenson flied to Combs. One hit.

YANKEES—Chapman flied to Stephenson. Crosetti fanned. Ruffing hoisted to Stephenson.

FOURTH INNING

CUBS—Moore lifted a high fly to Sewell. Grimm fanned. Hartnett smashed a long double against the left field boxes. Koenig was purposely passed. Bush walked, and the bases were filled. Herman flied to Chapman. One hit.

YANKEES—Combs walked. Combs went to second as Sewell grounded out to Grimm. Ruth singled to right, scoring Combs. Gehrig hit a home run into the right field bleachers, scoring behind Ruth. Lazzari rolled to English and was out at first. Rush threw to Dickey. Three runs, two hits.

FIFTH INNING

CUBS—English fanned. Cuyler also fanned. Stephenson flied to Combs.

YANKEES—Chapman was safe at first when English juggled his grounder and then threw high to first. Crosetti sacrificed, and both runners were safe when Hartnett threw to second too late to put out Chapman. Chapman was forced at second, Hartnett to English, as Ruffing's short bunt, Combs hit into a double play, Herman to Koenig to Grimm. One error.

SIXTH INNING

CUBS—Moore flied to Sewell. Grimm walked. Hartnett fanned. Koenig grounded out, Lazzeri to Gehrig.

YANKEES—Sewell walked. Ruth and Gehrig also walked, and the bases were filled. Lazzeri flied to Koenig. Sewell and Ruth scored on Dickey's single to center. Gehrig reached third. Gehrig scored on Chapman's roller to Herman, who threw wide to the plate. Crosetti walked, filling the bases again. Grimes relieved Bush on the mound for the Cubs. Ruffing grounded to Koenig and Dickey was forced at the plate, Koenig to Hartnett. Combs singled to center, scoring Chapman and Crosetti. Sewell took third, scampered home and threw to Koenig, forcing Combs at second. Five runs, two hits.

SEVENTH INNING

CUBS—Grimes struck out. Herman singled over Lazzeri's head. Combs made a fine running catch of English's line drive. Cuyler missed Crosetti's sharp drive, and it was a two-base error, Herman reaching third and Cuyler racing to second. Herman and Cuyler scored on Stephenson's single to left. Moore walked. Grimm grounded out, Ruffing to Gehrig. Two runs, two hits, one error.

YANKEES—Ruth walked. Gehrig singled to left. Ruth going to third. Lazzeri reached first safely, Ruth scored and Gehrig reached third when Lazzeri's tap to Herman went for a hit. Dickey was hit with a pitched ball, filling the bases. Chapman hustled to Moore, and Gehrig scored after the catch. Crosetti rolled to Koenig, and Dickey was forced at second, Koenig to Herman. Lazzeri stopped at third. Lazzeri scored on a wild pitch, Crosetti trying to reach third, but was out on Hartnett's throw to English. Three runs, two hits.

EIGHTH INNING

CUBS—Hartnett doubled to left. Koenig tripled to right center, scoring Hartnett. Gudat batted for Grimes and struck out. Koenig scored as Herman grounded out to Gehrig to Ruffing. English walked. Cuyler popped to Lazzeri. Two runs, two hits.

YANKEES—Bob Smith went to the mound for the Cubs. Ruffing fanned. Combs doubled to center. Sewell singled through short, scoring Combs. Ruth popped to Koenig. Gehrig lined to Cuyler. One run, two hits.

NINTH INNING

CUBS—Stephenson singled to right. Moore fouled out to Dickey. Grimm walked. Hartnett hoisted to Ruth. Lazzeri threw out Koenig. One hit.

YANKEES—Unplayed.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Close followers of boxing see ominous signs in the burying of the hatchet between Jack Kearns and Jack Dempsey at the Schmeling-Walker fight in New York the other night . . . They expect the pair to team up again as manager and fighter, as in the days before Estelle Taylor, of the movies, came between them to marry Dempsey, and to stage a ballyhoo which will have as its object another comeback by Dempsey for an elimination bout with Schmeling, the "New Dempsey," for the right to meet Jack Sharkey, the new champion . . . With Dempsey still a hero to the mob, the gate potentialities of such a hookup are readily apparent.

The moral is "don't be a Bush." . . . Donie Bush's Minneapolis champions of the American Association took an 11-0 drubbing from the Newark Bears in the first game of the little world series, and Guy Bush got "his'n" when he started for the Cubs against the Yankees in the big series yesterday. . . . Who planted those Bushes for the sucker shots? . . . Several years ago, the National League champions couldn't do anything with the Yankees, and still they tell us things have changed since then.

Gus Dorais, Detroit University coach, is a ringer for Edgar Guest, the Detroit poet, in looks and often is mistaken for him . . . Mike Vucinich, Ohio State fullback, is the former Kiski star . . . He hails from Vandergrift and was the regular fullback of the Buckeyes in his sophomore season, last year. . . . Regis Monahan, of Greenfield, and Joe Gailus, the guard, at Ohio State, also are former Kiskians, while Buzz Wetzel is another Buck who prepped at Kiski . . . Incidentally, the Ohio State alumni of Western Pennsylvania, who are numerous, already are getting het up over their team's coming to the Stadium for a battle with Pitt on October 22 . . . They are keen about making the Pitt-Ohio State game an annual attraction on a home-and-home basis and promise to turn out a huge crowd for the affair this year.—HARRY KECK.

Wrestler Injured In Newark Bout

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Lew Plummer, of Baltimore, former Notre Dame football player, who is now a heavyweight wrestler, was critically injured last night in his wrestling match with Jim McMillen, of Illinois.

Plummer, missing a flying tackle, flew through the ropes of the ring and landed on a row of ringside seats. He suffered a concussion of the brain and was taken, unconscious to a hospital, where his condition was said to be serious.

STARS DEFEAT CRAWFORDS, 20 TO 8

Larry French, Pirate southpaw hurling ace, will oppose the Pittsburgh Crawfords in the third game of the series between the local Negro stars and the National League All-Stars at Greenlee Field this evening. Last night the All-Stars evened matters with the Crawfords by walloping them, 20 to 8, Tuesday, at York, the Crawfords won, 11 to 2.

A fair turnout of fans saw a slugfest last evening as the National Leaguers pounded Smoky Joe Williams, Gilbert English, of the New York Giants; Danny Taylor, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Todd, of the Phillies, led the attack of the All-Stars. The score:

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that ordinance, Bill No. 1263, has been introduced in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh, August 2, 1932, amending an ordinance entitled:

"An ordinance regulating and restricting the location of trades and industries and the location of buildings designed for specified uses and regulating and limiting the height and bulk of buildings hereafter erected or altered, and regulating and determining the area of yards, courts and other open spaces in connection with buildings hereafter erected or altered, and establishing the boundaries of districts for the said purpose; conferring certain powers upon the superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection; providing for a Board of Appeals; and imposing penalties," approved August 9, 1923, by changing the zone map, sheet Z-N10-6, so as to change from an "A" residence use district to a commercial use district all that certain property bounded by Cedar avenue, a line parallel with and 80 feet north from North Canal street, Moravian way and North Canal street.

And that a public hearing will be held by the Council of the City of Pittsburgh to consider said ordinance at the Council Chamber, fifth floor, City-County Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., at 2:00 p. m., on Wednesday, October 19, 1932.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—The stock market was lethargic today, although there were minor chills which from time to time were accompanied with price declines of 1 to about 3 points. Trading appeared to be about three-quarters professional.

Bullish forces made an early effort to bid up prices and succeeded in lifting the railroad equipment, utility and farm implement shares from fractions to more than a point. This gain failed to hold, however, and some of the recent speculative favorites were offered rather freely.

Steel shares encountered moderate pressure. Extreme losses of a point or so were registered by United States Steel, National and Bethlehem. United States Steel preferred was off nearly 2 points and Bethlehem preferred reacted 4. American Telephone and Public Service of New Jersey lost a point or so. Oils were steady and rails quiet.

Speculative attention has recently veered to the railroad equipment companies on strength of reports that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will consider any reasonable requests of railroads for so-called work loans.

Commodities inclined toward heaviness, a sharp break in coffee futures furnishing the most spectacular change of the day.

GRAIN PRICES SAG AGAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Grain prices averaged lower early today after an irregular start. Commission houses with connections east were fairly active buyers of December wheat, but at 55 cents and above there was selling on resting orders which brought about setbacks. Opening ¼ off to ½ up, wheat subsequently declined all around. Corn started ⅜ lower to ⅛ advance and afterward sagged.

Increased rural offerings of corn put a weight on prices of corn and oats. Provisions were neglected.

UNEMPLOYMENT PARAMOUNT PROBLEM

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The patient — American business—is unquestionably a little better since the beginning of summer, but thus far is still far from well.

Unemployment is the worst phase of the present situation. Asked for the employment outlook, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, told me:

Mr. Rukeyser

"It is indeed difficult to predict employment for the coming fall and winter months. There are evidences of some improvement in business but Mr. Rukeyser not as yet of recovery."

RAIL TRAFFIC UP

Looking at the situation from the viewpoint of freight car loadings, F. E. Williamson, new president of the New York Central lines, pointed out:

"I am glad to say that during the past six or seven weeks there have been very definite indications of a gradual improvement in business conditions in the territory served by our lines.

"As a matter of fact, loaded cars handled by the New York Central have shown a steady improvement each week over the preceding week since the first week of August, with the exception of the week ended September 10, which contained the Labor Day holiday.

"Whether or not this improvement in traffic will continue depends in large measure on the general business situation of the country. Unquestionably there has been a decided change for the better in sentiment; and so long as nothing occurs to disturb the present outlook, I should expect a continuance of the improvement in railroad traffic that has manifested itself since the beginning of August."

NEW POLICY URGED

Some of the leading railroad financiers hold that there is nothing the matter with the railways that a decided increase in gross traffic would not correct.

Queried concerning his views on the need of a change in railroad policy, Mr. Williamson said that he was thoroughly in agreement with the platform prepared on November 20, 1930, by the Association of Railway Executives. This statement of policy is again of public interest, in view of the fact that Gov. Roosevelt, in his Salt Lake City address on railroads, focussed public attention on the need of revision of railroad policy.

The executives urged similar regulation for buses, trucks and pipelines; that restrictions forbidding the railroads from competing with the Panama Canal be dropped; that the government cease competing with transportation systems through subsidies or otherwise, and a respite from rate reductions.

GREECE TO PAY PART SCRIP

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Speyer & Co. as fiscal agents, announced that the Greek government contemplated payment of part cash and part scrip to meet interest requirements on two foreign loans during the next fiscal year.

The New York bankers said they had been advised, following a conference in London, that the Greek government lacked funds to assure payment of interest in cash, and that its finance minister had recommended a part payment be made. Under the plan now being considered, Greece would pay 60 per cent of the interest due in the next six months in cash and the balance in scrip, which is tantamount to a promise to redeem later at 100 with cash. Later, the government would determine what percentage of the year's remaining interest could be paid in cash.

The loans consist of approximately $98,000,000 of bonds, of which $21,000,000 were floated in this country.

Pressed Steel Car Meeting Maturity

The Pressed Steel Car Company has a plan to meet the maturity on January 1, 1933, of the balance of its $6,000,000 10-year 5 per cent convertible gold bonds which amounts to slightly less than $5,000,000. The company plans to offer 25 per cent of the principal amount of the bonds in cash and the balance in 15-year 5 per cent convertible gold debentures, due January 1, 1943.

New York Exchange Lists Plymouth Oil

The New York Stock Exchange has approved the listing of the 1,050,000 shares of $5 par value capital stock of the Plymouth Oil Company, a Pittsburgh concern. The stock is also listed on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange.

GEORGE A. YOUNG, Treasurer.

DUQUESNE NATIONAL BANK, Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 23, 1932. The directors of this bank have this day declared a quarterly dividend of two (2%) per cent on the capital stock, payable October 1, 1932, to stockholders of record September 30, 1932. Checks will be mailed.
DURBIN S. KERR, Cashier.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The Curb Market continued dull and featureless today, with prices of most of the leading issues inclined to sag.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

VALENTINE

CHAPTER XXXIV.

They laughed all the way home, sitting together in the comfortably upholstered back seat of Uncle Joe's limousine. Uncle Joe always sent his car for the people he wanted to see. It was his way of guarding against unwelcome company, Joe said.

A stormy career in state politics had made him many enemies, and his reputation for wealth made him the target for cranks, agents for every variety of enterprise and every conceivable form of public and personal charity.

So he had retired to his farm and lived alone, apparently not in the least lonely, seeing whom he chose when he chose, and no one else at all.

"Next spring we'll buy a car," Joe said, as they skimmed over the long, straight road toward the city. It's hard to use a car here in the winter anyway. Then we'll go for rides and have picnics at the lakes—"

"And get a crowd and take a trip to Lake Minnetonka or Hudson or Marine—that's up on the Saint Croix—and we'll go to Frontenac—that's on the Mississippi—and there's an old inn that used to be a resort for rich southern gentlefolk in riverboat days, and—"

"And go off by ourselves for evening suppers—"

It was like old times.

"I've been worrying too much," Val thought. "Joe's all right. He isn't worrying about anything. I'll just make myself be more efficient and then I won't have to fuss so much about housekeeping and we'll have more fun."

AN ODD OVERSIGHT

But invitations continued to arrive. Joe continued to accept them. People kept right on calling. Pearl Neely got off in corners with Joe—not that Joe could help it, of course—and humiliating things went right on happening.

There was the night she planned the roast beef and baked squash dinner, out of the nice cookbook Janice had given her, and then, when they were all ready to sit down, remembered that she had forgotten to cook the beef.

"How COULD you forget that?" Pearl quizzed her. "Why, that is the first thing one thinks of—to get the oven right for the meat and get it in—"

"It isn't what I think of. I think of how the table looks and whether the salad and dessert are ready," Val said.

Everybody laughed, and she laughed too, louder than anybody, but she didn't really think it was funny. And she knew that she wouldn't have laughed if Pearl or Stella Willowes or someone had forgotten. She would have been too polite.

She wrote about it to Millie, making it sound like a joke.

Millie wrote back, "Bad cooking is no joke. I'm sending you $250. Hire a good cook. Tell your husband it's a bribe from his mother-in-law. I don't want him to leave you!"

Joe laughed a little when she showed him the letter, but the old worried frown settled between his eyes and he said, "Buy some giddy clothes for yourself, or put it in the bank in your own name if you want to, but you can't spend your mother's money on my house."

"On YOUR house!"

"On our house, honey. You know I didn't mean that!"

"Maybe you don't. But all your friends do. It's just Joe everything to them. And I'm just a mistake—one of your few errors in judgment. At least they'd be glad that you were going to get someone to cook for you—someone who knew how and liked to—"

Synopsis

Valentine MacFarlane is practically deserted at the age of 8 by her gay, widowed mother, Millie. She is brought up by a manhating maiden aunt, Julia, and becomes a stenographer. After a brief infatuation for the dashing Lester Sherwood, she marries a neighbor boy, Joe Carey, and goes to Minneapolis, where Joe is an architect. Val knows little about housekeeping or cooking. To return favors of a neighbor woman, Mrs. Peacock, Val and Joe plan a dinner. They also invite Pearl Neely, a friend of Joe's. Pearl begins to take liberties about the apartment. Val disapproves, but says nothing. Joe gets a letter from his mother complaining of family troubles. Millie writes that she has married a wealthy widower.

Now Go On

"Val!"

"And I'd be glad. Because I hate it—hate it—hate it!"

He tried to put his arms around her. "Now Val, you're all upset—"

"Oh my stars! I get the money to buy myself free of kitchen slavery and you won't let me use it, and then I'm ALL UPSET! What in the world WOULD I be? Tickled to death?"

She faced him, blazing with anger, with shame at the secret knowledge that she wasn't behaving very well, that Millie wouldn't have done it that way.

"I'll get you a maid if that's what you want. I'll get one tomorrow. Or you can go down and get one yourself. But NOT with your mother's money."

"We can't afford it. And Millie sent the money so that I—"

"Get the maid. I'll pay for her," Joe said.

NO PLACE FOR MAID

She refused, unless she could use Millie's money, but about 11 o'clock the next morning a big, red-cheeked girl arrived in a taxi with a steamer trunk and two bulging suitcases, and a note from Joe.

"This is Mamie Fontana. She's going to work for us.—Joe."

Val looked at the girl, at the taxi and the trunk and the two suitcases.

"But we haven't any place to put all this! We haven't any room for you!"

"You're husband hired me," Mamie Fontana said stubbornly.

"But I haven't any place for you to sleep!"

"Well, I gotta sleep in. I don't keep no room," the girl said with finality.

Val paid the taxi man, had the trunks left in the hall. "Sit down," she said, "and I'll call my husband."

Her voice was ringing with exasperation. "This girl is here with trunks and things and I don't know what to do with her . . . what? Yes, I did say I wanted a maid—I mean, Millie said to hire a cook, but where can I PUT her? In the dining room, in the wall bed? Joe, you're crazy."

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

Val faced Joe, blazing with anger.

Val held the telephone, listended to Joe's absurd suggestions about asking the landlord for a room in the vacant apartment, calling Mrs. Peacock, putting a cot in the hall.

The girl tapped her on the shoulder.

"Tell him I don't want the place," she said. "I don't want to work for you. I'm not that hard up."

A few weeks ago they would have laughed at the whole thing, but they couldn't take it lightly now. That night Joe said, "Tell me what you want to do? You don't want to cook and you don't want a maid. Would you like to move to a place large enough to have a maid?"

"And have twice as much place to look after? No thanks. Not with a green maid like that one that showed up!"

"Want to live in a hotel—board?"

A hotel . . . but Joe didn't mean the Curtis, of course—he meant some small, third-rate place.

"No, I wouldn't like that."

"Val, what DO you want?"

She looked at him, tears rushing suddenly to her eyes, blinding her, choking her.

What did she want? What does any girl want when she gets married? Love, and a nice home, and to have everything run smoothly, and not a lot of people you don't like around all the time, and to be with her friends, and Aunt Julia and Millie . . .

"I'm afraid I don't understand you," Joe said. "You don't want to cook and you don't want a maid and you don't want to board. Try to tell me. You must want something, honey."

Words rushed to her mind, a torrent of words, but she couldn't say them. She knew she couldn't make it sound reasonable to Joe. He wouldn't understand.

She wept and Joe took her in his arms and stroked her hair, but she had no comfort in his nearness. She felt no sympathy in his touch.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Confronted With a Perplexing Problem

As I heard Hugh Grantland's swiftly receding footsteps mounting the stairs to my father's room, I drew the first free breath I had taken since the beginning of Philip Veritzen's telephone conversation. The strain of not knowing what extravagance of speech Mr. Veritzen might utter, with the easily misunderstood reply I might be compelled to make within sound of Hugh's patently jealous ears, was more tense than I was aware of, until after Hugh's departure.

"May I come over right away?" This was Mr. Veritzen's next contribution to our colloquy. "I want to thank you in person for this wonderful boon, and—also—I have some plans—I perhaps may be able to proffer you something a little—special—for your evening."

There was both excitement and dismay in my heart at this speech. My months of work in the Veritzen organization had taught me something of his marvelous ingenuity and generosity, when he became interested in the project of a friend, whether it were a social party or a business proposition; but I certainly could not let him rush over now, with Hugh still in the house.

Ordinarily I could count upon the poise and dignity of both men to carry them through any situation displeasing to either of them; but I felt that I did not know this new Hugh, who had come back from far and strange countries. I was not sure of his reactions to anything which affected me, and I did not wish to risk an encounter between him and my former employer.

VERITZEN TO VISIT

The sound of a jiggling telephone receiver and Mr. Veritzen's voice, sharp, to the operator—"Am I still connected?"—made me realize that I had left him stranded on an island of silence. Mendaciously, with an apology to the telephone operator, and with the salve to my conscience that I was voicing a question, not an assertion, I spoke quickly:

"Oh! Mr. Vertizen! Were you cut off? I'm so sorry! You were saying something about something special for my party. As my young niece would say, I was thrilled to tears."

He laughed and answered me good-humoredly, instead of with the offended dignity I had feared.

"At your own convenience, of course," Mr. Veritzen assured me grandiloquently. "Are you sure you can see me in two hours?"

"Perfectly sure."

"Then I will be there at that time. Au revoir."

His receiver clicked into place and I thoughtfully hung up my own. If Hugh Grantland's interview with my father should prove a long affair, or if he stopped again on the veranda to talk to me, my effort to delay Philip Veritzen's arrival would be useless.

FEIGNS HEADACHE

With the determination to leave nothing to chance that I could help, I went to the kitchen veranda, where I found Katie rocking and cutting snap beans for dinner.

"If Major Grantland should ask for me when he comes down stairs from my father's room, please say to him that you will call me, but that you think I am asleep—that you heard me say I was going to my room to lie down because of a headache."

"Oh! my poor Missis Graham!" Katie's quick sympathy brought an embarrassed flush to my face. "I feex you someting."

"No, no. I shall be perfectly all right in a little while. But be sure to tell him that, and then when you are sure he is gone, come and tell me."

"You mean, vake you opp?" Her puzzled eyes searched my face.

"I shan't be asleep."

"Oh—h!" There was sudden enlightenment in her tone. "I see. Und I feex. I tell heem shoost vat you say, und ven I sure he gone, I coom tell you. Ees dot eet?"

"Yes, that is it, Katie," I said, and went upstairs to my room, still flushing at having been compelled to enlist my little maid's aid, and also wondering how I could insure Hugh's departure before Mr. Veritzen's arrival.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Joseph Murdock, who some time ago was transferred from the Rowland Theater, Wilkinsburg, to the Memorial Theater, McKeesport, and more recently transferred to the Belmar Theater, conducted his first Junior Komic Club meeting last week at the Belmar.

"Joe," as he is known to hundreds of the members of the Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club, has conducted many meetings in the past at the Rowland and Memorial theaters and the youngsters of the Belmar were in for a real treat.

Grand Jester La Pertche introduced Manager Murdock to the audience and after saying a few words to the youngsters about the future activities of the club, waved his arm and the curtain was parted and, lo and behold, there on the stage of the Belmar Theater was a varied display of toys for the winners of the various games and contests which were about to be held.

TREASURE HUNT

Most prominent were three large galvanized tubs, which caused considerable consternation among the members, until Mr. Murdock explained their purpose—a contest in which the winners would be the first two contestants who extracted a penny by their teeth, without the use of their hands from the bottom of the tubs which were covered with an inch or two of flour. Six of those who volunteered came to the stage and when Grand Jester La Pertche gave the word "go" these six adventurers embarked on their treasure hunt. It was amid much cheering from the onlookers that Robert McBride, white from exertion and flour, emerged victoriously from the tub which marked his voyage of exploration. John Daugherty sailed in a close second and gave the members much cause for laughter by reason of his flour bespattered features. The two boys were given their choice of the prizes and thus the first contest under Mr. Murdock was brought to a successful close.

A balloon blowing contest was next on the program, the winner to be the boy who blew up a balloon the biggest without breaking it. Daniel Keenan proved that he knew what it was all about. By taking it in easy stages, he inflated his balloon larger than any other in the event. He also was allowed to pick his prize from the many toys on the stage.

FOOTBALL GAME

How many of the members of the Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club saw the football game last Friday night at Forbes Field between Duquesne and West Virginia? Boy, oh boy, what a game! Every youngster who saw that game will long remember that kick from "Red" Sullivan's educated toe late in the last period.

Duquesne plays Grove City College tomorrow night at Forbes Field, and the Sun-Telegraph has again arranged with John D. Holahan to admit the youngsters to this game for TWO LUCKY BUCKS clipped from today's and tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph and 10 cents.

Just present the LUCKY BUCKS with your dime at any of the Lucky Buck ticket windows tomorrow night and you'll receive a special admission ticket.

But remember, you must have two LUCKY BUCKS clipped from the Sun-Telegraph and you must be under 16. And, boys and girls, here's a tip. The gates will be opened at 7 o'clock and you'll make no mistake by being there early.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Congratulations to the following boys and girls, all members of the Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club, who are celebrating their birthdays today:

Belmar—Grace Boyle, Robert Reidl, Gloria McKanley, Dorothy Geiger, Robert Denegan, Rehta Scott.

Enright—Mabel Marshall, Sadie Stein.

Etna—Joseph Kimball.

Manor—Marvin Stein.

South Hills—Sidney Droz, Betty Myers, Fred Saunders, Martha Strassburger, Sam Alexander, Miriam Bates, Wesley Crommiller, John Murray.

NOW WHITEN YOUR TEETH 3 shades in 3 days

If you think yellow, stained, unsightly-looking teeth are natural, start using Kolynos—a half-inch on a dry brush twice daily. In 3 days you'll see your mistake. Your teeth will look 3 shades whiter!

Kolynos—unlike any preparation you've ever used—contains two important ingredients that clean and whiten teeth remarkably. One—the finest cleansing agent known—erases stain and tartar, foams into every tiny fissure and washes away decay-causing debris. While the other ingredient kills the millions of germs that cause most tooth and gum troubles and helps to make teeth absolutely clean.

Thus Kolynos gently cleans teeth right down to the natural white enamel and soon makes them more attractive than ever. It refreshes the mouth and stimulates the gums. Buy a tube of Kolynos today.

Use Them If Possible

Even Though the Law May Not Require It, Voting Machines Should Be Installed Where Practicable.

Maj. William T. Rees, chief of the county election bureau, reports that it may be possible to use voting machines in 75 districts of the county at the November election.

The Square Deal party, it is explained, has nominated no candidates; consequently no reason is perceived why it should be given a column on the ballot. With its elimination there will be only nine parties entitled throughout the state to representation on the ballot, and the Allegheny County voting machines will take care of that many. In certain congressional and legislative districts additional parties have presented candidates, leaving only 75 districts in which the way is clear to use the machines.

The County Commissioners have asked the County Solicitor for an opinion on the question if it is mandatory for them to install voting machines where practicable.

It is to be hoped the Commissioners are not seeking an excuse to avoid using the machines in the 75 districts. Even though the law may not require their use, the machines should be used if possible. The voters will thus be educated in respect to their use, and the county will have at least a taste of the benefits that are to come when the machines are used in every district.

Half a loaf is better than no bread.

Indefensible Favoritism

The Pinchot Administration Continues the Undemocratic System of Special Auto Tags

A statement from Dr. Clyde L. King, secretary of revenue, warning motorists not to apply for specially numbered license plates for 1933, as they will not be issued, raised the hope that the undemocratic system was to be abolished.

But the hope was dashed as further reading disclosed that "the only special tags to be issued will be those from 1 to 1,000, 20 single letter tags, 2,000 single letter and number tags, such as A2, and 400 double letter tags," which will be given to persons approved by the Pinchot administration.

The exceptions to the new rule that no special tags will be issued are so numerous as to make the rule ridiculous.

The announcement that thousands of special tags are to be given to Gov. Pinchot's friends puts the Governor in the position of showing indefensible favoritism.

What is the purpose of reserving these special tags for the Governor's friends if not to impress the traffic police and others with the fact that the holders are persons of distinction and entitled to special consideration?

The plates should be issued in such a way that no special significance would attach to any number or letter or combination of them.

Teaching the Parents

The Sixth Traffic Essay Contest Has a New Feature Which Should Prove of Value

Adult traffic fatalities in Pittsburgh increased from 95 in 1924 to 136 in 1931. Child traffic fatalities decreased in the same period from 68 to 36. If child fatalities had increased at the same rate as the adult rate the number of children killed by automobiles in the seven years would have been 411 greater.

The children were being carefully taught through these years at both the public and parochial schools to obey the traffic laws and so to avoid accidents. One of the methods by which they were taught was the traffic essay contest sponsored by the Better Traffic Committee. In the contest last year 75,500 pupils participated.

In view of the good results that have followed the essay contests the announcement that another will be held, from October 3 to October 24, is to be welcomed.

The Sun-Telegraph expressed the wish recently, in commenting on the benefits of the traffic essay contests, that something of the sort might be devised for the instruction of adults. It is accordingly noted with pleasure that the new contest contains a feature through which it is hoped to reach the parents of the contesting pupils. The subject on which the high school students are to write is: "What I would suggest to cause adults to realize the importance of more careful voluntary co-operation with the traffic laws, which have been made for the protection of pedestrians and motorists."

Thousands of pupils, we expect, will consult their parents and other adults in getting material for their essays, and this will cause these grown-ups to think about the safety problem. The effect should be salutary.

Commercial Jackals

Twenty-eight Prosecutions Teach That the Benefits of Advertising Are Not to Be Stolen.

When a lion makes a kill, jackals, drawn to the scene, seek to snatch bits of the carcass.

The people of Pennsylvania have had their attention called to commercial jackals in 28 prosecutions instituted during the past month by the Bureau of Foods and Chemistry, State Department of Agriculture.

The defendants were venders who led customers to believe that certain frozen confections that they sold were a widely advertised product. They did this by selling the confections from containers and cabinets bearing the advertiser's name.

There is no allegation that the confections falsely represented as being the advertised delicacy were in any way inferior to the advertiser's product; but that does not alter the fact that a theft was committed—the venders stole the benefits of the advertising.

The law under which the prosecutions were brought is a wise one. Manufacturers and advertisers, as well as the public, are entitled to protection from this sort of misrepresentation.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Rapid Transit.
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall, seating at least 15,000.
6—Voting machines to insure honest elections.
7—Development of river transportation.
8—Development of air transportation.
9—Electrification of railroads.
10—Fair public utility rates.

A Five Point Plea -:- -:- -:-

Five more points are put before us
Vital points for us to ponder.
We cannot delay the answer,
To these very pressing questions.

Reddened leaves are swiftly falling,
In the chilly days of Autumn,
Warning of the coming Winter
And the needs of jobless thousands.

Love's Little Errors

Proposing is out of fashion. People just wake up to find themselves engaged. That is, the girl finds herself engaged—and the man wakes up.

The man who has been the life of the party the night before, is usually the man who has the worst headache next morning—just as the man who has been the most desperately in love, comes out of it filled with the bitterest cynicism.

The hardest thing to make any man believe is that when a woman says that she is "through," she sometimes actually means it—and is not just waiting to be kissed and coaxed to begin all over again.

That faraway, complacent smile on a man's face may mean that he is thinking something nice about you—but it more often means that he has just thought of something nice about himself.

* * *

The worst thing about teaching a woman to drive a car, says a regretful married man, is that it turns her from an admiring dependent into a sarcastic critic.

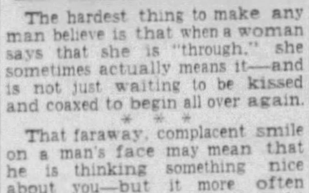
Mistaking a Lothario for a Lochinvar is the fatal error which nearly every woman makes once in her life, and which an idealist keeps right on making.



Some men manage to sail along safely on the placid waters of bachelorhood, until they are in the late forties—and then run into a fog and are wrecked on the reef of a foolish marriage to a little golddigger less than half their age.

When an only son marries, he is always just a "burnt offering" on the altar of Hymen, in his mother's secret opinion.

EUROPE DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS, Sept. 29.—Those chilly, bleakly indifferent warehouse-like buildings, housing great dressmaking salons, are surprising anthologies of life and sparkle inside. Once beyond the portals, I want to leap from my wheel chair and toss an exotic tango. A stiff shot of brandy is not more stimulating.

There is studied enchantment in the glitter of mirrors and sharp-angled chromium, deep vaulted rooms carpeted in plush, sedate gray uniforms of saleswomen, the shrill of page girls crying "Madame Jeannette," "Madam Vera!" and the slinky glide of the expertly coiffed mannikins.

"What a great place," I sighed as they slid sinuously across my path. "If one scrupled to pick up a wench." Not precisely in those words, but something like. This year the waist-line has been lowered and Milady's shoulders have been widened. The color is brown.

Patou was showing his winter collection and, after a sying of the coutureries, we wound up there. The great Jean himself once passed through the room, a symphony in autumnal brown, from boots to starched, chocolate collar. Indeed, not so much a symphony as a production. A true ladies' man, Patou!

As the beauties pirouetted in the sort of frocks Lois Long describes as "making beasts of men," a grande dame called, or rather chirped, their names. Fanciful, such as Aphrodite, Charley, Byzance and Javotte. Pert maids circulated with tea carts of creme de menthe, curacoa, kummel. Free, too—oo, la, la!

When I first started coming to Paris with my wife, 15 years ago, I used to think the most beautiful lady in all the town was the head saleswoman at Patou's in rue Florentin. I saw her today for the first time in 12 years. Time has wreaked its conscienceless ravage. What once appeared to be a delightful beauty spot was just another mole. The sheen of russet-red hair had become a dull and straggly indifferent gray and an erect carriage curved into a middle-aged droop. I wondered, providing she remembered me from those days, her thoughts at my changed appearance, too. How the twists of life squeeze us out!

It may disgust vintners and brew-masters, but I think the most definitely satisfying drink of all France is the sparkling hydrant water of Paris. It is almost grittily hard, but amazingly cool from the tap and refreshing. Contrary to the general opinion, all Frenchmen do not drink Evain or the hundred and one varieties of bottled table water. Nor do they always wash down food with wine. Six times out of 10 in restaurants you will hear them call for l'eau naturelle.

* * *

Paris, like all France, has no speed laws inside its historic gates. But a new law bans motorists, flying through the city from midnight until dawn, from disturbing sleepers with honking horns. Instead of honks, they must, when approaching crossings, flash headlights as warnings.

Everywhere Americans dine they may almost be certain to see the fiercely bewhiskered American sculptor, Jo Davidson. As omnipresent in Paris as Jules Glenzer in New York, he appears to come out of the woodwork. Davidson is a paunchy cavalier, whose aphorisms are said to cut to the quick, but who just as often exudes a fine burst of engaging warmth. I, somehow, mentally tag him: Jo Anderson, my Jo. This evening he was at Le Crémaillere with the lacquered Luza, Harper's Bazaar artist, swinging his stick and puffing strongly at his cigar. I have the altogether uncatty but entirely cheerful conviction that, great artist he may be, he is somewhat the poseur. As who isn't these days?

I've never prowled around that gloomy treasure trove of high art—The Louvre. But, like the Maine farmer going down to Bangor on a drunk, and "Gosh, how I dread it!" I must make the plunge. To the disgust of my wife, I've been wondering if I can, equipped with a pocket flash light, do it on roller skates.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Are you a middle-aged mother?

A miserable, middle-aged mother who feels that her life "has been one long sacrifice" for her children, and who is filled with self-pity and resentment because those children no longer make mother the center of their universe?

Then here's a story that's good for what ails you. It's a true story of another woman who has lived her life for her children, and how she feels about it now.

Twelve years ago (she's 48 now) she divorced the father of her four children, who were then 12, 9, 6 and 3 years of age. Since then, with a very little help from her father and the oldest boy, she has brought them up alone, doing all her own housework, besides holding a position as secretary in a business office.

And she hasn't been content to give them just a hand-to-mouth existence. It has been a good living. Three of them have high school educations. The oldest boy has a good trade. They live comfortably and entertain happily in a seven-room house.

On the day the mother wrote, the two oldest boys were out of the state on a week-end trip. The youngest boy was on a motor-boat trip with a party of chums. The little girl was away on an automobile trip with a party of friends.

And what was this mother doing there in that empty house, while her children went merrily forth seeking their own happiness? Was she brooding bitterly over her lost youth, over the long, toiling years of sacrifice? Was she shedding tears of self-pity because those children were neglecting Dear Old Mother?

Indeed she wasn't!

"I'm alone and I like it," she writes.

"Most of my women friends are horrified when they hear me say that, but it's true. I do like being alone by myself. I am never lonesome, nor do I feel neglected; FOR IN SPITE OF MY POSITION AS A MOTHER, I HAVE ALWAYS MANAGED TO REMAIN MYSELF—TO RETAIN MY OWN SEPARATE CAREER, MY OWN PERSONALITY AND MY OWN INTERESTS.

"I have lived for my children, but I have also lived for myself! I have not considered my work 'a sacrifice,' or a penalty which had to be borne because I was a mother. I have felt that I was living my own life when I worked.

"Most mothers seem to forget that. They act as if their children were to blame for all their hardships, and whenever they see their children happy, they rub it in.

"I have always done all I could for my children WITHOUT TOO MUCH WORK AND INCONVENIENCE TO MYSELF; FOR I NEVER COULD SEE THAT ANY GOOD CAME OUT OF A MOTHER MAKING A MARTYR OF HERSELF.

"And because I have enjoyed myself, my children enjoy me. They wait upon me, laugh and joke with me, and give me about two-thirds of their salary every week without my asking for it.

"I am still very young-looking, and keep myself so. I work hard to keep my own circle of friends and my personal interests, apart from my children's lives. I am always willing to play with my children, but I also realize that I have had my girlhood and I don't expect to live it over again in their youth. I believe in people of my generation 'acting their age.'

"MOREOVER, I HAVE PREPARED MY CHILDREN TO MAKE HAPPY HOMES FOR THEMSELVES, AND I AM LOOKING FORWARD TO THE DAY WHEN THEY WILL LEAVE ME AND GO INTO A GREATER HAPPINESS THAN I CAN GIVE THEM.

"Probably some of your readers will consider me an inhuman, unnatural and selfish mother because of this; and yet I know of no home that is happier than ours.

"Do you think I'm a failure?

"JANE HARDING."

Is she? What's YOUR verdict, stranger?

Roosevelt Creed: New Deal, Old Justice

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

In his speeches last week Mr. Roosevelt illustrated the sort of things he would stop were he in power, with references to the Insull scandal.

Meanwhile it was announced by the Federal Court that those who invested in Insull securities cannot hope to realize anything upon them.

And toward the last of the week it was announced from Washington that Mr. Hoover will give us a Federal probe into the Insull crash.

It has been months since the Insull crash; everyone has known that there was crookedness and probably criminality behind it; and the only thing that has occurred to so belatedly arouse Mr. Hoover's interest has been the speeches of Mr. Roosevelt.

Thus Roosevelt is making himself felt before he reaches the Presidency.

Nothing better could illustrate the desperation of the crumbling dynasty of the financial oligarchs in Washington than the present pose of Mr. Hoover on the power question. He made many speeches while in the Commerce Department scouting the need for Federal regulation; in the Presidency he has consistently aligned himself with the special, and against the general, interest and has made no pretense at enforcing the Federal water power act. But the point now is made that on four occasions he has "recommended" Federal regulation; he made his last recommendation of this sort after packing the Power Commission against the public interest.

Has Sponsored No Regulative Measure

But all that aside, the fact remains that he has sponsored no measure for such regulation, and there has been no Administration plan submitted. This proves one of two things: either the insincerity of his recommendation or a complete failure in his leadership. Mr. Roosevelt will lead.

The latter is now drawing to the close of his first tour and it is possible to make an estimate on his speeches. All have been good and sound in principle. They have exploded the silly propaganda about his wild-eyed "radicalism" and "demagogy." We do not recall a single sentence that would furnish the slightest justification for the charge. His railroad speech smashed that canard. And something more may be said along that line:

He has not uttered a syllable relating to any forms of business to which any honest man can take exception. He has attacked crookedness in Big Business—and the attack from some high quarter was long overdue. But for the crookedness and greed in high business and financial circles we would not now be entering the darkest winter of suffering the nation has ever known.

Nor has he uttered a word of injustice toward any form of business or any industry. He has merely contended, as every really intelligent man now knows, that all forms of business and all elements are interdependent; that there can be no discrimination against any one to its undoing without disastrously affecting every other in time. There is not a banker or manufacturer who does not know that his interest must suffer when agriculture is stricken down or when 11,000,000 breadwinners and wage earners are out of jobs. But there have been too many who have not thought along this line until recently.

Roosevelt's speech shows him standing for a national planning that will embrace all elements and industries in the program.

Most Impressive Of Speeches

To me the most impressive of the Roosevelt speeches, because the most fundamental, was that before the Commonwealth Club in San Francisco, a non-partisan organization. It was not a partisan speech, but an exposition of the candidate's political creed and his analysis of our political needs. He got down to cases and stated the real issue, which embraces all the others, in one sentence.

"The issue of government has always been whether individual men and women will have to serve some system of government or economics or whether a system of government and economics exists to serve individual men and women."

That is fundamental and, as Roosevelt points out, goes back to the original differences between Jefferson and Hamilton. Issues change, problems differ as time goes on, but the fundamental difference in the two schools of political thought is always the same.

In this remarkable speech Roosevelt understandingly sketched the appearance of new forces in American life, which came first with the industrial revolution, and then, with the passing of lands and natural opportunity for the average man. He sees where, in the early republic, it was political equality and opportunity that government had to maintain, and how today it is economic. But in the field of economics, as well as politics, government has its obligations to the whole of the people.

Mr. Hoover interprets individualism as the right of the powerful to do whatever they wish in the building up of their fortunes; and Roosevelt knows the domination of a financial oligarchy destroys individualism for the masses of the people. It is Roosevelt, not Hoover, who is fighting for individualism.

'Best Minds' That Were None Too Good

When Mr. Harding came in with the "Best Minds," that have been none too good, the demand was that government keep hands off and let business go its way. The result is that government practically abdicated its function as the protector of all the people, that Big Business and Big Finance ran amuck, and in the end slashed the throat of prosperity for all of us. Special interests were given a free hand, and with the greed which goes with special interests, they made the most of it. As Roosevelt says:

"Each group has sought protection from the government for its own special interest without realizing that the function of government must be to favor no small group at the expense of its duty to protect the rights of personal freedom and of property rights of all its citizens."

And so the government abdicated, and the special interests were delighted, and the masses lived in a fool's paradise for a season until the crash came. Meanwhile privilege has been concentrating economic power on which all our lives depend in 600 great corporations that control two-thirds of American industry. And Roosevelt warns:

Industry Controlled By Few Corporations

"If the process of concentration goes on at the same rate, at the end of another century we shall have all American industry controlled by a dozen corporations and run by perhaps a hundred men."

Now that state of things would not have disturbed Hamilton, who believed in the domination of the many by the few; it would have disturbed Jefferson. And it disturbs Roosevelt where it does not disturb Hoover. If you would know the difference in spirit and approach of the two candidates, read the Commonwealth Club speech of Roosevelt—one of the finest, I think, ever delivered by a presidential candidate. The tragedy in America has been in the spirit and outlook of our rulers; and if you would know the spirit which animates the man who will be the next President read this San Francisco masterpiece.

It means the change we want.

It means the new deal we purpose to have.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Work

Day's end, and toil too soon is done;
The clay is shaped; the net is spun.

Sometimes our dream harsh life denies:
Then labor soothes and satisfies
The longing else too keen to bear,
The pain which might become despair.

Oh, it is good to mould the clay
To shapes of use through day on day;
And it is good to feed the loom
And see the pattern freshly bloom!

Day's dawn, and toil will come again,
With joyous note through life's refrain!

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?
